Thumbs Dourn On Deucy
As U. S. World Leader
The Presidential campaign of 1944, a week of which remains, has been extraordinary in this particular, at least—it has produed one of the most baldfaced exhibitions of buff ever played before the American people. Before developing that theme let's go back a little.
When it came time for the Republican candidate to determine what line he would rat on world affairs. he faced and diemma-lik have the himdimination displaying the eraved ignorance of what was abaning up in the world even when!
It was on the point of happening. He knew that his party was hooked with one of the sortiess! legislative records ever compiled in a critical period by any partyr anywhere. He knew that his task was not only to win new woters luit to hold the standpatters, the American protyr anywhere. He knew that his task was not only to win new woters luit to hold the standpatters, the American protould be ino apologies and in excuese for anything.

Billi a candidate had to have something to talk about.
The country and what the New Deal had done to it.
Ryen so, the world was an istem, perhaps (O, herrid thought the most important of all the issues, and the people scene bound and determined to talthe postion that the country and what the New Deal had done to it.
