

Who Polled The Wool Over G.O.P. Eyes?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK —(AP)— Republicans who stayed up all night at national headquarters to celebrate looked at dawn Wednesday like haggard brides left waiting at the church. It was so quiet around the Hotel Roosevelt that you could hear a poll-taker's chin drop.

But if there was a poll-taker in the place he wisely kept his mouth shut. There were no Republican chins any longer able even to fall open.

It was a scene of political carnage over which spread the lengthening shadow cast by the little man from Missouri. Harry S. Truman, stubbornly riding out threats of a Republican landslide, had lived up to the tough motto of his state — "you got to show me."

Win, lose or draw, he had almost single-mouthed — smashed Republican hopes of gaining control of both Congress and the presidency.

The tidal flood of Democratic votes completely ruined the Grand Old Party's brand new victory party.

Some 300 happy party workers crowded into the gold ballroom of the hotel, confident they could see a Democratic debacle.

A score or more television and newsreel cameras were trained on the flag-draped balcony, where Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was expected to deliver his victory speech before midnight. Rumor said his aides had composed the speech two days ago.

The crowd stirred uneasily as early returns showed Truman ahead. But they cheered when Campaign Manager Hebert Brownell, grinning widely, stepped out on the gallery and minimized the figures — again predicting victory. It was the last grin of the evening.

Some Republicans left then, sure Dewey had won. But they were probably the only ones who got a good night's rest.

After midnight deepening alarm swept the gaily-bannered room. The faces of the crowd were a slow-motion study of confidence changing from surprise to doubt, from doubt to disbelief — and then to stunned fear and panic.

As Truman bobbed up like a cork, the Republicans began to drift home, disillusioned. "And I waited for this night 16 years," said one old man sadly, as he departed.

The announcement Dewey had carried New York State gave only a momentary lift.

TO-DAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

NEW YORK —(AP)—Bob Stanton, sports and special events broadcaster who has had experience in both radio and television for NBC, thinks the television fan writes a much warmer fan letter than does his radio counterpart.

Bob says he noticed this specifically in a checkup he made on three football games in which he supplied the verbal fill-in for the cameras. Of 1,500 letters received, the great majority of the writers expressed the feeling of a personal touch they seemed to gain from watching and which they indicated was lacking through ear appeal alone.

A similar trend has been reported by Milton Berle, now doing a weekly variety series for ABC radio and another for NBC television.

Beginning next week, CBS is starting what it lists as a "You and—" discussion series, in which, at 6:15 p. m. Mondays through Fridays, a wide range of subjects will be explored. The various themes, opening with "You And Television," will be allotted five days each. The second week it will be "Your Money."
