War's No. I Document

Before the opportunity passes, let us so the that the simple, factual sistement which is perhaps the most importunity with made in this war was elicited i given to the world by a reporter in i.e. of work. Joseph Stalin, Fremier, War Commissar, General Secretary of the Communits Party and retting Charmain of the Defense Council, is not only leader of the world's champion fighting nation. He is also the foremost disciple silence in official community of the more considered for the world's champion fighting nation. When Henry Cassidy of the Associated Press wrote him a note asking three questions of vital importance to the varings world, and drew forth a full spaying and the secret of the inverse—and miraculously received as the secrets of the inverse—and miraculously received as only. And that is not to say that Cassey is anything less than a crack receiver. This one feat only confirms his sellity.

position to give them to the world. The world, Allied and Axis, went into a dither of discussion, where is the speeches of other leaders who are given to frequent public ulterances. Here is a time, more stirring than the deliberate words of Churchill or Rossevelt in London or Washington. Here are words not to be compared with the frenzies of Berlin. The long-suffered most in the war had outdone them all. His words, only a little note to an Irleh-American reporter, were louder and clearer than all the rest.

It will be something for the books: Yes, Mr. Cassidy, the Second Front is of first-rate importance to us. Well. Mr. Cassidy, Allied aid has been of little consequence so far. Ah, Mr. Cassidy, Russian solity to restait as greater than that of the German brigands.

Now, if this double play, Stalin to Cassidy to the world, doesn't come to be a collector's item, what else of our times will?

Gas Truck Supplies the Ultimate in Lessons

Ultimate in Lessons
We did not have the heart, immediately after that holocaust near Lumberton last Saturday in which eleven persons (twelve, finally) lost their lives, to say that it was bound to have happened sooner or later, But it was. Whenever and wherever so voisitie a fuel as gasoline is transported in quantities of three or four thousand gallons at a fast clip over highways on which other vehicles are which-shing, the stage is set for conflagration, and for the extinction of human life. of human life

It need not be, as it appeared not to have been in the Lumberton tragedy, the fault of the driver of the tank truck. We daresay that, acutely aware of the inflammable nature of his freight, the

We dareasy that, acutely aware of the tank driver is to be counted on for extraordinary alertness and caution. But even if it is the other fellow who causes a wreck, tank trucks which may explode or loose a roaring cascade of liquid fiame on the highways are not congenial traveling companions. For some years The News has advocated in the interest of highway safety, the strictest regulation or outlawing of these trucks. We have a file full of reports of wrecks in which they were moved, some of them pretty coatly in terms of human life. This leat one caps a long-drawn-out climax, yet finds the essential commodity of gasoline so difficult to obtain that nobody would go further than to propose that as long as they have to run, they be run at slow speed and with prayer.

Dear Sir:

If has been suggested that the city schools open at 2.3° or 10 A. M. In order to relieve the monthing traffic evagation to any consecution prior to the opening of the schools. If by opening the schools at 2.30 or 10 A. M. instead of nine did relieve the congestion would not relieve the attention to the appearance of the schools.
