What's Ahead In The 'Cold War'?

PRESIDENT TRUMAN and Republican Nominee Dewey have been sounding the peace hope more positively. That is a natural phenomenon of the election campaign...

tainment movement without Russia having to fire a shot. The disturbances that have rocked the world in the last few years do more to vindicate the Soviet theory...

rather broad picture of the existing situation is given in articles on this page by Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of State, DeWitt MacKenzie and the brothers Alsop...

WHAT is the probable outcome of this "cold war"? Obviously the Russians hope it will end in the exhaustion of America...

In an earlier column, the Alsops held the explosion in Yugoslavia as a vindication of our Soviet-containment operation. The break confirms the basic theory of the American foreign policy...

Until we formulate a broader foreign policy than the one we now have, the danger of war developing from the two-world rivalry will be ever-present. We now face not only the urgent need to take a new opportunity to take a bolder step in peacemaking...

SOVIET strategy plainly is based on the attitude that the United States and its problems in Europe and Asia will disorganize and largely frustrate the Soviet-con-

Events of the last year have made it all too clear that the mood of the diffy Twenties and the isolationist philosophy of the Twenties are not dead...

Why We're Dumb In Politics

DAVID E. LILIENTHAL, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, answers the 864 question of this age: Why has man failed to exhibit the political intelligence which demonstrates massive brainpower in the fields of invention, science and industrial development?

In order to survive in this atomic age, man must produce miraculous results in the fields of science and politics his principal objective. Mr. Lilienthal declares it is obvious that he is right on both counts...

Tito Trouble

WASHINGTON. THE break between the Marshal Tito Yugoslav and the Soviet Union is being brushed aside as a question for the American policymakers. What do you think?

Even amid their jubilation, indeed, the milder spirits among the American policymakers are being inclined to find the whole business rather embarrassing. Nonetheless, it is possible to predict that the reasonably hard-headed realistic measures will ultimately be adopted.

The second incident concerned the $20,000,000 of Yugoslav gold which was being transferred to the United States. For many months, the dispute over this sum had gone on acrimoniously...

The Hour Of Decision?

America's Dilemma In Berlin

By SUMNER WELLES Former Undersecretary of State. THE hour of decision is upon us. A spectacular of the many signs that the anticipated European crisis may be near.

Western powers evaded Berlin, its inhabitants would be adequately provided for, and that their distress is solely the result of this Government's refusal to agree to a united Germany and to its demand that the Germans be kept in eternal subjugation.

THREE years ago the defeated and submissive German people looked to the United States as their only hope of salvation from Russia. Today German nationalism is resurgent and an increasing number of Germans believe that Germany's survival depends upon partnership with Russia.

AS Winston Churchill warned the other day, this is a determining moment. The United States cannot afford to retreat from the advanced position which our own family diplomacy has placed here.

THE Congressional quorum call is probably one of the best ways under American law to bring about a change in the House of Representatives.

THE Congressional quorum call is probably one of the best ways under American law to bring about a change in the House of Representatives.

THE horns of our dilemma are apparent. We cannot continue indefinitely to support the present German Government...

Drew Pearson's Hannegan Out-Talked By George Allen

BOB HANNEGAN, the man who made Harry Truman had lunch with his ex-boss in Washington just a week ago. Since he retired as Postmaster General and became ambassador to St. Louis, Cardinal, Hannegan has been little of the President.

Hannegan departed, vowing never to come back to Washington in January, 1949. Democratic Rollcall DEMOCRATIC bigwigs are starting for their Philadelphia headquarters for the annual convention of the party...
