Nagasaki's Bomb Put Hiroshima's In Obsolete Class

GIAM — (AP) — The second atomic bomb which wiped out 30 per cent of Nagasaki Thursday was described today by Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell as being a new type so powerful it made obsolete the kind which blasted Hiroshima Monday on the first use of the new aerial projectile.

Farrell said that the atomic bomb which was dropped on Nagasaki Thursday was "a new type of bomb, one which is more powerful than the one which was dropped on Hiroshima Monday."

Nips May Keep Emperor But He Must Take Orders From Allied Commander

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Allies told Japan today she could surrender and have an Emperor too — provided the throne takes orders from an Allied military commander and Nippon's people eventually determine their own form of government.

On behalf of the Big Four Secretary of State Byrnes sent this conditional acceptance of Tokyo's offer to give up.

The proposed military commander for Japan, the White House stated, would be an American, not yet designated.

The Allied reply put the next move up to the Tokyo Government. The terms acceptable to the Big Four will be transmitted to Switzerland where they will be handed the Japanese Minister for relay to his government.

Since transmission is handled by wireless, the surrender conditions deemed acceptable in Washington, London, Moscow and Chungking could be officially before the Japanese Government by nightfall, Eastern War Time.

It was considered doubtful whether a reply — and a possible end of the war — would be forthcoming before late Sunday or Monday.

The two principal conditions of acceptance:

The Emperor must subject himself to the orders of a supreme Allied commander.

That a government in Japan be ultimately established in accordance with "the freely expressed will of the Japanese people."

This language apparently did not offer any assurance of a permanent continuation of sun-god throne on which the Japanese people will themselves have the last say.

Byrnes laid out the following five conditions in his message to the Japanese:

"From the moment of the surrender the authority of the Emperor and the Japanese Government to rule the state shall be subject to the supreme commander of the Allied powers who will take such steps as he deems proper to effectuate the surrender terms.

"The Emperor will be required to authorize and ensure the signature of the government of Japan and the Japanese Imperial General Headquarters of the surrender terms necessary to carry out the provisions of the Potsdam Declaration and shall issue his commands to all the Japanese military, naval and air authorities and to all the forces under their control wherever located to cease active operations and to surrender their arms and to issue such other orders as the supreme commander may require to give effect to the surrender terms.

"Immediately upon the surrender the Japanese Government shall transport prisoners of war and civilian internees to places of safety as directed, where they can quickly be placed aboard Allied transports.

"The ultimate form of government of Japan shall in accordance with the Potsdam Declaration be established by the freely expressed will of the Japanese people.

"The armed forces of the Allied powers will remain in Japan until the purposes set forth in the Potsdam Declaration are achieved."

The Allied position was made known after a 24 hour period of conferences among the four capitals on Japan's offer to surrender if she could retain her Emperor.

The Allied offer would permit the Japanese to "save face" by retaining the Emperor as nominal head of the Government, as well as spiritual leader. The Japanese had said in a communication through the Swiss that their surrender offer was submitted "with the understanding that the said (Potsdam) declaration does not comprise any demand which jeopardizes the prerogatives of His Majesty as a sovereign ruler."

PRINCIPAL BARRIER

The question of retaining an Emperor on the throne had been the principal point at issue in Big Four discussions since the Japanese proposal first was received yesterday.

Recognition of the fact that the Emperor is the head of the Japanese Government and solely responsible under the Japanese Constitution for making peace was seen in that section of the Allied reply which said he will be "required to authorize and ensure the signature of the Government of Japan and the Japanese Imperial Headquarters of the surrender terms."

What It Means

WASHINGTON — (AP) — This is what the reply of the Big Four powers to the Japanese offer to surrender means in effect so far as the Royal House is concerned:

1. Because the Emperor is the key figure in Japan, the Allies will use him in ruling Japan.

2. But this doesn't mean the Emperor can keep his job indefinitely. He can keep it until some future time when the Japanese people can decide whether they want to have an emperor at all.

They'll be given a chance to vote on it.

(The Japanese people haven't had any choice like this. They've had an emperor, generation after generation, and thus until now have accepted the idea of having one.
