WASHINGTON (The People Want A Change) There is no doubt in my mind that all things being equal, the people would like a change of government in Washington...

Sectionalism plays a great role in disunity. The Democratic Party represents the great cities, the newer generations of Americans and the South...

It is difficult to pin down a name, though not at all difficult to feel them. Senator Norris, for instance, is an American progressive...

part of these states should have the greatest freedom of American self-dependence. But it is not remarkable that it should also remain the most idealistic internationalist...

But no part of the country kindles more spontaneously as wide as their own wheat fields. The Middle West does not take kindly to world wars, but it can ignite to World Peace...

No party in this country has a monopoly on vices or virtues, or on liberalism or conservatism, or on the virtues of the various sections and groups...

"This is a very refined civil, Senator, but I'm sure the girls won't mind if you'd like to do a little mud-slinging!"

Hawaiian Judge Doesn't Believe In Martial Law

The decision of the Hawaiian Judge, Delbert E. Metzger, that the need for martial law in his islands was invalid has raised anew an interesting—and vital—point. The bench, in effect, has defied military government of the territory...

But the decision, which is being appealed further. The judge, as a layman, challenged the testimony of Admiral Nimitz and General Richardson as to the need for martial law...

The most recent crisis in a long Hawaiian debate over the question whirled about the sentence imposed upon a civilian workman found guilty of attacking two Marines...

Regardless of the conflicting opinions of military men and judge, we cannot believe that anything less than full military control will suffice for Hawaii...

Harsh Words

Why Can't We Break? With These Neutrals?

At long last, we are beginning to look Hitler's furious allies in the eye, sternly. Since the start of the war we have smelted timidly at them, blushing at each request that these neutral nations cease aiding the enemy...

But now, stern talk may not be enough. Admittedly, it will still be difficult to halt shipments of war material and oil from Spain into Germany...

The closing of life's borders may be enough to safeguard invasion plans from Axis agents, but emphatic language may not be sufficient to dissuade Spain, Portugal, Turkey and Sweden from continuing to supply vital materials to Hitler...

General MacArthur Lightly Toots A Horn

It may be, as the experts assert, that General Douglas MacArthur's tacit admission of interest in the Republican Presidential nomination came too late to halt the sure-fire selection of Tom Dewey...

Indirectly, in his letters to Nebraska's Rep. Miller, he endorsed the Republican anti-New Deal stand, and expressed fears for the future of the Republic...

Not only do the letters come too late, they carry the message of the same old message. So far as we can see, the communications do not at all improve the General's position...

No Bonanza

Now They Want a Bonus For War Workers!

This time, we'll vote with Jimmy Byrnes. He speaks against a proposal to hand out dismissal pay to war workers as part of the reconstruction plan...

If these men and women, millions of whom are enjoying the biggest incomes in the nation, are not providing for the day when the war plants close down, then it is not a responsibility of the Government to care for them...

Our first responsibility is to our servicemen and women. They will be given mustering-out pay, and preference in the search for employment. To be sure, anything like a major dislocation of war workers resulting in mass unemployment will bring chaos to the country...

If persons who drove away with a police speed car in Maryland will return the vehicle, they may keep the car.

Now Then—Hatch It Out

I WAS all right with my five, storekeepers until they were replaced by Waifs. The Waifs were all right, but it took me two months to get them ready. They were not at home, I often worked late at night correcting their mistakes...

What Now, GOP?

By Samuel Grafton

THOSE Republicans who have been making a living by knocking off Mr. Dewey are other work to do. The job of knocking off Mr. Dewey was through the cabinet...

To fight Mr. Willkie was a rather easy way to make a living. He offers ponder the varieties of war and peace. Col. McCormick and his friends are better than the rest...

Well, now. Here we have a group of men who are obviously in panic flight from reality. They knocked Mr. Willkie down, but now they have the ball themselves...

Hull Couldn't Tell All

By Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON (The People Want A Change) While Secretary Hull said more positively than he has ever done before that there is no prospect of France, discuss the delicate questions that have stirred the minds of the people...

Now in 1944, the shadow of another election beclouds the decisions that must be reached by the partners. There are the natural impatience of most Americans to get an idea of the shape of things to come...
