

ANOTHER LICENSING BOARD

THE proposed new licensing board for North Carolina real estate brokers and salesmen is a good deal more palatable than some of the examining boards already in existence...

It should be noted, in all fairness, that the real estate men are not trying to set up another high level closed shop. They still require only that each member of the three-man Commission should be a "bona fide resident" of North Carolina...

In several other respects, the real estate bill is better than the laws authorizing other licensing boards and commissions. It excludes owners who handle their own property...

THE SAXONY CHARM

GEORGE D. SAX, who owns one of those big, modernistic, air-conditioned places at Miami Beach, gives every indication of being a man who knows an angle when he sees one...

Since that time, and apparently before, Mr. Sax and associates have been making their residence on Capitol Hill.

Donald Dawson, a White House aide who has been a non-paying guest at the Saxony on at least three occasions...

Hilton W. Robertson, an RFC official who helped get the loan for the Saxony and who was the recipient of a two-week, rent-free vacation at the hotel...

A BEACON LIGHT ABROAD

SIX MONTHS from now, perhaps, an illiterate native of Indo-China may sit, half-clothed, on the ground before a U. S. State Department motion picture screen and look upon Charlotte's Rozelle's Ferry Road and upon the old brick building of Johnson C. Smith University.

If he has been talked to by Ho Chi Minh Communist agents, he may nod and smile with a little trouble believing what he sees—healthy, well-dressed young Negroes with textbooks under their arms...

Where the Indo-Chinese might ask, is the dark body swaying from the tree branch? Where are the white-robed men flogging the Negro children? Where are the dark slaves bent over cotton plants...

And this important Stories of American race prejudice—against men with black, brown or yellow skin—are staples in the propaganda diet fed the peoples of the Orient by the man from Moscow...

SERENDIPITY

THE American Association for the Advancement of Science has lately had a word of criticism for the serendipity men, or the people who are proficient at serendipity...

unmanageable a war came along and bailed the bureaucrats out? Remember the mounting surges of a few months back—against the war in the Korean case? Well, again serendipity has saved the situation.

WASHINGTON TELEGRAMS need equally important. If there is to be negotiation with the Russians, then public opinion must be ready to accept the results of realistic dealing at the conference table.

There is a special reason, too, why policy-makers want to avoid a buildup of public opinion for such great expectations. The chances are that those expectations would be dashed, or fulfilled in part...

What is too often forgotten is the fact that another set of attitudes is involved. Actual evidence exists to show a real fear among the Russians that the United States may over the talk in this country of a preventive war against the Soviet Union to be attacked with an air raid.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts. It argues that when we are faced by a brutal foe we cannot stand up either in the struggle for men's minds or in the struggle to save their bodies from destruction.

People's Platform Park Board Operation Favored

CHARLOTTE also made a wonderful record, especially in the way of attendance.

I doubt if there has been another high school coach who could draw the crowds that Bill Branin has done, and thus, with the gate receipts from athletic, has been able to carry on an ambitious athletic program at Central High, which cannot be equaled in any city, and entirely without cost to the taxpayers.

Both these men are now out of our school system, due to the petty jealousy and dumbness of certain members of our school faculties, and I think it is high time that the public should know of this and see that something is done to curb such practices, even if it means getting rid of such "pinheads" in our school system as the present trend is for the abolition of athletics, except on an intramural system, at Central High School.

I claim very little credit for this wonderful improvement which was brought about by economical administration and the fact that we were able to switch labor from other work projects to help out in emergency. For instance, we had a Cab Calloway dance with all its clutter of programs, peanut shells, empty bottles and what not, we were able to get the floor mopped and the seats cleaned and rearranged by the next day for a matinee of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, only because of this fluid labor.

As to the possibility of fire and the notorious "pruning of shrubs, etc., required extra labor and if I am not mistaken, there will be much more of this with the new project. Added to this is the requirement for a separate book-keeping set-up which could be handled by the present office force with very little extra effort.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars. The needs we could not have been more appropriate.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Human Values Vs. Dollars CHARLOTTE EDITORS: The News: TWICE editorial of March 1, entitled "Death Trap With Bars," is, certainly commendable, highlighting as it does a terrible unwillingness and inability of some counties and people to put human values above dollars.

Two Decades Of Anarchy

EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

Two Decades Of Anarchy FITTSBORO EDITORS: The News: IT strikes me that we are about to lose out on the home front. The dollar value is at its lowest since the days of the continental, which in their days were synonyms for worthless—even to now being a part of the bygone expression to represent consummate worthlessness.

WASHINGTON DEFEATIST ATTITUDE If this were not a matter of attitude to be shown a real fear among the Russians that the United States may over the talk in this country of a preventive war against the Soviet Union to be attacked with an air raid.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

What is too often forgotten is the fact that another set of attitudes is involved. Actual evidence exists to show a real fear among the Russians that the United States may over the talk in this country of a preventive war against the Soviet Union to be attacked with an air raid.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.

It is a safe guess that most Americans have forgotten the suggestion Secretary of Navy Frank B. Rowan made in a speech last August to the effect that the United States had better strike the extreme end of the spectrum of our democracy and our way of life. To put it crudely, this line of argument is the theory that the American people have no guts.