Army Will Call Up 62,000 Additional Reservists

—TAPING OF POOL BEGINS NEXT MONTH

Tapping Of Pool Begins Next Month

Youths Without Dependents First

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army announced today it will call out 62,000 individual reservists during September and October, "with or without their consent," for 21 months of duty.

They will come from a pool of about 185,000 enlisted men reservists who are not members of the Organized Reserve Corps units. They will be used primarily to bring the National Guard and organized reserve units to full strength.

The group to be called out consists only of enlisted men, not officers.

The first 21,000 will be in camp by Sept. 15, the remainder by the middle of October, the Army's announcement said.

YOUNGER MEN FIRST

Those called first will be between 19 and 23 years old.

Priority will be determined by the number of dependents. Those with no dependents are to be called first, those with one dependent, second, and those with more than one dependent last.

This was the first time the Army has called up enlisted reservists who are not in units.

About 116,000 reservists who are in units and whose units have not yet been called out, are expected from the September-October call-up until it is planned to call them out as units.

Most of the enlisted reservists are veterans of World War II. The Army said that those members of the Selective Service Act of 1948 who were called up to serve for three to six years under the terms of the Selective Service Act of 1948 are to be called up on the same basis as all other reservists. This group, which is part of the 185,000-man pool, includes men who served on active duty for less than three years after the war and then reverted to reserve status.

The reservists will come from all parts of the nation. Quotas for Army units, which are about 100 in proportion to the total strength of the enlisted reserve corps in those areas, include:

Third Army (Georgia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida). 467.

Reservists first will be selected tentatively and ordered to their nearest military facility for physical examination. Then they will return to their homes and be ordered to active duty from there if their physical condition has been found satisfactory.

They will be given 21 days from the date of receipt of their orders to settle personal affairs before reporting to training divisions or recruit centers.

In addition to using the enlisted reservists for filling out National Guard and reserve units, the Army said it will use some of them as "key specialists" in expansion of the regular Army. This apparently would include such technicians as radio and radio men.

Commanders of the separate Army areas will decide what types of technicians they need and make their calls accordingly.

Soviet Would Ask Korean Reds To Join West Expected To Oppose Move

By MAX HARBELSON
"LAKE SUCCESS"—(AP)—Russia was reported ready today to demand that Communist North Korea be invited to take part in a three-day United Nations debate on the Korean conflict.

This report came from usually well-trusted sources at the Security Council prepared to come to grips with the Korean question if a Russian ultimatum to the United Nations attempt to avert the Russian attempt to avert the Korean conflict.

Western diplomats are expected to offer vigorous opposition to any move to bring the North Koreans to the council table.

But with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Yakov A. Malik presiding there could be a prolonged debate on the question of Communist North Korea in this country.

During previous council debates on Korea—while Russia was still a member—the United States and Great Britain invited the representative of South Korea, Ambassador John M. Chang, to take part. Malik is expected to ignore Chang.

The Council voted 4 to 1 yesterday to refer the Korean question to the Security Council. The Soviet Union was the only member to vote against the resolution.

It was then reported AP Correspondent William B. Whitehead, that the 20th National Communist Party of Korea had been invited to the Security Council by the Soviet Union.

Amended Controls Bill Junked

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House today jettisoned its mandatory wage and price curb bill and started over on the job of writing an economic control measure.

Beginning with the limited controls President Truman has asked, the House added an anti-hoarding provision as the first step in trying to put together a new and broader bill. Approved 112 to 46, this would make hoarders subject to a year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The mandatory wage-price bill, providing for ceilings to go on automatically if living costs rise 3 percent above the level of June 15, was denounced yesterday by President Truman. He called it an invitation for a 3 percent rise.

The House threw it out on a standing vote of 172 to 181 on which the members were not recorded by name. The idea had been tentatively approved yesterday 188 to 128.

The action left before the House controls bill providing only standards, allocation and priorities powers for the President, authority to requisition war-needed materials, to grant production loans and to curb hoarding.

SUBJECT TO CHANGES

This bill, however, was subject to amendment to add wage-price controls.

The junking of the mandatory bill climaxed four days of House maneuvering in this order:

The banking committee sent to the House floor a bill providing only the limited controls Mr. Truman had asked—man had asked— not including wage-price powers.

With Congress clamoring for some sort of wage-price controls, Democratic leaders offered a substitute providing power for Mr. Truman to stop hoarding on prices and wages and ration goods when and if he thinks those steps are needed.

By adoption of amendments, the House proceeded to rewrite the substitute. It voted for mandatory control powers eight months, added a "Buy American" clause and forbade controls on commodity market speculation.

The result was something completely unacceptable to the Truman Administration.

START OVER

So today's vote tossed out the amended substitute and left the House back where it started—the banking committee's bill. The House began then to deal with proposed changes in the committee.

First, Rep. Crawford (R-Mich.) wanted to change the policy declaration. He didn't like assertions that the bill powers were needed for the country's support of the United Nations and mutual defense.

His attempt to change the bill was defeated.

Next, Rep. Hiram Boren (O.) wanted to change the policy declaration. He didn't like assertions that the bill powers were needed for the country's support of the United Nations and mutual defense.

The two young men went to Hickory last evening to meet with friends. They were returning to Newton on the highway.

Investigation by State Highway Patrolman J. O. Bracy indicated that the right front wheel of the Hemby car hit the left rear wheel of a tractor-trailer operated by Pilot Trucking Co. of Winston-Salem. Practically no damage was done to the trailer.

The Cadillac car went out of control and skidded 300 feet before it plunged into the road into a patch of woods. Mr. Pease was thrown from the car when it plunged off the highway, Bracy said.

After breaking down several times, the Cadillac car was towed to the Newton hospital.
