

Salvation Army Aids 1,742 Persons

WITH Empty Stocking Fund checks, the Salvation Army this week aided 1,742 individuals on Christmas Day, and this does not include the tremendous Christmas tree program carried out by the Salvation Army with the aid of the Empty Stocking Fund.

In all, this agency, working in co-operation with public and private agencies through the "Empty Stocking" Committee's Christmas Bureau, handled 10,000 Christmas stockings for the needy. A lot of very empty stockings were filled.

Five hundred and fifty-eight children who were underprivileged by the war were given stockings. These checks, which were Empty Stocking Fund checks, totaled $4,240.

Of the nearly 2,000 persons receiving aid, 149 were individuals and 1,851 were families. These people, so often forgotten in the rush to see that no child had an empty stocking on Christmas morning, were especially appreciated.

Then there were 68 couples or families of two, in some cases a widow with one child. These families received the Empty Stocking Fund aid through the Salvation Army.

Beneficiaries received the most attention, primarily because Christmas is a family time. Two hundred and eighty-five families received assistance from the Empty Stocking Fund. These families numbered from three to fourteen members.

Children in boarding homes were not forgotten either. Ninety of them were given stockings by the Salvation Army, and others were remembered by the Family and Children's Service, a community agency which also receives Empty Stocking Funds each Christmas time.

Three children who are cases of the Mental Hygiene Clinic were aided also. Therapeutic toys, which have no commercial purpose, were purchased for them.

Every one known to the agency and the needs were aided if he was in real need. The program was the most complete ever conducted in the city, and it was directed by persons who knew what they were doing.

Although the old, the young, the ill and the aged, the accident victims and the needy were arranged for those who would receive no toys or have only one, which was a stocking. The toys at the Salvation Army center, were big, old-fashioned, and there were presents for all underneath them.

More details on the program for children will be given tomorrow.

Indice Fiend Admits Error

PRAGUE.—(AP)—Karl Hermann Frank, the butcher of Lidice, admitted today that he had erred in the Sudeten German Party from 1933 because of his "naïveté" in joining the program to re-Germanize Bohemia.

Interviewed in the prison where he is held, Frank was asked why he had joined the party. He said he was convinced that Nazism was the future of the world.

The man who was the Nazi chief in Lidice-Motava when all the inhabitants of the town were massacred or deported is a gloomy figure now as he sits brooding.

Frank did not want to talk about Lidice. But he talked freely about what he regarded as the cause of his misadventure. In earlier affairs, he said, the Nazis erred worst through an "exaggerated notion of the future."

"They attempted too much," he said.

His chief error in internal affairs was the Nazi system of dictatorship which became responsible, and could not be people away from their true nature.

FRANK ADMITS HE WAS A CZECH CITIZEN

Frank himself is a Czechoslovak citizen, he said. He was a German agent. He was a leader of the Sudeten German Party which helped to bring about the Munich accord to enter Czechoslovakia.

Bronchitid unwillingly in the subject of Lidice, Frank was asked if it was justified if the Czechs, with understandable grievances, were to liberate Lidice and wipe out its inhabitants.

Frank pondered long and then replied: "No, that would not be justified—by the laws of humanity."

The tall, spare prisoner was still wearing his SS uniform. About his neck he is kept out of the world, ignorant of current events. He does not know where he is, a trial at Nuremberg.

U. S. Plane Bears Million In Delays

MADRID, Dec. 26.—(Delayed)—The U. S. Army C-47 transport plane, carrying $1,000,000 in German gold, left the Madrid strip today, following an en route for Frankfurt, where the money will be turned over to the Allied Control Council.

The gold, in English and U. S. currencies, was turned over to the Spanish Government by the German Embassy when the Nazis captured Madrid in 1939. It was held in the Spanish Government's vaults for ten days ago to turn the gold over to the British and American representatives.

Atomic Control, Joint Man Rule Agreed Upon

Disaster May Strike Vessel Calls For Aid When Bomb Cargo Breaks Loose

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The Henry D. Thoreau, a Liberty ship out of Naples, Italy, for Cape May, N. J., messaged the Navy here today that 5,000 tons of bombs were breaking loose and "if they give away entirely nothing can save us." The Navy said it was not a troopship.

The Thoreau reported she was about 420 miles southwest of the Azores, the Navy said, adding she had a normal crew of about 40 men.

Safe Journey Truman's Plane Reaches Capital

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The plane bearing President Truman back to Washington from Missouri landed at Washington at 2:28 P. M. (EST), today.

The trip from Kansas City required four hours and 51 minutes.

The President's big C-54 took off from its runway at Kansas City at 9:37 A. M. EST for the trip. Weather conditions dictated the cancellation of a planned en route stop at St. Louis to pick up Vice-conviction Director Mrs. John W. Snyder and their daughter, Drusi. The Snyder flew with Mrs. Truman as far as St. Louis when he made the trip out on Christmas Day.

The Chief Executive hands in his top pocket and set back pulled down over his eyes was the first one to step down from the plane.

LANDED BY INSTRUMENTS

The Presidential plane came in from the west on instruments through a 900 foot ceiling to make the landing.

A crowd of several hundred, including servicemen waiting at National Airport for planes, gathered to see the President arrive.

Accompanying the President on the return flight were Mr. and Mrs. James Pendergast and their daughter.

The press plane took off for Washington at 12:05 P. M. CST, nearly four hours behind the President, after being delayed by bad weather and engine trouble. Originally scheduled to take off before the "Sacred Cow," the press plane was held up until the 200-foot ceiling lifted and then departed for Washington.

Some arrivals were operating in and out of Kansas City on delayed schedules. The sun played hide and seek with the clouds, shifting intervals and then disappearing behind cloud and fog banks. Several planes departed this morning, however, from independent and varied conditions elsewhere varied from normal to poor.

In an adjoining court-room, Truman's limousine Collides With Truck

KANSAS CITY.—(AP)—A Secret Service member, driving the White limousine scheduled to take off before the President Truman's departure for Washington today, said today that the car was damaged slightly, but no one was hurt.

The limousine, built originally for President Roosevelt and sent to Truman by the manufacturer, was damaged slightly, but no one was hurt.

Jap War Trials Allied Prisoners In Jap Camp Tortured Badly, Witness Says

By DUANE HENNESSY

YOKOHAMA.—(AP)—Allied prisoners of war in Fukuoka Camp in Japan were tortured and starved, testified today at the war crimes trial of Japanese Lt. Chotaro Furuhime, the camp commander.

Lt. N. E. Churchill of Toledo, Ohio, one of the officers who testified that the prisoners were tortured in starving one prisoner to death and brutalities against others.

Harmony In Evident In Decisions Korean, Chinese Issues Settled

By GRAHAM HOVEY

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Russia, aligned herewith today behind Anglo-American proposals to put atomic energy controls up to the United Nations and in turn won a voice in control of beaten Japan.

These two results highlighted the eleven-day meeting of Big Three Foreign Ministers in Moscow—a meeting which officially re-united the top wartime Allies in their efforts to solve the formidable problems of peace.

Breaking a deadlock in the negotiations which lasted nearly three months, the United States, Russia and Britain also agreed in a communique made public simultaneously in the three capitals last night on:

- 1. The necessary for a unified, democratic and independent government in China under the National Government headed by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.
- 2. The establishment of a provisional government in the long-suffering Korea with prospect of complete independence for that nation in five years.
- 3. Broadening the Governments of Romania and Bulgaria and plans for concluding peace with Germany.

Architects of these agreements were Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Foreign Secretary Bevin of Britain, and Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia.

They met in a conference which—in results—provided a sharp contrast to the Franco-German Foreign Ministers last September.

Yet many vexing problems remain unsolved and unsettled. Among them are the uprising in Soviet-occupied Northern Iran, the situation in the Balkans, the Straits, Germany's Western border, and a common Big Three front with the Franco Government of Spain.

Bevin told reporters in Moscow last night that the meeting had been discussed at length but without final agreement. He added, however, that the March 2 date for withdrawal of Russian and British troops from the little Middle Eastern country still will be maintained.

The United States has promised to have its forces out by Jan. 1.

But for the moment, by plane, undoubtedly considers that the meeting of the Big Three has accomplished much.

Certainly it cleared the air in British-American relations with regard to the atomic bomb, a successful first session of the

Atomic Bomb Plant Is Sued Girl Saved Open Safety Pin Removed From Throat

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Walter Knox, a 12-year-old boy, County, Tenn., has filed suit here for $20,000 damages he contends is due him from the atomic bomb works at Oak Ridge.

In his circuit court suit against Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation, Edwards declares he "inhaled" radioactive fumes from a "gas mask" which was "defective" and "poisonous" and "caused" his illness.

The girl and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Chernock, of Baltimore, Md., arrived at Miami Beach, Fla., for a winter vacation Tuesday, the family physician, Dr. Harry Goldberg said.

Eileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Chernock of Baltimore, Md., was vacationing at Miami Beach, Fla. For two days she had been suffering from a sore throat.

At Mercy Hospital, Dr. Waldman, Dr. Zinn, located and removed the pin with an esophageal tube and it was removed. He said the child was "very ill" and "suffering from a slight hoarseness" would be "in a day or two."

Mr. Chernock wasn't sure whether Eileen would return to Florida or not—right now she's glad to be off the island.

Challenges Board Plan To Consider Its Profits

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—General Motors Corp. withdrew today from President Truman's fact finding proceedings in the GM automobile strike.

The fact-finding board promptly announced it would continue its hearings regardless.

"We have withdrawn permanently, and I'm going back to New York," Mr. Gordon Merritt, GM attorney, told reporters.

General Motors withdrew because it challenged the inclusion of its profits as a factor in setting the 50 per cent wage increase demands of the CIO-Auto Workers Union.

Merritt flatly announced GM had withdrawn from the fact-finding board after first submitting a lengthy explanation of the company's position on the fact-finding proceedings.

Chairman Lloyd K. Garrison recessed a hearing in the investigation of the strike, at which time the board will make a short statement of its position.

The chairman said the fact-finding board has no intention of receding from or modifying in any way its position on the fact-finding which it declared GM's ability to pay would be one factor to be considered.

WILL PROCEED

After the recess, Garrison said "we will be prepared to proceed with the fact-finding mission."

Asked whether this meant the board could proceed without General Motors, Garrison replied with a "certainly."

In outlining GM's belief that "it has no choice but to withdraw from the proceedings" if the board considers profits, Merritt accused UAW of infringing on management rights.

As Merritt finished his long statement, Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president, vigorously accused Merritt of "misleading the facts" of the union's position because he hopes to gain some propaganda value from the withdrawal.

Reuther challenged Merritt to "find one word where we have said we wanted to usurp management prerogative or select management personnel."

Merritt, asked by reporters if he would answer, said "I will." See GM LEAVES on Page 5A.

Nine Are Killed Tommies Enforce Jerusalem Curfew

JERUSALEM.—(AP)—Helmeted British Tommies enforced a tight curfew in municipal and Jewish quarters of this ancient city today while investigations began of bombing and gunfire which last night killed at least nine persons and injured eleven.

Business was almost at a standstill. Thousands of persons in the curfew area were confined to their homes. Local telephone communications were officially reported killed and some morning newspapers did not appear.

Early in the day truckloads of civilians were seen rumbling up to detention barracks for questioning in connection with the bombings which destroyed the criminal investigation department headquarters.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a communique said. An Arab telephone operator was killed in the attack on the district headquarters. A British soldier was killed in the attempted strike at the arms store.

Killed in the explosions in Jerusalem, the communique said, were a British assistant police superintendent, two British constables and four Basutoland (South African) military policemen. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed. The superintendent was killed.

Squads of workmen dug through piles of rubble at the headquarters in Jerusalem, where seven per cent of the city's population lives and eleven injured either by gunfire or in a series of heavy explosions which damaged a three-block area in the heart of the city.

Eye witnesses were quoted as saying that six young men—some carrying pistols, some bomb-filled haversacks—shot their way to the gates of the police building, where they placed explosives which turned the place into a shambles.

At the same time, terrorists attacked district police headquarters in Tel Aviv, scene of riots last month in which nine Jews were killed, and attempted a raid on the Royal Engineers arms store at an exhibition grounds north of the city, a comm