Pope's First Talk Calls For Peace

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII broadcast an appeal to all rulers of the world today for peace. His call was in the tradition of his predecessor, Pope Pius XII.

The new sovereign pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church broadcasting from the Sistine Chapel less than 20 hours after his election, urged that weapons of destruction be converted into tools of progress.

His sword-to-plowshares appeal has taken as a firm sign that he intends to continue the fight for peace which made Pius XII known as the "Pope of Peace."

Pope John—Angelo Giuseppe Cardinal Roncalli, patriarch of Venice until his election yesterday by the college of cardinals—prayed for God for strength and courage in his new tasks. He called especially upon the Virgin Mary for assistance.

ALL IN LATIN

The 76-year-old pope spoke in Latin for 20 minutes in a firm and powerful voice. Before the address, he received the homage of the 51 cardinals gathered in the chapel.

He asked God's help for those in countries where there is no religious freedom—an indirect reference to Communist-ruled nations—and for all who suffer. He told those who "have in their hands the fate of the peoples."

SOON CROWNED

The new pope is expected to be crowned within two weeks.

The jeweled, three-tiered tiara of the papacy, topped by golden orb and cross, perhaps will be placed upon his head Sunday, Nov. 9, in the climax at St. Peter's Basilica of the drama that began a year beginning Oct. 31. The process on inspection installations will be during that year. The suspension would be renewed.

In New York Monday night, a Soviet spokesman told the United Nations that his government would not agree to the one-year test suspension. The proposal was attacked again Tuesday, with the Soviet Union renewing a call for immediate, unconditional agreement to end testing.

The Soviet Union itself had announced a halt in testing last March, but resumed testing in September after the United States and Britain carried out planned test series in the summer.

Dulle told a news conference Tuesday that his government is continuing time testing after Friday the United States will make plans to resume experimental explosions although Geneva negotiations will continue.

THE SCHEDULE

Soviet rejection of the suspension proposal, he said, dims the chances of success at the Geneva nuclear talks. Similarly, he declared that the Soviet attitude on this issue casts doubt on the success of the scheduled talks on ways of preventing surprise attack.

The loss of hope does not mean, Dulle said, that the United States, as well as other Western countries will not keep on trying for agreement. He followed up this point in a speech in New York Tuesday night. He discussed there an Arctic monitoring system, which his Soviet turned down in the U. S. Security Council.

When he decided to give himself up, he went to his father, John Baucum, owner of a television and radio repair shop in John Day, Ore. Then the two consulted San Francisco attorney Harold W. Tobin about surrendering.

The elder Baucum said, "I don't believe I ever felt better in my life than I have since my son came through the door and decided to straighten up and live like a normal citizen."

The fugitive had taken things besides and once before, stole a private plane, flying it from San Diego, Calif., to Las Vegas, Nev. He served two years in a federal prison for that seizure of the San Francisco hospital. He had two arrests for auto theft as a juvenile.

Disarming Hopes Dim With Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. officials saw little hope today for any early agreement between the Soviet Union and the Western powers for a start on disarmament in the nuclear age.

They blame the darkening prospect on evidence that the Soviet Union is following a generally together line in its relations with the West.

Secretary of State Dulles says this may be due in some degree to a possible realization among Soviet leaders that despite remarkable scientific achievements the Soviet Union is still behind the United States in the nuclear weapons race in important respects.

Two negotiations are imminent. On Friday the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union will open diplomatic talks at Geneva on a possible ban on nuclear weapons testing, to be backed up by a worldwide international inspection system to prevent violations.

CHANCES DIMMED

Ten days later panels of Communist state and Western experts will start discussions on the technical problems involved in preventing surprise attack—such things as ground and aerial inspection systems, which would be capable of discovering concentrations of troops and weapons in advance of a massive assault.

President Eisenhower had proposed last summer that beginning with the opening of the Geneva nuclear test talks the world's atomic powers—the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—should suspend nuclear activity for a year beginning Oct. 31. The process on inspection installations will be during that year. The suspension would be renewed.

In New York Monday night, a Soviet spokesman told the United Nations that his government would not agree to the one-year test suspension. The proposal was attacked again Tuesday, with the Soviet Union renewing a call for immediate, unconditional agreement to end testing.

Little Rock Fund Letters Paying Off

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—About 9,000 letters soliciting funds for the Little Rock Private School Corp. have been sent from Gov. Orval E. Faubus' office and one of his aides said today response was "very good."

"I'd say contributions picked up considerably when the letters began circulating," said Arno E. Sikes, executive secretary to the governor.

The letters, bearing the signatures of Faubus and Dr. T. J. Roney, corporation president, solicit donations in order to "establish private schools in private facilities with private funds" in Little Rock.

The corporation does not issue regular reports on how much money it has received, but Roney said over $100,000 had been contributed through last week.

Half a dozen workers spend eight hours daily getting the letters out. They are being sent to persons who wrote Faubus, praising his handling of the integration situation here.

Sikes said it had not been decided at this time how many of the letters would be circulated, but Faubus said recently that he had received 500,000 pieces of mail from persons supporting him.

Faubus said "maybe 50,000, maybe 100,000" letters would be mailed.

"The people were writing to us," the governor said. "I feel they would like the opportunity to give financial support."

Sikes said contributions still are coming in from all sections of the nation.

"The thing that surprises me is that we are getting a large amount of money from sections which already have integration," Sikes said.

Business Declared Better Than Usual

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although some phases of the recession still linger, the Commerce Department says business has fared better than usual this autumn.

In its monthly survey of the business situation, the department said Tuesday that various economic indicators show the business recovery now is rather broad.

There were a few dark spots, however. The report gave this summary:

"The recovery in employment has been rather limited. Investment in industrial and commercial facilities, although leveling off, is not yet advancing, and auto production still has not given the stimulus which will come with large scale output of 1959 cars."

But except for autos, the department said industrial production has shown a marked comeback.

MORE PAY

The better-than-seasonal pickup, the report said, has been reflected in rising personal incomes which climbed by 1 1/2 billion dollars last month to a record rate of 357 1/2 billions a year. Most of the increase was credited to higher wage and salary payments.

Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service reported that despite the recession federal tax collections during the fiscal year that ended June 30 fell only 200 million dollars below the previous year.

That figure is somewhat misleading, however, because the major impact of the recession on corporation taxes falls during the current fiscal year. The service said the tax total for fiscal 1958 reflected increased Social Security tax rates which went into effect in January 1957.

Altogether, the federal tax take for fiscal 1958 came to $79,928,000,000, second only to the record $80,172,000,000 of fiscal 1957.

Of the major revenue sources, tax collections on corporate income and profits declined about one billion dollars to a total of $20,533,000,000.

The Treasury predicts revenue from this source will drop even further in the current fiscal year, to $19,700,000,000, because of the recession.

Real Shooting

---Unlike TV---
Injures Woman

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)—A 10-year-old boy verbally admitted to police today he shot a 32-year-old housewife when she refused to drop her purse.

Bill Maragos, chief investigator for the Arapahoe County Sheriff's Office, identified the boy as Kerry Dale Casey, son of Charles Wade Casey. Maragos said the boy admitted the shooting after he was brought to the county jail.

Mrs. Shirley Orlofsky was shot in front of her home in this Denver suburb yesterday evening. She was in fair condition with a small caliber bullet wound in the left shoulder.

Maragos said the boy, rescued out of a sound sleep, first denied the shooting but later orally admitted it after a 22 caliber revolver, believed used by the boy and several other guns were found in the basement of the Casey home.

LIKE TV

Maragos quoted the boy as saying "I didn't want to hurt her." He said he was "doing it like they do on the TV."

No charges were filed.

Mrs. Orlofsky said the boy approached her from across the street when she left a bus. "Drop your purse or I'll shoot you," he ordered. "I'm not kidding. I just shot a guy and dropped him."

"I laughed at him at first," Orlofsky said. "They're repeating it's not kidding. I just shot a guy and dropped him."

Mrs. Orlofsky said she initially looked at the boy, where the shooter took place. He jerked his thumb toward her shoulder.

When the blond boy began ordered her to drop the purse, Mrs. Orlofsky said she turned and walked toward her home after the assassin pulled the trigger on an apparent mistake. Mrs. Orlofsky said the youngster fired.

The bullet struck her just under the shoulder blade. She staggered into the house and collapsed.

Mrs. Orlofsky is the mother of three and her husband is a salesman for a Denver radio station.

Probers To Seek Reasons

SUMMERVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—Rescuers brought out the last of 13 bodies from the blast-shattered workings of a southeastern West Virginia coal mine early today.

Four other men who escaped death after being trapped underground were hospitalized in Richwood. The hospital said the condition of one of the most seriously hurt, William Tucker of Persinger, had improved.

Still in critical condition was Paul Davis of Graigsville. Less seriously burned was Okey Donaldson of Summersville.

The body of Ralph Adams of Coalwood was the last to be brought to the surface. Word was sent out at 5:50 a.m. that his body had been located after a 16-hour search. Rescuers brought the blanketed form from the driftmouth about 7 a.m.

Mine officials were scheduled to begin an investigation into possible reasons for the double tragedy.

The latest of the two disasters, both of which are believed to have ignited gas, occurred near here yesterday. Buried on the banks of a Cleveland-based mining, marketing, ore and shipping concern between here and Richwood.

Fifty-four men were at work underground, but 37 were working on the surface-side of the explosion. Rescuers sought to safety without injury.

SLOPE MINE

The Burton operation is a slope mine, bored into the side of Curtin Mountain. It is located in a barely accessible thicket on the banks of the small Gansley River in Nicholas County.

The first of four men rescued reached the surface on his own feet, leaning on the shoulders of his rescuers, some four hours after the blast. He was Artie Humphreys of Craigsville.

Among the dead were mine superintendent O. C. Gales and Asst. Supt. Gladie Stephenson, both of Craigsville.

The other victims were: Joe McVey, Owen Wyatt, Kyle Spencer, Henry Westfall and Ralph Adams, all of Craigsville; William Henderson and Harry Brown, both of Camden-on-Gauley; Pete Weas of Richwood; Henry Byram of Summersville; and Fred W. Fenwick, and Donald Davis of LaFramk.

State Mines Director Crawford L. Brown said all the evidence indicated a gas ignition.
