

Ballots Are Free; Get Yours Tomorrow! Vote!

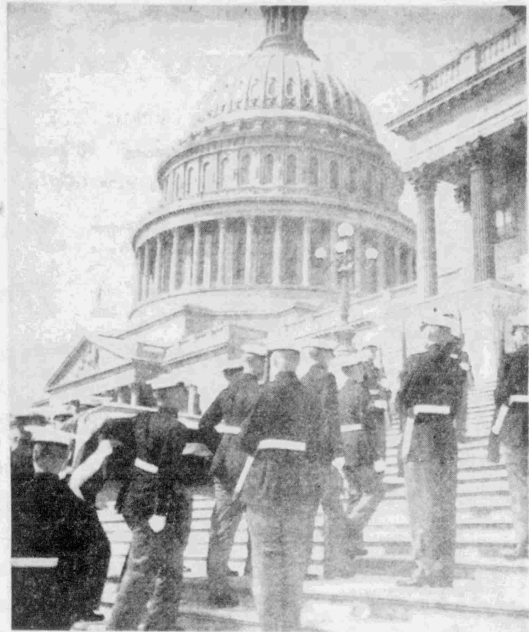

THE CHARLOTTE NEWS

FINAL

Largest Evening Newspaper in The Two Carolinas
Charlotte, North Carolina, Monday, May 6, 1957

26 Pages — Price Five Cents

The Body Of Sen. McCarthy Goes Up Capitol Steps For Senate Services

'Fallen Warrior' McCarthy Eulogized In Senate Rites

WASHINGTON.—The Senate chaplain eulogized Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy as a "fallen warrior" in the cause of Americanism today in a funeral service in the Senate chamber where the Wisconsin Republican was a staunch center in life.

The Senate ceremony, unusual in recent years, followed a solemn funeral mass at St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

At the cathedral services, a crowd of more than 1,100 overflowed the peak. A churchman called the Senator a fearless "watchman of the cliff" who revealed to millions of Americans the threat of communism.

McCarthy, 48, died last Thursday from an acute liver ailment.

The service in the Senate chamber was the first of its kind there since the 1940 funeral of Republican Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho.

McCarthy, the former Jean Kerr, fought back tears as he left the cathedral behind his husband's body for the trip to the capitol.

MARINE GUARD

Standing at attention in the bright sunshine outside the church was a Marine honor guard, which later moved to the capitol and formed a double line through which the flag-draped casket was carried up the steps to the Senate wing.

McCarthy was a Marine veteran of World War II.

"Vice President Nixon and other high officials attended the ceremonies," President Eisenhower sent an aide, L. Jack Martin, as his representative.

In the Senate chamber, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris said the honor over McCarthy's investigating methods in the early 1950s could be forgotten in this solemn hour.

"Now, the Senate chaplain said, 'there is the peace of a calm appraisal' in which all Americans can find 'his clearly defined objective' which was to expose cunning foes who under cover of plot the betrayal of our freedom."

"And so," Harris said, "this fallen warrior through death speaks, calling a nation of free men to be delivered from the conspiracy of a false security and alarm as more disturbers of the peace."

The 25-minute Senate service ended with a prayer by the Rev.

See SENATE On Page 2A

Same Thing Twice

Laxity In Farm Payment Charged

WASHINGTON.—House investigators say some farmers have collected federal insurance for crop failure on the same land for which they received soil bank payments not to grow crops.

A House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee listed this and other instances of what it called "tax handling" of federal soil bank funds last year in a report of hearings made public today.

The general reply of Agriculture

Department officials was that the soil bank law was passed late in the season last year and rushed into effect with the result that some unusual payments undoubtedly were made. They termed this a "peculiar" situation, they said, "won't happen again."

PLANT CORN

The subcommittee's investigators also reported, according to the hearing testimony, that in other instances farmers were said not to plant corn on land on which they were legally forbidden to plant corn.

And in some cases, investigators say farmers were paid for taking land out of one type of wheat and then in turn were paid a premium for planting it in another type of wheat.

These reports were the subject of sharp criticism from committee members considering Department of Agriculture requests for a billion dollars to pay farmers during the 1958 fiscal year to place part of their surplus production on land in the soil bank.

Subcommittee Chairman Whit-

ten (D-Mass.) told Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Marvin L. McLean

See SOIL On Page 2A

Deaf Mute Shot, Killed By Nephew

WAYNE, W. Va. (P)—Fifteen-year-old Buddy Claxton told police he heard a noise outside his farm home last night, picked up a rifle and queried "was there?"

There was no answer, he said. He heard a door slam on the family's parked car. He fired.

His aunt, Mrs. Anna Pauline Hyatt, fell dead. She couldn't have heard her nephew's query or reply. She was a deaf mute.

State police Cpl. O. S. Neely said he is going to investigate some more today while the nephew is held in the juvenile section of the county jail.

"There are some peculiar circumstances in the case," the corporal said without elaboration.

The corporal was told the family had been "nervous about thieves" recently because a same line was taken from the car.

Probe Beck, AFL-CIO Tells The Teamsters

Labor At Crossroads

Teamster Probe Sets Off Unions' 'Worst Crisis'

By RELMAN MORIN

(First of A Series)

WASHINGTON.—Is organized labor nearing a new crossroads in its relations with the federal government, management, and its own members?

To many leading figures, in and out of unions, the answer already is at hand—an emphatic "yes."

Not since the fiery debates over the Taft-Hartley Act, a turning point 10 years ago, has sharper controversy flared over questions of new legislation to meet the problems of union and employer.

How to supervise pension, welfare and union funds? What about a federal "right-to-work" law banning the union shop? What penalties for corruption initiated by either management or labor? What roles to govern their respective financial contributions and activities in political campaigns?

What's Next?

Some state governments, in different ways, already have taken action in these fields. What next from Uncle Sam?

Testimony in the Senate on management in the Teamsters Union highlighted the problems and touched off an explosion of sagged nerves, "bozayal of public trust," scandal, serious crisis, "shock."

They came from union officials, men describing themselves as friends of labor, many newspapermen.

In Detroit, Frank Rosenblum, secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, said, "The labor scandal will prove to be a Roman holiday for labor haters and reactionaries."

Already a barrage of anti-labor bills has been submitted in Congress and the various state legislatures.

"Vice President Nixon and other high officials attended the ceremonies," President Eisenhower sent an aide, L. Jack Martin, as his representative.

In the Senate chamber, the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris said the honor over McCarthy's investigating methods in the early 1950s could be forgotten in this solemn hour.

"Now, the Senate chaplain said, 'there is the peace of a calm appraisal' in which all Americans can find 'his clearly defined objective' which was to expose cunning foes who under cover of plot the betrayal of our freedom."

"And so," Harris said, "this fallen warrior through death speaks, calling a nation of free men to be delivered from the conspiracy of a false security and alarm as more disturbers of the peace."

The 25-minute Senate service ended with a prayer by the Rev.

See SENATE On Page 2A

More Weather Data on Page 2A

Our Weather

Moderate fair today, tonight and tomorrow.

Low this morning 45
Low tomorrow morning 45
High today 73
High yesterday 69
High tomorrow 76
Sunrise today 5:27 a.m.; sunset today 7:12 p.m.

See SENATE On Page 2A

More Weather Data on Page 2A

Our Weather

Moderate fair today, tonight and tomorrow.

Low this morning 45
Low tomorrow morning 45
High today 73
High yesterday 69
High tomorrow 76
Sunrise today 5:27 a.m.; sunset today 7:12 p.m.

See SENATE On Page 2A

More Weather Data on Page 2A

Our Weather

Moderate fair today, tonight and tomorrow.

Despite Corruption Charges, Dave Beck Smiles

Kidnaped Woman Freed At Winston

WINSTON-SALEM.—A 20-year-old mother of Baltimore, Md., told officers here today she was abducted near her home by three men Saturday night and released in Winston-Salem after a night-long ride in their car.

Mrs. Margaret Miller, mother of five children, gave the account to Winston-Salem police and FBI officers.

She said she was forced into the car with the unidentified trio about 10 p.m. as she was walking to a movie, officers reported.

She said she told them all three men in the car were armed and that one of them tried twice with her before releasing her.

WOMAN'S STORY

Officers, who were pressing investigation in the case last night, said Mrs. Miller gave them the following account:

"A car with two men in the front seat and one in the back stopped nearby as she was walking to a movie. The man in the back seat called to her and she walked over to the vehicle."

As she reached the car, the man in the back seat jumped out and seized her. He forced her into the back seat and the car sped away. Two of the men had knives and the other had a pistol, she said.

During the long ride south which followed, she said, the man in back with her tried to criminally assault her but failed. She said she kicked him during the second attempt and that he struck her with his fist.

Sometime about noon today, they stopped at the entrance to Wake Forest College and a man in the front seat told Mrs. Miller "to get out if she did not want to get killed."

Mrs. Miller said she got out and ran as the car sped back out of town. She related that she continued to run along the road until a passing motorist gave her a ride.

Officers identified the motorist as E. A. Davis. They said Davis took Mrs. Miller to his garage where he told him of her plight and summoned police.

Mrs. Miller told them the car in which she was abducted was a light blue and cream four-door sedan.

She said that during the ride she heard the men addressing each other with the names of "Rich," "Buck," and "Lefty."

"Rich," she said, was about five feet six inches tall, weighed about 110 pounds and was about 17 years old. He had curly red hair, she related, and was wearing a Navy blue sport coat, brown trousers and a khaki shirt.

"Buck," she said, was about 18, had brown hair with a G.I. haircut, and had a defect of his right eye. He was wearing khaki slacks and pants and army-type shoes.

She described "Lefty" as being about six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds, having dark hair and dark complexion and said he looked like a Mexican.

Corruption Cited By Committee

FROM AP REPORTS
WASHINGTON.—The AFL-CIO ethical practices committee today demanded that the Teamsters Union International board find out whether President Dave Beck has misused union funds.

The Teamsters Union is dominated by corrupt influences, the committee charged in a bill of particulars, making accusations against the union itself.

A main point in the accusations was what the committee called "the apparent failure of the international union to investigate charges against Beck and other officers."

The bill of particulars was given to reporters soon after the five-member committee began a closed door session with the Teamsters board. Beck is a member of the board.

TEAMSTER REPLY

On its part, the Teamsters board called the general charges "malicious and unfounded slanders." This was in a statement given to newsmen as the members went into the meeting.

In addition to Beck, the committee's bill of particulars specifically named two Teamsters vice presidents—Frank W. Brazier, boss of the Western Conference of the union, and Sidney L. Brennan, of Minneapolis—and what it said was the apparent failure of the international board to take action with respect to charges against them.

The ethical practices committee's 25-page bill of particulars noted that Beck repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination when questioned by the Senate racketeering investigating committee about his handling of union funds.

The document then said: "This constitutional right to do so is recognized."

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

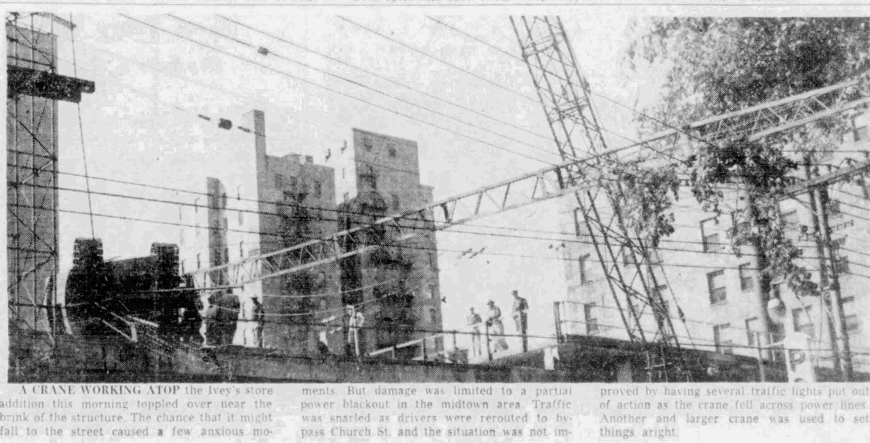

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

"It does not appear, however, that the international union has undertaken, or proposes to undertake, any investigation into whether its president was in fact guilty of personal corruption in the handling of union funds in the conduct of union affairs and invoked the Fifth Amendment to conceal that fact."

"The document then said: 'This constitutional right to do so is recognized.'

A CRANE WORKING AT THE Ivey's store addition this morning topped over the brick of the structure. The chance that it might fall to the street caused a few anxious moments. But damage was limited to a partial power blackout in the midtown area. Traffic was snarled as drivers were rerouted to bypass Church St. and the situation was not improved by having several traffic lights put out of action as the crane fell across power lines. Another and larger crane was used to set things aright.