

Fair and not much change in temperature today, tonight and Tuesday.

More Weather Data on Page 11-A

ESTABLISHED DEC. 8, 1888

First Allied Offensive

Lie Says U.N. Can Act Quickly

Would Call For General Assembly

By FRANCES W. CARPENTER
LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. (AP)—Trygve Lie said today the U.N. General Assembly could meet on 24 hours' notice in case of an emergency such as a new aggression.

The Secretary General told a weekly news conference he would be able to call the 39-nation assembly at such times.

He said the present rules provide for a 14-day period of notice to the assembly members, but that he believed he had the authority to act outside the rules in an emergency.

Some delegates have suggested the assembly meet immediately if the Soviet Union ties up the Security Council by using its veto power.

CANT VETO STEPS

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik, president of the council this month, threatened last week to use the veto if the council refused to invite the Communist North Koreans to take part in debate on the Korean war. He cannot veto on the Korean war. He cannot veto on the Korean war. He cannot veto on the Korean war.

But Lie said a bold and enlightened act of statesmanship is needed to remove negotiations on the world problems and to halt further deterioration toward a third world war.

He gave these views in his 14-page annual report to the assembly which he will present at the session at Flushing Meadows, New York City, Sept. 15.

Lie said that demands in some quarters that the U. N. declare the Soviet Union the aggressor in the Korean war.

"I really think still that the Soviet Union wants peace," Lie replied. "I will not go further into details on conditions. I still believe the hearts of the nations of the world today want peace. As for aggression against the Korean republic, my information is that the Korean republic was attacked by North Korean divisions."

Lie was asked about the use of Soviet material by the Communist North Koreans.

"I was asked about the use of Soviet material by the Communist North Koreans," Lie said. "I was asked about the use of Soviet material by the Communist North Koreans."

KOREA TOP PROBLEM

Lie repeated statements that the Korean war has priority over all other problems. He called for a meeting to settle the Korean war.

Lie was asked about the question of Chinese representation.

"I was asked about the question of Chinese representation," Lie said. "I was asked about the question of Chinese representation."

CHINESE INCREASING

Lie opened his conference with a statement on assistance offered to the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THE OLD SHAVER

Those three steps would not be taken in sequence. The bill would be taken in sequence.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

CHILDREN UNDER

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THIEVES LABOR LOST

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

NOT IN SEQUENCE

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

CHILDREN UNDER

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THIEVES LABOR LOST

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

NOT IN SEQUENCE

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

CHILDREN UNDER

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THIEVES LABOR LOST

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

NOT IN SEQUENCE

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

CHILDREN UNDER

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THIEVES LABOR LOST

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

NOT IN SEQUENCE

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

CHILDREN UNDER

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

THIEVES LABOR LOST

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

NOT IN SEQUENCE

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

Lie said the U. N. members should be asked to contribute to the relief of the Chinese people.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS BURY ENEMY DEAD

Two soldiers of the American 25th Infantry Division drop the body of a North Korean soldier to be buried. The American troops are taking all precautions against body-trapped bodies. (Acme Telephone)

Two soldiers of the American 25th Infantry Division drop the body of a North Korean soldier to be buried. The American troops are taking all precautions against body-trapped bodies. (Acme Telephone)

Controls Bill Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON—A Senate Banking Committee members today predicted completion by Wednesday of a home front mobilization bill giving President Truman a free hand to invoke wage-price controls.

The committee worked for three and a half hours behind closed doors. When the hour recessed for lunch, Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) and Senator Sparkman (D-Texas) reported considerable progress.

"We are going to stay at it, even though it becomes necessary, until we have finished writing a bill," Maybank said.

The Senate tentatively plans to start debating the bill Wednesday. Last Friday the committee approved the general principle of letting Mr. Truman put wage-price controls and rationing into effect if and when he sees fit. That is the sort of plan the President has said he would accept.

WRITING BILL

Today, Sparkman said, the committee bucked down to the job of actually writing a bill.

The sections tentatively approved at the committee's first session today provide, Sparkman said, for:

1. Encouragement of voluntary action by business, labor, agricultural and consumers designed to bring the wage, price and supply situation under control without manufacturing controls.
2. Selective use of wage and price controls in the case of operations on commodities — for example, metal or lumber. The committee would set no final authority as to whether price controls in those cases would be only at pre-retail level, or would include the retail level.
3. General wage, price and rationing controls. The section dealing with that authority says wage controls would have to be put into effect only in the case of operations on a selective basis "on materials, services and property comprising a substantial part of all sales at retail and materially affecting the living."

Those three steps would not be taken in sequence. The bill would be taken in sequence. The bill would be taken in sequence.

Amphibious Landings in Korea Not Likely

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON—A lack of transportation apparently precludes any early, large-scale effort to upland the Korean Red Army by amphibious or airborne invasion, according to military experts here.

Nevertheless, military men here are not disposed to rule out the possibility that the time will come for use in Korea of the sea-air invasion technique that helped win World War II campaigns in both Europe and the Pacific Islands.

Nor does it mean there won't be heavy ferries by small groups landing from ships for demolition and scouting purposes along the coast. The American Navy Force alone now has 100 amphibious landing craft. The departure from American West Coast ports of units of the First Marine Division led to a widespread expectation on the home front that a spectacular landing was imminent. The Marines' reputation for amphibious landing operations, which has been a source of pride and inspiration, is being tested in this country, the 8th and the 10th, which landed quietly at a South Korean port, then moved to the front to take up positions with troops already in battle.

Whatever the military or political value of putting a big force behind the enemy now — to divert some of his attack force to beachhead defenses — the odds are weighted heavily against it.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

On the other hand, the amount of available naval and air units needed to provide gunfire and air cover for a landing already is comparatively large.

The U. S. Navy, together with units of the British Royal Navy, is the Korean war, daily dumping large tonnages of shellfire on enemy lines. In addition, it has been dropping by carrier aircraft, the American Navy Force alone now has 100 amphibious landing craft. The departure from American West Coast ports of units of the First Marine Division led to a widespread expectation on the home front that a spectacular landing was imminent. The Marines' reputation for amphibious landing operations, which has been a source of pride and inspiration, is being tested in this country, the 8th and the 10th, which landed quietly at a South Korean port, then moved to the front to take up positions with troops already in battle.

Whatever the military or political value of putting a big force behind the enemy now — to divert some of his attack force to beachhead defenses — the odds are weighted heavily against it.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

President Given Full Briefing On War Situation

WASHINGTON—President Truman today received a full briefing on the war situation in Korea, including the latest reports from the front.

The briefing was given by General MacArthur, the Supreme Commander of the United States Army in Korea, and other high-ranking military officials.

President Truman is expected to make a statement to the press after the briefing.

The Score On U. S. Defense

Five Major Failures In Intelligence Reveal Need Of Unification

By ROBERT S. BEED
and GEORGE R. FLETCHER

Behind America's costly and belated effort to rebuild its crumbled national defense lies a history of failure in one of the most essential aspects of the nation's military establishments. That is the government's intelligence service—glamorous and dramatic as it is—its "cloak and dagger" operation, but in fact more a tedious desk job.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

France Will Boost Arms Expenditures

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
PARIS—(AP)—France pledged herself to a three-year rearmament program today to help guard against Communist aggression and called on Britain and the United States to station "a sufficient number of divisions on the continent of Europe."

Thus she joined the vanguard of European countries, who have announced their determination to step up spending for defense with the aid of American arms and money.

The government announcement said France will spend the equivalent of $5.1 billion next year. This would be an increase of 10 percent over 1950. It promised an immediate increase in military spending from 420,000,000 francs ($1,200,000,000) to 500,000,000 francs ($1,500,000,000) next year. This would be an increase of 12 percent of the national income to defense costs and a three-year program to spending to take at least 2 percent of the total income. Britain's stepped-up program will cost that much, too.

NO NEW DIVISIONS

The government said the program will give the French army fifteen divisions and the three-year program will give the French army fifteen divisions and the three-year program will give the French army fifteen divisions.

Marines and Doughboys Blasted Forward

TOKYO (Tuesday)—(AP)—American Marines and doughboys blasted forward an estimated four miles on the southernmost front in Korea Monday in their first offensive of the six-weeks-old war.

About 9,000 Americans and some South Korean commando units were thrown into the attack.

They advanced eastward with the crack North Korean Sixth Division. It is backed by two total around 15,000 men.

As the big push started, W. Averell Harriman, special foreign affairs adviser and assistant to President Truman, visited a front command post in Korea.

On his return to Tokyo, Harriman said he had found American military leaders and South Korean officials "very cheerful and optimistic."

The offensive had been under way only a short time when B-29s, some of them less than six days old, of the United States, plastered Pyongyang, North Korean capital, and the industrial city of Wonsan with 140 tons of bombs. This was the biggest single blow dealt this far in the Korean war.

RED LOSSES HEAVY

In the latest official field report from the front, the U. S. Eighth Army command said the total for missing reported from the Far East yesterday.

The Army said it was "trying to locate the missing." It is a dignified and considerate way to report the missing.

An officer said that the time lag in reporting casualties was due to the fact that the front in Korea is "more or less stabilized."

The "secret casualty list" reported by the Army spokesman said in answer to the question that the total reported by the Army's Adjutant General that handles casualty reports.

U. S. Casualties Are Announced

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army announced today that its Korean war casualty reports to families and released for publication through August 6 totaled 2,618.

There are additional casualties listed, awaiting release after notification of families.

The number of missing only among personnel, losses with other services have been relatively light.

The number of these casualties released for use shows 183 killed, 1,024 missing and 873 wounded.

The Army says "very strongly" that the "secret casualty list" reported by the Army spokesman said in answer to the question that the total reported by the Army's Adjutant General that handles casualty reports.

2 Florida Insane Fugitives Caught

CHATTANOOGUE, Fla.—(AP)—Two of eight fugitives from the mental hospital here in this state had been recaptured yesterday.

The two escaped inmates, all considered dangerous, remained at the hospital after the first was caught shortly after the break.

Albany, Ga., police picked up one of the men on a downtown street this morning when a resident spotted him, led in pajamas and read the name of the man, two days after the break.

The other man caught today was identified by hospital authorities as Charles Paul James. He was found asleep on the ground about two miles northwest of the hospital.

The eight prisoners, all wearing pajamas, escaped from the hospital at 2:30 A. M. Sunday. They fled in a station wagon, two foot. The other man was captured within two hours.

What's Inside

Classified Want Ads 25-75
Comics 60
Crossword Puzzle 60
Editorials 60
Farms and Gardens 60
General 60
New South 60
Radio Program 60
Society 60
Sports 60-65
Theater 60
Shipping 60
What's Inside 60-75
Women's Page 60-75

France Will Boost Arms Expenditures

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
PARIS—(AP)—France pledged herself to a three-year rearmament program today to help guard against Communist aggression and called on Britain and the United States to station "a sufficient number of divisions on the continent of Europe."

Thus she joined the vanguard of European countries, who have announced their determination to step up spending for defense with the aid of American arms and money.

The government announcement said France will spend the equivalent of $5.1 billion next year. This would be an increase of 10 percent over 1950. It promised an immediate increase in military spending from 420,000,000 francs ($1,200,000,000) to 500,000,000 francs ($1,500,000,000) next year. This would be an increase of 12 percent of the national income to defense costs and a three-year program to spending to take at least 2 percent of the total income. Britain's stepped-up program will cost that much, too.

NO NEW DIVISIONS

The government said the program will give the French army fifteen divisions and the three-year program will give the French army fifteen divisions.

American troops are taking all precautions against body-trapped bodies. (Acme Telephone)

Controls Bill Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON—A Senate Banking Committee members today predicted completion by Wednesday of a home front mobilization bill giving President Truman a free hand to invoke wage-price controls.

The committee worked for three and a half hours behind closed doors. When the hour recessed for lunch, Chairman Maybank (D-S.C.) and Senator Sparkman (D-Texas) reported considerable progress.

"We are going to stay at it, even though it becomes necessary, until we have finished writing a bill," Maybank said.

The Senate tentatively plans to start debating the bill Wednesday. Last Friday the committee approved the general principle of letting Mr. Truman put wage-price controls and rationing into effect if and when he sees fit. That is the sort of plan the President has said he would accept.

WRITING BILL

Today, Sparkman said, the committee bucked down to the job of actually writing a bill.

The sections tentatively approved at the committee's first session today provide, Sparkman said, for:

1. Encouragement of voluntary action by business, labor, agricultural and consumers designed to bring the wage, price and supply situation under control without manufacturing controls.
2. Selective use of wage and price controls in the case of operations on commodities — for example, metal or lumber. The committee would set no final authority as to whether price controls in those cases would be only at pre-retail level, or would include the retail level.
3. General wage, price and rationing controls. The section dealing with that authority says wage controls would have to be put into effect only in the case of operations on a selective basis "on materials, services and property comprising a substantial part of all sales at retail and materially affecting the living."

Those three steps would not be taken in sequence. The bill would be taken in sequence. The bill would be taken in sequence.

Amphibious Landings in Korea Not Likely

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON—A lack of transportation apparently precludes any early, large-scale effort to upland the Korean Red Army by amphibious or airborne invasion, according to military experts here.

Nevertheless, military men here are not disposed to rule out the possibility that the time will come for use in Korea of the sea-air invasion technique that helped win World War II campaigns in both Europe and the Pacific Islands.

Nor does it mean there won't be heavy ferries by small groups landing from ships for demolition and scouting purposes along the coast. The American Navy Force alone now has 100 amphibious landing craft. The departure from American West Coast ports of units of the First Marine Division led to a widespread expectation on the home front that a spectacular landing was imminent. The Marines' reputation for amphibious landing operations, which has been a source of pride and inspiration, is being tested in this country, the 8th and the 10th, which landed quietly at a South Korean port, then moved to the front to take up positions with troops already in battle.

Whatever the military or political value of putting a big force behind the enemy now — to divert some of his attack force to beachhead defenses — the odds are weighted heavily against it.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

On the other hand, the amount of available naval and air units needed to provide gunfire and air cover for a landing already is comparatively large.

The U. S. Navy, together with units of the British Royal Navy, is the Korean war, daily dumping large tonnages of shellfire on enemy lines. In addition, it has been dropping by carrier aircraft, the American Navy Force alone now has 100 amphibious landing craft. The departure from American West Coast ports of units of the First Marine Division led to a widespread expectation on the home front that a spectacular landing was imminent. The Marines' reputation for amphibious landing operations, which has been a source of pride and inspiration, is being tested in this country, the 8th and the 10th, which landed quietly at a South Korean port, then moved to the front to take up positions with troops already in battle.

Whatever the military or political value of putting a big force behind the enemy now — to divert some of his attack force to beachhead defenses — the odds are weighted heavily against it.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

President Given Full Briefing On War Situation

WASHINGTON—President Truman today received a full briefing on the war situation in Korea, including the latest reports from the front.

The briefing was given by General MacArthur, the Supreme Commander of the United States Army in Korea, and other high-ranking military officials.

President Truman is expected to make a statement to the press after the briefing.

The Score On U. S. Defense

Five Major Failures In Intelligence Reveal Need Of Unification

By ROBERT S. BEED
and GEORGE R. FLETCHER

Behind America's costly and belated effort to rebuild its crumbled national defense lies a history of failure in one of the most essential aspects of the nation's military establishments. That is the government's intelligence service—glamorous and dramatic as it is—its "cloak and dagger" operation, but in fact more a tedious desk job.

Every man with a gun in the Pacific zone seems to be needed badly in the defense line. There are no troops to spare or withdraw.

EQUIPMENT

Because the Pacific War was waged almost entirely by a series of amphibious landings, there are presumed to be a fair supply of landing ships and craft in General MacArthur's command. But it is doubtful that numbers and specialized types needed for a substantial invasion — a division or more — are immediately at hand and ready for service.

France Will Boost Arms Expenditures

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON
PARIS—(AP)—France pledged herself to a three-year rearmament program today to help guard against Communist aggression and called on Britain and the United States to station "a sufficient number of divisions on the continent of Europe."

Thus she joined the vanguard of European countries, who have announced their determination to step up spending for defense with the aid of American arms and money.

The government announcement said France will spend the equivalent of $5.1 billion next year. This would be an increase of 10 percent over 1950. It promised an immediate increase in military spending from 420,000,000 francs ($1,200,000,000) to 500,000,000 francs ($1,500,000,000) next year. This would be an increase of 12 percent of the national income to defense costs and a three-year program to spending to take at least 2 percent of the total income. Britain's stepped-up program will cost that much, too.

NO NEW DIVISIONS

The government said the program will give the French army fifteen divisions and the three-year program will give the French army fifteen divisions.

Marines and Doughboys Blasted Forward

TOKYO (Tuesday)—(AP)—American Marines and doughboys blasted forward an estimated four miles on the southernmost front in Korea Monday in their first offensive of the six-weeks-old war.

About 9,000 Americans and some South Korean commando units were thrown into the attack.

They advanced eastward with the crack North Korean Sixth Division. It is backed by two total around 15,000 men.

As the big push started, W. Averell Harriman, special foreign affairs adviser and assistant to President Truman, visited a front command post in Korea.

On his return to Tokyo, Harriman said he had found American military leaders and South Korean officials "very cheerful and optimistic."

The offensive had been under way only a short time when B-29s, some of them less than six days old, of the United States, plastered Pyongyang, North Korean capital, and the industrial city of Wonsan with 140 tons of bombs. This was the biggest single blow dealt this far in the Korean war.

RED LOSSES HEAVY

In the latest official field report from the front, the U. S. Eighth Army command said the total for missing reported from the Far East yesterday.

The Army said it was "trying to locate the missing." It is a dignified and considerate way to report the missing.

An officer said that the time lag in reporting casualties was due to the fact that the front in Korea is "more or less stabilized."

The "secret casualty list" reported by the Army spokesman said in answer to the question that the total reported by the Army's Adjutant General that handles casualty reports.

U. S. Casualties Are Announced

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Army announced today that its Korean war casualty reports to families and released for publication through August 6 totaled 2,618.

There are additional casualties listed, awaiting release after notification of families.

The number of missing only among personnel, losses with other services have been relatively light.

The number of these casualties released for use shows 183 killed, 1,024 missing and 873 wounded.

The Army says "very strongly" that the "secret casualty list" reported by the Army spokesman said in answer to the question that the total reported by the Army's Adjutant General that handles casualty reports.

2 Florida Insane Fugitives Caught

CHATTANOOGUE, Fla.—(AP)—Two of eight fugitives from the mental hospital here in this state had been recaptured yesterday.

The two escaped inmates, all considered dangerous, remained at the hospital after the first was caught shortly after the break.

Albany, Ga., police picked up one of the men on a downtown street this morning when a resident spotted him, led in pajamas and read the name of the man, two days after the break.

The other man caught today was identified by hospital authorities as Charles Paul James. He was found asleep on the ground about two miles northwest of the hospital.

The eight prisoners, all wearing pajamas, escaped from the hospital at 2:30 A. M. Sunday. They fled in a station wagon, two foot. The other man was captured within two hours.

What's Inside

Classified Want Ads 25-75
Comics 60
Crossword Puzzle 60
Editorials 60
Farms and Gardens 60
General 60
New South 60
Radio Program 60
Society 60
Sports 60-65
Theater 60
Shipping 60
What's Inside 60-75
Women's Page 60-75