An 'Aid-To-Education' Plan That Isn't

more.

The U.S. educational establishment is deeply involved in the contest with the Soviets, but not only in the sciences. The real task of the schools is to produce intellectual leadership in all areas of life. In one of his post-Sputnik

Pay Television's Allure Is Deceptive

Pay Television's Allure Is Deceptive

If the gusty controversy over subscription television had congressment for the confined this week it had the uncommitted viewer twirling like a weathercock in a whirehold.

Seldom has a minor Issue attracted such expensive attention from vested interests on both sides.

In the end, however, the question may have to be decided by the most important vested interest of all—the public The publics vested interest in terms of receiver equipment and an addiction to free following in great. It has been also severally strengthened by the addition of seven million TV homes since 1955.

Claims and counterclaims on both sides of the controversy have been a trifle overstrought at times. The spaces were for the controversy have been a trifle overstrought at times. The spaces were for the controversy have been a trifle overstrought at times. To say that there is room for improvement in addition to the expensive equipment and the medium is to understate rather refliculously a fundamental fact. The question is whylher pay television to the expensive pay television and the networks would be unable to fort the propular shows individual standard for the propular shows individual standard the complex of the propular shows individual standard the propular sho

Claude Cochran Served His City Well

A LL great cities can trace the sources of their greatness to a handful of dedicated individuals who give more of themselves and their talents than is ordinarily expected of simple citizenship. These are the men of vision and of vigor who give the city its direction and its momentum on the road to progress.
