

CONFERENCE AT GENEVA NEARS END

Efforts On Indochina, Korea Appear Doomed To Failure

GENEVA (AP) — The Geneva conference appeared near its end today after a series of high-level diplomatic talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden met for almost an hour. They agreed the Indochina group would meet this afternoon and the Korean conference tomorrow.

The Indochina session was to be secret.

Some diplomats thought the Korean meeting might be the last fruitless effort at breaking the deadlock on that problem. They expected a few more sessions on Indochina, but the western delegations frankly said the conference had failed.

Eden as spokesman for the west was understood to have told Molotov frankly there was no point in going on with the conference unless the Communists are ready to change their position.

While the two chairmen were meeting, the 16 nations represented here which fought under the U.N. flag in Korea discussed plans for ending the Korean conflict at the conference. They were reported fully agreed that further talks with the Communists at this time are useless.

The Western Powers were moving more cautiously on the Indochina problem because of several factors.

One was the uncertain political situation in France. The United States and Britain were reported hesitant to break off the talks unless there was a government which could speak with authority in France. For this reason, the decision here awaited what might happen in Paris during the day.

Another factor was the reported talks in Hanoi between representatives of the two high commands in the Indochina fighting. Informal sources said they now had reached the stage of exchanging concrete proposals on cease-fire lines. These proposals could have an important bearing on whether the Indochina conference would be held.

The Western Powers agreed in talks over the weekend, however, that the chances of a settlement on either Korea or Indochina were virtually nonexistent.

PHOTOGRAPHERS' CHOICE for the title Miss National Press Photographer of 1954 was 19-year-old Leona Naughton of the University of Maryland. She was chosen in competition among 20 entries from all over the country at the national meeting of newspaper photographers in Atlantic City Saturday night. She was sponsored by the Washington, D. C. chapter. (AP Wirephoto).

PHOTOGRAPHERS' CHOICE for the title Miss National Press Photographer of 1954 was 19-year-old Leona Naughton of the University of Maryland. She was chosen in competition among 20 entries from all over the country at the national meeting of newspaper photographers in Atlantic City Saturday night. She was sponsored by the Washington, D. C. chapter. (AP Wirephoto).

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Mendès-France, who wants to negotiate with Ho Chi Minh to end the war in Indochina, agreed today to try to form France's 29th postwar Cabinet.

Many political figures doubted whether the 47-year-old economist would win a government over the majority in the divided National Assembly to go along with his policy, which calls for cutting down expenditures in Indochina and slowing down France's military buildup in Europe.

Mendes-France was nominated last night by President Rene Coty to succeed retiring Premier Joseph Laniel, defeated Saturday in a National Assembly confidence vote. The President also accepted Laniel's resignation.

Money Expert Tries To Form French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Pierre Mendès-France, who wants to negotiate with Ho Chi Minh to end the war in Indochina, agreed today to try to form France's 29th postwar Cabinet.

Many political figures doubted whether the 47-year-old economist would win a government over the majority in the divided National Assembly to go along with his policy, which calls for cutting down expenditures in Indochina and slowing down France's military buildup in Europe.

Mendes-France was nominated last night by President Rene Coty to succeed retiring Premier Joseph Laniel, defeated Saturday in a National Assembly confidence vote. The President also accepted Laniel's resignation.

U. S. Blocks Shell Shipment

BONN, Germany (AP) — Six tons of Soviet anti-aircraft ammunition being shipped to Guatemala has been held in Hamburg, the U.S. high commission announced here today.

The 20 millimeter anti-aircraft shells were to have been sent to Guatemala in a German ship, but the West German government intervened at the request of the U.S. high commission and the shipment was detained in Hamburg, an American official said.

The U.S. Government regards shipments of armaments to Guatemala as a threat to the security of the Panama Canal.

U.S. authorities throughout the world have been ordered to prevent the flow of arms to the central American country following the delivery recently of a 10 million dollar shipment to Guatemala from Poland aboard a Swedish ship.

The U.S. official here said the ammunition reached the port of Hamburg in transit for Guatemala on May 20. The U.S. high commission asked the federal government to prevent it from leaving.

"The German authorities were most cooperative and the transport ministry contacted the German Hamburg-America Line, but whose ship, the Coburg, the consignment was to be shipped," the official added.

The ship sailed on May 26 with out the ammunition.

"We are confident that the ammunition will not be carried in any other German flag ship," the official went on, adding it was not known to whom the ammunition was consigned in Guatemala as it was addressed merely to a forwarding agent.

The official said there was nothing clandestine about the shipment. It was documented for transit through the free port in the normal way.

OUR WEATHER

Fair, hot and humid today. A risk of thunderstorms today and tomorrow.

High temperature yesterday 94 degrees.

High temperature expected today 95 degrees.

Low temperature this morning 69 degrees.

Low temperature expected tonight 70 degrees.

Sunrise 5:08 a.m.; sunset 7:39 p.m.

More Weather Data on Page 2-A

Bank At Calypso Claimed By Man, Woman

Couple Escapes With Less Than $5,000

Gun Drawn On Woman Manager

CALYPSO (AP) — A young man and woman held up the Calypso branch of the Bank of Mount Olive today. The bank president said they got away with "less than $5,000."

E. C. Casey, the bank president, said the couple came into the bank around noon and the man drew a gun on Mrs. Alice Sanderson, manager of the branch.

The Highway Patrol reported the two fled in a 1950, black Plymouth sedan. The car had been reported stolen at Mount Olive, about three miles north of here.

Mrs. Sanderson also said the amount taken was less than $5,000 and "I hope much less."

She said the woman, wearing dark glasses, entered the bank and the man drew a pistol saying, "Give me the money."

"I said, 'Come around and get it. The door's open.'"

The man then came into the teller's cage and "asked me to put money in the bag, and I did," Mrs. Sanderson related.

She said the robbers asked her about money in the bank safe, but "I told them it was locked."

"As the two prepared to leave, they told me to lie down, and I did."

Mrs. Sanderson said she understood the couple had fled in a northerly direction.

Calypso is a town of about 700 persons in the heart of a rich tobacco farming area in Eastern North Carolina.

Herbert Smith, the victim's husband, points to the spot on the cliff where he found her. (AP Wirephoto).

Court Affirms Beaty Ruling

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed a decision of Federal District Judge J. C. McLaughlin in the case of Beaty of Charlotte to two years in prison and assessing fines and charges of $1,000.

Beaty, tried before District Judge William Warlick in Charlotte last spring, was convicted on three counts of income tax evasion in 1945-46-47. He was given three concurrent two-year terms in prison and assessed $1,000 in fines and charges.

He appealed to the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit and the case was argued here June 1.

Plowing Drunk Is No Traffic Case

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Highway Patrolman R. A. Queen began filling out a citation form for drunken driving when he saw a man plowing a field with a horse.

"Type of vehicle," Horse. "Model," Three years old. "Make," Queen decided to charge the driver with public drunkenness. The defendant pleaded guilty and paid court costs.

Carney Would Draw Line On Commie Aggression

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Robert L. Carney voiced support today for the idea that a line should be drawn beyond which the free world should not allow aggression to continue.

Noting that there is a limit to the world's total human and material resources, the chief of naval operations said every gain scored by the Soviet orbit "is not only an addition to their potential, but a double addition, because something comes out of our hide . . . every time that our resources are used."

Carney was asked in a copyrighted interview in the magazine U.S. News and World Report, "That's a tough question," he replied. "But the alternatives, as I see it, in this continues, are the possibility of a measure of defeat or a hellacious statement or anything like that. It's a simple statement of fact in support of what I think that if these accretions of expense, time, each one at our expense, the time will come when we are in a position so inferior that our very existence, and certainly our existence as a major influence in the world, will be in the gravest jeopardy."

Discussing any possible Navy role in Southeast Asia, the Navy chief said sea blockade could be an "important part" in a military campaign in particular, however, he said a "major part" of an overall effort there. "We would just be closing up rat holes," he said.

Carney also said: "Russia's initial post-World War II emphasis on building submarines has given way to a trend toward 'a balance deceiving navy' force" rounded out with cruisers and destroyers, but not aircraft carriers. The Reds have no atom-driven submarines "that I know of."

2. There is no question about the practicality of using atomic power to drive many kinds of navy vessels.

Suspect Confers With Lawyer . . .

Dan Marsin (right) talks to Attorney John J. Flynn.

Dan Marsin (right) talks to Attorney John J. Flynn.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Daniel J. Marsin, 41, charged with kidnaping the wife of a wealthy industrialist for $25,000, sat silently in jail while officers resumed a search today for the missing ransom money.

Somewhere in the Superstition Mountains, police believed, were hidden the marked bills paid for Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith's release by her husband Herbert.

The rocky cactus-strewn foothills were combed by a small force of officers. They worked doggedly, moving small boulders, brush and dirt in the belief the loot had been buried.

Two days of hunting failed to turn up any clue. The search today was extended into abandoned mine shafts.

Police also were hunting a rifle, a pistol and a pair of binoculars which the Smiths said they had seen the kidnapper use.

There were other unanswered questions. Mrs. Smith said she had overheard a second man after being locked in the trunk of her car. She said he discussed killing her. When she arrived at the Superstition Mountains late Wednesday, she said only one masked kidnapper was with her.

Investigating officers, who had hidden along the road to the payoff point to which Smith had been ordered, asked openly why Smith drew his wife back to Phoenix without stopping to report that she was safe.

"That delayed the search for the deducter by more than two hours, one officer said.

Marsin, seized near a ranch house four hours after Mrs. Smith was released Thursday night, was taken to her for identification until the next afternoon.

At that time, it was learned, he was taken to her home to be identified several hours before she picked him from a lineup of five masked persons. He was charged Saturday with kidnaping and placed under $50,000 bond.

Marsin's hand-picked lawyer, John J. Flynn, who prosecuted many successful cases as deputy Maricopa County attorney, sharply criticized the methods used by police and added, "That was practically no identification at all."

Flynn said the first description given officers by Mrs. Smith said her kidnaper had bright green eyes and curly hair.

"This man is almost bald and has eyes as brown as mine," said Flynn.

"We've got an answer for everything," Flynn said "We'll give it at the proper time and place."

Officers Hunt Ransom Cash In Mountains

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Daniel J. Marsin, 41, charged with kidnaping the wife of a wealthy industrialist for $25,000, sat silently in jail while officers resumed a search today for the missing ransom money.

Somewhere in the Superstition Mountains, police believed, were hidden the marked bills paid for Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith's release by her husband Herbert.

The rocky cactus-strewn foothills were combed by a small force of officers. They worked doggedly, moving small boulders, brush and dirt in the belief the loot had been buried.

Two days of hunting failed to turn up any clue. The search today was extended into abandoned mine shafts.

Police also were hunting a rifle, a pistol and a pair of binoculars which the Smiths said they had seen the kidnapper use.

There were other unanswered questions. Mrs. Smith said she had overheard a second man after being locked in the trunk of her car. She said he discussed killing her. When she arrived at the Superstition Mountains late Wednesday, she said only one masked kidnapper was with her.

Investigating officers, who had hidden along the road to the payoff point to which Smith had been ordered, asked openly why Smith drew his wife back to Phoenix without stopping to report that she was safe.

"That delayed the search for the deducter by more than two hours, one officer said.

Marsin, seized near a ranch house four hours after Mrs. Smith was released Thursday night, was taken to her for identification until the next afternoon.

At that time, it was learned, he was taken to her home to be identified several hours before she picked him from a lineup of five masked persons. He was charged Saturday with kidnaping and placed under $50,000 bond.

Marsin's hand-picked lawyer, John J. Flynn, who prosecuted many successful cases as deputy Maricopa County attorney, sharply criticized the methods used by police and added, "That was practically no identification at all."

Flynn said the first description given officers by Mrs. Smith said her kidnaper had bright green eyes and curly hair.

"This man is almost bald and has eyes as brown as mine," said Flynn.

"We've got an answer for everything," Flynn said "We'll give it at the proper time and place."

Stevens Talked Of Using Schine, Carr Testifies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francis P. Carr testified today that Secretary of Defense Louis A. Stevens talked last October of using G. David Schine as a temporary replacement for Army intelligence schools, reporting directly to him.

Carr, chief of staff of the McCarthy Investigations subcommittee, said Stevens volunteered this idea at a conference last Oct. 2 at the Pentagon with him and Roy M. Cohn.

Schine, wealthy unpaid consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee, was then faced with imminent drafting into the Army. Efforts to get an officer's commission for him failed.

Carr was called to the witness chair at the McCarthy-Army hearings at Cohn's New York City home last week.

SEN. MCCARTHY, COHN and Cohn, chief counsel to the subcommittee, on point after point.

Carr swore:

1. That on at least three occasions Army officials combined efforts to sidetrack Sen. McCarthy's investigation of Reds in the Army with promises of special Army treatment for Schine.
2. That Secretary of the Army Stevens suggested the McCarthy subcommittee "take the heat off" Schine in defense plans, the Air Force and the Navy. Stevens has risks in these plans.
3. That Army Counselor John G. Adams, after failing in repeated attempts to get the McCarthy subcommittee to drop its investigation of the Army, claimed he was making "some control" over Army assignments for Pvt. Schine.

Carr cited several occasions in which he said Stevens and Adams tried to persuade McCarthy to drop his investigation of alleged subversion at secret radar laboratories in Ft. Monmouth, N.J., and let the Army itself take over the inquiry.

On one such occasion, Carr testified, he and Cohn had dinner at Cohn's New York City home on Oct. 21 and then went to a prize fight with Adams.

Carr testified Adams "stated he wanted the hearings on the Monmouth situation ended . . . he thought that it would be helpful to him and to Mr. Stevens (secretary of the Army) if we could drop these hearings."

Carr said Adams "suggested" Stevens had been enough in the way of hearings, enough in the way of publicity, and the subcommittee should stand the investigation "over to them."

At the same time, Carr testified, Adams reported he was taking over some of the control of assignments for Schine.

Carr said Adams explained that plan to that time, "The Schine matter" was being handled by Army personnel but that now he "Adams" was taking over.

Carr related that Stevens' secretary had been enough in the way of hearings, enough in the way of publicity, and the subcommittee should stand the investigation "over to them."

At the same time, Carr testified, Adams reported he was taking over some of the control of assignments for Schine.

Carr said Adams explained that plan to that time, "The Schine matter" was being handled by Army personnel but that now he "Adams" was taking over.

Carr related that Stevens' secretary had been enough in the way of hearings, enough in the way of publicity, and the subcommittee should stand the investigation "over to them."

U. S. And Canada Stage Civil Defense Exercise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS from Puerto Rico to Hawaii.

Life skipped a beat today as millions of Americans and Canadians headed waiting air raid sirens in the continent's first international civil defense exercise.

With grim, disciplined make-believe, young and old abruptly dropped their daily pursuits and, in city after city, sought shelter against the fury of mock atomic annihilation.

Early reports indicated that the public's brief participation, no more than 10 minutes in most cases, was successful.

"But here and there a hiccup occurred. The alarm system nerve center of America's military might had started. Wardens passed the word.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in advance of the presumed bomb drops.

For defense workers, millions perished in a flash of consuming fire, while hundreds of thousands of others lay maimed and in need of help.

In Boston, New York and other Eastern cities, the sirens screamed at 10 a.m. several hours in