Briefs From Around Town

'On The Square' To Open Tonight

The Junior Chamber of Commerce's annual blackface minstrel show will give way today to a city-inspired revue "On the Square." The opening performance is scheduled at 8:15 p.m. today at Ovens Auditorium.

Written by Loonis McGlohon and directed by Norman Private, the musical lampoons Charlotte personalities. Eight original songs are in the production, including the title song "On The Square."

The beginning of it all, according to "On The Square," is an invitation extended by the City Council to the "Duke of Mecklenburg." His troubles with Councilwoman "Marsha Edwards" and getting involved in local affairs form the plot of the musical.

The revue is scheduled to be presented each night through Saturday at 8:15 p.m.

Clear Creek Honor

Clear Creek community, first prize winner in the recent community development contest, will be represented Thursday at the 1 p.m. luncheon meeting of the Charlotte Kiwanis Club at the Elks Club. Charlie Hunter, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Committee, will also appear on the program.

Tate Ends Tour

Howard Tate, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Tate of Belmont, was to return home today after a five-month good-will tour with a 46-man choir from Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J. Mr. Tate is a graduate of the college and took a post-graduate course last year.

A. G. Seniors Visit

The senior class of Alexander Graham Junior High School, 147 students, went to Raleigh Friday for the class's annual trip to the state capital. The group, with eight adults, visited the General Assembly, museums in Raleigh, and the campuses of Duke University and the University of North Carolina.

Dimes Check Sent

A check for $7,012.50 was sent to Gaston County headquarters for the March of Dimes, Belmont's contribution to the drive. J. W. Goins was treasurer for the March of Dimes in Belmont, and Norman Bentley and Furman Groner, co-chairmen.

Registration Set

Villa Heights School will register pre-school children Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Trusts Speaker

Trusts — how they are set up and how they operate — will be the subject Thursday for Julian Squires, trust officer at Commercial National Bank. Mr. Squires will speak at the 1 p.m. luncheon meeting of the Exchange Club of Charlotte at Chez Montet, Hotel Mecklenburg.

Berry To Speak

Floyd Berry, engineer for Southern Engineering Corp. of Charlotte, will speak at 7 p.m. today at the meeting of the Belmont Lions Club at the American Legion Building. He will talk about the dome of Charlotte's coliseum and show movies of its erection.

Shakespeare Offering

Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" will be presented Thursday through Saturday at 8 p. m. in full Elizabethan costume by the Central High School players in the school's auditorium.

Thomases On Program

Winifred MacBride Thomas, concert pianist, and Christopher J. Thomas, composer, will be on the March program of the Charlotte Music Forum for Piano Teachers meeting Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the public library's Mayo Room.

Beekeepers To Meet

Mecklenburg Beekeepers will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the county courthouse.

Library May Profit

The Charlotte Public Library may become a depository for Atomic Energy Commission classified material Hoyt Galvin, library director, told a meeting of Charlotte Engineers Club Monday. The library is already a depository for ACE's non-classified material.

'Spirit Of St. Louis' Looks Like A Big 'Un

By EMERY WISTER
(Charlotte News Amusement Editor)

"The Spirit of St. Louis" is at long last on the screen, a monument to a great man. Hollywood and Jimmy Stewart's aching back.

The picture is all and only about Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's history-making, non-stop flight from New York to Paris in May, 1927.

To put that story on film, producers:

Shot 553,200 feet of film.

Okayed 730,000 man hours of work in writing, filming, building sets, editing film and other necessary chores.

Sent actors and crew members on trips that added up to 26,719 air miles, and 1,254,739 passenger miles.

The company crossed the borders of 23 countries and underwent customs inspection 32 times in shooting the 553,200 feet of film. From 150,000 to 200,000 feet of film is exposed in filming the average picture.

Three replicas of the original Spirit of St. Louis which Lindbergh flew to Paris were used. One of them, actually flown by Stewart, racked up 723 hours in the air. This is almost double the number of hours the original ship was flown before being placed in Washington's famed Smithsonian Institution.

The three planes used consumed 13,396 gallons of gasoline.

For the record this one runs two hours and 15 minutes. The story begins when Lindbergh decides to try for the $25,000 offered the first flier who makes the New York-Paris hop, and ends after he has touched down on Paris' Le Bourget field.

The picture was in production for a year or more. Much of it was filmed in Paris where fog and the lack of it hampered production.

First, the fog came rolling in when it shouldn't have and extended shooting schedules and sent costs soaring to the sky.

But when time came to shoot Lindbergh's dramatic takeoff from Long Island, there was no fog and there had to be. More time and money went up the creek waiting for the fog to come in.

Finally, the location scenes were completed and the company headed back to New York.

That's when Jimmy Stewart hurt his back.

It happened at night on a ranch 25 miles from Hollywood. It was a scene where he had just bailed out of a mail plane and was trying to free himself from the parachute rigging. Along came a 25-mile-per-hour wind and sent him tumbling head over bootstraps over a stubby corn field. Jimmy's back was in braces for weeks.

Most any picture that's worth its box office salt these days is over two hours in length. At 135 minutes this one is no exception.

But this looks like my kind of a big picture. It's big without being a spectacle and without the screen being forever cluttered with masses of humanity.

It's big with story and not just in length of time and size of screen.

"Spirit," then, looks to be big in heart and story. It must be your kind of a big picture too.

COMPLETING PLANS for the local observance of World Day of Prayer is UCW chairman Mrs. Henry Fisher (right) who is shown with Mrs. Lewis Townsend, the observance's leader at St. James Methodist Church.

World Day Of Prayer Services Set Friday

World Day of Prayer services will be sponsored Friday by Mecklenburg United Church Women at ten local churches.

Those attending the services are asked to bring clothing to be distributed abroad for Hungarian and other relief by the Church World Service.

The schedule of the meetings and leaders follows:

Sugaw Creek Presbyterian Church, 10:30 a.m., Mrs. Ed Furr; Park Road Baptist Church, 10:30 a.m., Mrs. E. Payson Mallard. St. Peter's Episcopal Church, noon, Mrs. Leslie Barnhardt.

St. James Methodist Church 2 p. m., Mrs. Lewis Townsend; Westminster Presbyterian Church, 3 p.m., Mrs. Gayle Rogers; Plaza Presbyterian Church, 3:30 p.m., Mrs. Frank Savage.

The Methodist Home, 4 p.m., Miss Roberta Culler; Ebenezer Baptist Church, 4:30 p.m., Mrs. F. J. McGill; Providence Methodist Church, 7:30 p.m., Mrs. Jacob Lackey; and Williams Presbyterian Church, 8 p.m., Mrs. Lee Kerns.

This is the 71st anniversary of the Day of Prayer which is a world-wide observance sponsored by the NCW of National Council of Churches.

Charlotte is among some 20,000 communities in this country which annually holds special services.

The theme for this year's observance is based on the New Testament text, Romans 8:35, "Who Shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine or nakedness, or peril, or sword?"
