

Inside Report

Petersen on collision course

Total agreement in a secret meeting last Wednesday between Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen and the chief lieutenants of Deposed Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox promises new, perhaps insoluble Watergate trouble ahead for President Nixon.

That meeting satisfied Cox's senior staff that Petersen would demand from the White House the same documents that had been denied Cox. Thus, the man desired by Mr. Nixon to investigate Watergate is on a collision course with him. If Petersen persists in demanding the documents and the President persists in refusing them, the possibility looms of Petersen's dismissal or resignation soon — a rather shock the weekend Nixon presidency can scarcely afford.

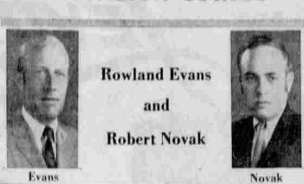

So, Mr. Nixon seems likely to emerge from the crisis he triggered last weekend with no gain other than the departure of Prof. Cox. Even with the tremendous cost to his prestige, the President has not deflected the Watergate prosecution from ominous paths down which Cox was taking it.

Besides miscalculating public reaction to the wild weekend, the president misjudged Henry Petersen. A former staff member of the White House, career civil servant (and registered Democrat) Petersen was counted on by presidential advisers to quickly clean up the Watergate burglary and quietly drop Cox's other investigations (including the probe of Mr. Petersen's own finances) and Cox's demands for White House documents.

Nonetheless, such expectations were regarded as nonsense at the Justice Department. But some of Cox's aides expect the worst.

Remembering Petersen's turbulent past in the Senate Watergate Committee that the Watergate case was 90 per cent completed when taken from him and given to Cox, they referred to him contemptuously as "old 90 per cent Petersen."

However, a preliminary meeting last Tuesday between Cox's staff and Petersen was most harmonious. On Wednesday, the chiefs of Cox's task forces went

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

To Petersen's office in the Justice Department to get down to details. They came away convinced he will follow all investigative leads. Mr. Petersen, in refusing them, the possibility looms of Petersen's dismissal or resignation soon — a rather shock the weekend Nixon presidency can scarcely afford.

That means calling before the grand jury new witnesses close to the President and asking the White House for more documents, including presidential papers that Mr. Nixon forbade Cox to request. That also means Petersen renewing Cox's requests for information denied by the White House — including not only presidential papers but also documents concerning the now infamous plumbers unit that Cox could not get his hands on.

Moreover, Petersen shows no inclination to shut down any investigations. Responsible Justice Department officials believe the President became impatient about getting rid of Cox when his investigators moved into financial operations of Nixon cronies Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo and when Nixon chief of staff H. R. Haldeman was pressed hard before the grand jury to reveal details of the ITT affair. But Petersen is making no changes. Full use.

Finally, Petersen seems committed to make full use of Nixon testimony that deplored White House counsel John W. Dean III will give the grand jury his eleventh-hour deal with Cox to plead guilty on one count. Some Cox lieutenants had feared Dean, potentially the star witness for the prosecution, would be buried in cold storage.

But Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants. That Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants. That Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants.

However, a preliminary meeting last Tuesday between Cox's staff and Petersen was most harmonious. On Wednesday, the chiefs of Cox's task forces went to Petersen's office in the Justice Department to get down to details. They came away convinced he will follow all investigative leads. Mr. Petersen, in refusing them, the possibility looms of Petersen's dismissal or resignation soon — a rather shock the weekend Nixon presidency can scarcely afford.

That means calling before the grand jury new witnesses close to the President and asking the White House for more documents, including presidential papers that Mr. Nixon forbade Cox to request. That also means Petersen renewing Cox's requests for information denied by the White House — including not only presidential papers but also documents concerning the now infamous plumbers unit that Cox could not get his hands on.

Moreover, Petersen shows no inclination to shut down any investigations. Responsible Justice Department officials believe the President became impatient about getting rid of Cox when his investigators moved into financial operations of Nixon cronies Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo and when Nixon chief of staff H. R. Haldeman was pressed hard before the grand jury to reveal details of the ITT affair. But Petersen is making no changes. Full use.

Finally, Petersen seems committed to make full use of Nixon testimony that deplored White House counsel John W. Dean III will give the grand jury his eleventh-hour deal with Cox to plead guilty on one count. Some Cox lieutenants had feared Dean, potentially the star witness for the prosecution, would be buried in cold storage.

But Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants. That Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants. That Petersen refused to follow these investigative trails, he would have faced public denunciation from Cox's lieutenants.

However, a preliminary meeting last Tuesday between Cox's staff and Petersen was most harmonious. On Wednesday, the chiefs of Cox's task forces went to Petersen's office in the Justice Department to get down to details. They came away convinced he will follow all investigative leads. Mr. Petersen, in refusing them, the possibility looms of Petersen's dismissal or resignation soon — a rather shock the weekend Nixon presidency can scarcely afford.

That means calling before the grand jury new witnesses close to the President and asking the White House for more documents, including presidential papers that Mr. Nixon forbade Cox to request. That also means Petersen renewing Cox's requests for information denied by the White House — including not only presidential papers but also documents concerning the now infamous plumbers unit that Cox could not get his hands on.

Moreover, Petersen shows no inclination to shut down any investigations. Responsible Justice Department officials believe the President became impatient about getting rid of Cox when his investigators moved into financial operations of Nixon cronies Charles G. (Bebe) Rebozo and when Nixon chief of staff H. R. Haldeman was pressed hard before the grand jury to reveal details of the ITT affair. But Petersen is making no changes. Full use.

Quakers Plan Workshop Nov. 3

Churchmen, Guests To Survey Legislative Issues

Quakers and some other area churchmen have scheduled a legislative workshop here Nov. 3 to survey such issues as prison reform and taxes.

The workshop, commemorating the 30th anniversary of the Friends Committee on National Legislation (FCNL), will be held at the New Garden Friends Meeting House and discussion leaders will include Quaker journalist Charles Wells and Lee Bounds, former state commissioner of corrections.

Other discussion leaders for five workshops will include State Rep. Margaret Keese and C. W. ("Mr. Charlie") Phillips and State Sen. Goodie Morrow and McNeill Smith. Fred Parkhurst, a professor at Guilford College, will talk about "Your Tax Dollar and National Priorities."

SPONSORS for the workshop are the North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends, the N.C. Conservative Meeting of Friends headquartered at Woodland and whose members are from Quaker groups in Eastern North Carolina, and the host Quakers at New Garden.

Wells will be keynote speaker at 7 a.m., following a 9 a.m. banquet, on "The International Scene." His other assignments will include leading discussions at 2 p.m. workshop on international trade.

Spokesmen for the Piedmont Triad Council of Governments (COG) will participate in discussions of environmental issues and land use legislation.

Five of the workshops are scheduled for 2 p.m. and the sponsors designed these programs as "an all-day involvement" in political and social activism which is classified among top priorities by FCNL.

Crusade Ends
An eight-day evangelistic crusade sponsored by the Greensboro Methodist District will end with services at 7:30 p.m. today and Sunday. The featured evangelist, Dr. Ed. R. B. Moore, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday at Proximity United Methodist Church.

Convert To Speak
The Rev. Abraham Rones of Baltimore, Md., popular evangelist who claims to be a Christian convert from Judaism, will be featured speaker at a Bible conference at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 at Colonial Heights Baptist Church in High Point. He will also speak at the church at 11 a.m. Nov. 4.

Word Festival
"Festival of the Word," a showing of arts and crafts sponsored by the Greensboro Council of Lutheran Churches, is scheduled today and Sunday as part of the observance of Reformation Sunday and is being held at the Lutheran Church of Our Father.

The showing of such arts and crafts as needlework, painting, sculpture, creative dancing and dramatic arts is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday.

Mayor To Speak
Mayor Jim Melvin will be speaker Monday evening when the men's group meets at Century United Methodist Church in Greensboro.

'Time To Run'
A film produced by the Billy Graham Evangelical organization, "Time To Run," will be shown at 2 p.m. Nov. 4 and Nov.

Religion Today

By Harvey Harris
Daily News Religion Writer

11 in Greensboro at Starmont Presbyterian Church. The film stars Ed Nelson, star of "Peyton Place" television shows, and will open later at a local theater. The Rev. Charles Howell, pastor of Park Baptist Church, and the Rev. Roy Putnam, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, will preside at meetings in conjunction with the two showings at Starmont Church. These meetings are planned to train counselors for the later showings of the film.

'Elijah' Concert
The Greensboro Oratorio Society, boasting the largest membership in its 23-year history, will sing Part I of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" at 7 p.m. Sunday in the First United Methodist Church of Lexington.

Pastor Reassigned
The Greek Orthodox mission to Greensboro and Burlington for the past five years, Father Andrew E. Georgakopoulos, has been reassigned to the Greek Orthodox Church of the Holy Trinity in Indianapolis, Ind., effective Thursday. He formerly pastored Greek Orthodox churches in Mason City, Iowa, and Schenectady, N.Y. Father Georgakopoulos will celebrate his 25th anniversary of ministry at 2 p.m. Sunday at the church at 3710 Lawndale Drive, Greensboro.

Revival Set
The Rev. Robert C. Bogan will begin a revival at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Flat Rock United Methodist Church near Lexington. During the revival will include the Victor, the Oak Aids, the Christmas, the Sockade Quartet and the host church's youth choir.

World Day
World Community Day will be observed at 10:15 a.m. Nov. 2 at the First Lutheran Church of Greensboro, where Mrs. Frank Lacy, Presbyterian layman and author, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

Japanese Guests
Eight ministers and two laymen from churches in Japan will end their two weeks in the United States with a visit to Greensboro Nov. 10-12 when the Rev. George C. Carpenter, an associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will be in charge of debriefing sessions. The group's hosts for this part of a tour of the United States will be the Presbyterian Synod of North Carolina and the First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro, where the Japanese churchmen will be guests for worship Nov. 11.

Respect For Life
Saint Mary's Catholic Church in Greensboro begins Sunday a year-long program aimed at helping the aged and infirm with the Catholic Diocese of Charlotte's emphasis on restoring a more widespread respect for life.

A panel discussion on needs of the elderly will follow the 10 a.m. eucharist celebration Sunday and Saint Mary's Center will have a program from 1:30 p.m. Monday for senior citizens. The church is inviting all senior citizens and younger volunteer helpers to participate in the once-a-week program at Saint Mary's Center.

The Catholic Diocese of Charlotte has designated the upcoming "Time To Run," as a special time for working for the sanctity and

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Carl Stoen, chairman for the Greensboro church, and the Rev. Sidney Freeman, Unitarian minister in Charlotte, will assist the conference's director. Taylor will also speak on "New Life Styles in the Church" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Greensboro.

Step To Speak
A missionary to Venezuela, the Rev. William Steep, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro at the Central Assembly of God.

Okinawa Missionary
A missionary to Okinawa, the Rev. Bud Spencer, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church of Greensboro. Spencer has been in Okinawa since 1960 and before that was missionary to Japan.

Halloween Party
Halloween costumes will be the uniform of the day Nov. 3 at Reedy Fork Baptist Church. The 22,000-member church, where a party is scheduled at 7 p.m. for young people including seventh graders through age 25, Pittsboro, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

'Slave Days'
Fund-raising campaigns at area churches include "Senior Slave Days" at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro, where the high school students will be hiring themselves out to do odd jobs around homes and offices to get cash needed so they can participate in the United Nations Study Seminar scheduled Nov. 25-Dec. 2.

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Carl Stoen, chairman for the Greensboro church, and the Rev. Sidney Freeman, Unitarian minister in Charlotte, will assist the conference's director. Taylor will also speak on "New Life Styles in the Church" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Greensboro.

Step To Speak
A missionary to Venezuela, the Rev. William Steep, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro at the Central Assembly of God.

Okinawa Missionary
A missionary to Okinawa, the Rev. Bud Spencer, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church of Greensboro. Spencer has been in Okinawa since 1960 and before that was missionary to Japan.

Halloween Party
Halloween costumes will be the uniform of the day Nov. 3 at Reedy Fork Baptist Church. The 22,000-member church, where a party is scheduled at 7 p.m. for young people including seventh graders through age 25, Pittsboro, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

'Slave Days'
Fund-raising campaigns at area churches include "Senior Slave Days" at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro, where the high school students will be hiring themselves out to do odd jobs around homes and offices to get cash needed so they can participate in the United Nations Study Seminar scheduled Nov. 25-Dec. 2.

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Carl Stoen, chairman for the Greensboro church, and the Rev. Sidney Freeman, Unitarian minister in Charlotte, will assist the conference's director. Taylor will also speak on "New Life Styles in the Church" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Greensboro.

Step To Speak
A missionary to Venezuela, the Rev. William Steep, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro at the Central Assembly of God.

Okinawa Missionary
A missionary to Okinawa, the Rev. Bud Spencer, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church of Greensboro. Spencer has been in Okinawa since 1960 and before that was missionary to Japan.

Halloween Party
Halloween costumes will be the uniform of the day Nov. 3 at Reedy Fork Baptist Church. The 22,000-member church, where a party is scheduled at 7 p.m. for young people including seventh graders through age 25, Pittsboro, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

'Slave Days'
Fund-raising campaigns at area churches include "Senior Slave Days" at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro, where the high school students will be hiring themselves out to do odd jobs around homes and offices to get cash needed so they can participate in the United Nations Study Seminar scheduled Nov. 25-Dec. 2.

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Carl Stoen, chairman for the Greensboro church, and the Rev. Sidney Freeman, Unitarian minister in Charlotte, will assist the conference's director. Taylor will also speak on "New Life Styles in the Church" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Greensboro.

Step To Speak
A missionary to Venezuela, the Rev. William Steep, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro at the Central Assembly of God.

Okinawa Missionary
A missionary to Okinawa, the Rev. Bud Spencer, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church of Greensboro. Spencer has been in Okinawa since 1960 and before that was missionary to Japan.

Halloween Party
Halloween costumes will be the uniform of the day Nov. 3 at Reedy Fork Baptist Church. The 22,000-member church, where a party is scheduled at 7 p.m. for young people including seventh graders through age 25, Pittsboro, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

'Slave Days'
Fund-raising campaigns at area churches include "Senior Slave Days" at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro, where the high school students will be hiring themselves out to do odd jobs around homes and offices to get cash needed so they can participate in the United Nations Study Seminar scheduled Nov. 25-Dec. 2.

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

Carl Stoen, chairman for the Greensboro church, and the Rev. Sidney Freeman, Unitarian minister in Charlotte, will assist the conference's director. Taylor will also speak on "New Life Styles in the Church" at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in the Unitarian Church of Greensboro.

Step To Speak
A missionary to Venezuela, the Rev. William Steep, will speak at 10:30 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro at the Central Assembly of God.

Okinawa Missionary
A missionary to Okinawa, the Rev. Bud Spencer, will preach at 11 a.m. Sunday in the First Baptist Church of Greensboro. Spencer has been in Okinawa since 1960 and before that was missionary to Japan.

Halloween Party
Halloween costumes will be the uniform of the day Nov. 3 at Reedy Fork Baptist Church. The 22,000-member church, where a party is scheduled at 7 p.m. for young people including seventh graders through age 25, Pittsboro, will be featured speaker. The observance is sponsored by the Greensboro Church Women Union.

'Slave Days'
Fund-raising campaigns at area churches include "Senior Slave Days" at West Market Street United Methodist Church in Greensboro, where the high school students will be hiring themselves out to do odd jobs around homes and offices to get cash needed so they can participate in the United Nations Study Seminar scheduled Nov. 25-Dec. 2.

End Of Revival
A week of revival services will end with 7:30 p.m. services today and Sunday at Rolling Roads Church of the Nazarene where evangelists Maurice and Naomi Finger are preaching, singing and working with children and youth.

St. Benedict's
St. Benedict's Catholic Church will host the observance of the First Friday Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament, starting at 7 a.m. and continuing until 12:15 p.m. Friday, sponsored by the local chapter of the Catholic Daughters of America.

Teaching Seminar
A teaching seminar on "Finding New Depths In Your Relationship With God" is scheduled

Nov. 24 at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro, sponsored by the city's four Catholic parishes.

Discussion leaders will include the Rev. Jim Burke of Chicago, a Dominican priest who was a missionary to Bolivia and for the past three years has led retreats in the U.S., South America and Ireland.

The Rev. Joe Petre, a Methodist minister and Greensboro native whose missionary tours have taken him to Central America, South America and Ireland, will also lead discussions.

Sessions are scheduled from 8:30 p.m. to 10 a.m. Nov. 24-30 and 8:30 p.m. Nov. 3 and 2:30-4 p.m. Nov. 4.

Guest Evangelist
The Rev. Charles L. Tanner, pastor of Abbeys Creek Baptist Church at High Point, will be guest evangelist for a revival at 11 a.m. Sunday in Greensboro and then continuing at 7:30 p.m. through Friday at Mount Hermon Baptist Church at Reidsville.

Unitarian Meet
Unitarians from Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Winston-Salem will be guests for a conference from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the Unitarian Church of Greensboro. The Rev. Todd J. Taylor, Southeastern representative for the Unitarian Universalist Association, is coordinating the conference. The conference's theme is "What About a Full-Time Minister?" None of the Unitarian fellowships has a full-time minister, but the Rev. Manuel Holland is consultant to fellowships in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.