Youth Night TV Crusade To Beam Message To U.S.

By JOHN BORCHERT
New Religion Editor
It's Youth Night all over the nation today as Billy Graham carries his Greater Charlotte Crusade message to young people over a nationwide television network.

This will be the third youth night of the week at the coliseum, with the service scheduled to start at 6:30 p.m. — doors opening at 5 p.m. The large delegations will be in the Coliseum tonight.

There will be approximately 350 persons from New York City here, arriving today in two special Billy Graham Charlotte Crusade trains. And 350 soldiers from Ft. Bragg plan to come here this evening for the service.

Last night Dr. Graham introduced to the audience two elders — Emory Harper and Johnny Spence, both of Columbia, S. C., who had been converted. It was while Mr. Harper was holding a service at the Veterans Hospital at Columbia that Mr. Spence heard the call of God and made his decision.

They both gave personal testimonies. Last night's crowd was reported a 12,000 persons, with 285 major decisions for Christ as "inquirers." There were about 200 empty seats in the choir, and a few hundred other vacant seats scattered around the big dome.

INTERNATIONAL NOTE
Prior to his sermon last night, Dr. Graham had some words to say on the Formosa situation. He urged all to read the editorial on the Far East situation in the current issue of Life Magazine.

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry's big three — its national contracts with the United Auto Workers Union wrapped up today — waited settlement of local disputes for a full-scale resumption of 1959 model production. Some 275,000 UAW members — most of them General Motors employees — remain idled by local disputes at GM, Ford and Chrysler.

Contracts covering skilled workers and salaried office employees were left hanging last Wednesday when Reuther wrapped up a production worker agreement at Chrysler. Under the agreement, skilled tradesmen and engineers will receive 8 cents an hour more than increases provided for production workers. Still unresolved at Chrysler is an agreement covering some 8,000 salaried office workers.

Sabrejets To Assist At Quemoy

By JAMES CARY

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist Sabrejets may now fly close escort for airdrop missions to Quemoy to guard them from Communist jet fighters, a Defense Ministry spokesman said today. Four Communist MIG-17s attacked transports parachuting supplies to the besieged offshore island yesterday, forcing one crippled C-6 to land. The Nationalist Defense Ministry revealed today the MIGs also strafed Quemoy.

"This can be stopped," said Rear Adm. Liu Hsi-fu, the Defense Ministry spokesman. "We are now going to sit there and wait for the transport planes to be shot up again."

U. S.-built F-8 Sabrejets were flying high altitude cover for the low-flying transports, Liu said. When the MIGs suddenly swooped on the slow cargo planes from the nearby Red China mainland, it took the Sabrejets too long to get down and the MIGs had fled.

NO HELP
"Your might say our airdrop planes were almost unscathed," Liu said. "Maybe we'll have to change our tactics to prevent low altitude sneak attacks like yesterday's by having some of our planes fly at low altitude."

The admiral emphasized that the main job was to protect the transports so they can deliver back to Quemoy. He said he was not hunting at Nationalist bombing of the MIG bases on the mainland in hopes of stopping the Communist fighters at their source.

U. S. officers expect such attacks would provoke Communist raids on the Nationalist air bases on Formosa. Since the United States is pledged to defend Formosa, that would draw the heavy concentration of American military strength here into direct conflict with Red China.

STRAFFING RUN
Liu said the MIGs attacked a flight of C-6s with machinegun fire immediately after they parachuted supplies to Quemoy and other strafed the island's main town of Kinmen City. He said no lives were lost. The Defense Ministry reported the Communist artillery bombardment went into its seventh week with 1,288 shells hitting Quemoy up to noon Friday. The Communists fired 6,022 shells for a six-week total of about 420,000 or 10,000 a day, the Nationalists said.

Policeman On Job Though Millionaire

By RICHARD VALERIANI

NEW YORK (AP) — What happens when a $7,000-a-year policeman suddenly becomes a millionaire?

He reports for work as usual and asks to be let alone. At least that's what patrolman John B. Gaul did.

Gaul became the richest New York's finest Friday. He fell heir to the lion's share of a 2 1/2-million-dollar fortune, bequeathed him by an uncle.

The 39-year-old father of two reported as usual for his 4 p. m. to midnight shift as a station house clerk. Not so usual was the battery of reporters and photographers awaiting him.

Gaul, cited five times for meritorious service in the line of duty, retreated before the demands of the press. He held up in his captain's office.

The captain, Sgt. J. J. ... said a statement. "Patrolman Gaul," he said.

ROSE, CORN FACTIONS IN COMPROMISE
MARION, Ill. (AP) — A compromise has been suggested in a contest for the national flower of corn tassel or the rose should be selected as America's national floral emblem.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), a tassel advocate, suggested Friday that the tassel be chosen as the U. S. emblem and the rose, or more specifically the peace rose, as the international flower of the United Nations.

Douglas said the rose, nominated by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), is the national flower of England, Iran, Rumania, Luxembourg, Honduras and perhaps other nations.

Youth Spends 17 Hours At 9,000-Foot Level

By ROBERT F. ALKIRE

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gritty rescuers planned to inch their way down 9,000-foot Mount Olympus today with a stretcher bearing a 17-year-old boy injured in a hiking accident.

A rescue party that fought crevasses, sheer rock cliffs, brush and boulders reached D or E 1 as Chapman as dawn broke over the jagged, grey peak that overlooks the Salt Lake Valley.

The climb had been such an effort the party was unable to bring along stretchers and first aid equipment. However, they hoped to get the needed items from a helicopter or another climbing party.

For 17 hours after he slipped and fell about 20 feet down the mountainside, the youngster had waited with a friend for help to arrive. As night came, the temperature dipped to within a few degrees of freezing and numbed the lightly clad youths.

FACE SWOLLEN
Rescuers reported by walking to the crest would be a stroll compared to the tricky task of lugging a loaded stretcher down.

Chapman, 17, became known about 1 p. m. Friday when 17-year-old Kit Sallenback stumbled off the mountain and told a service station operator what had happened. Sallenback said he did not see Chapman fall, but thought it occurred while the boys were playfully rolling rocks over cliffs.

Sallenback was so distraught by the experience that he wandered off into the brush and was found by three other relatives. Gaul rejoined the force June 12 as a patrolman.

MOST OF MONEY
Gaul said Friday a settlement appeared to have been reached and he expected to have the bulk of the estate's money shortly.

Although proud of his record as a policeman, he said "I don't all policemen live for the day that their 20 years are up so they can retire."

But he did not commit himself to immediate retirement. "I don't want to make any decision yet," he said. "I want to get the feel of all that money first."

In the meantime, Gaul said, he would be happy if anyone would let him alone and let him get on with his police work.

A-Ban Question Pushed In UN
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The federal government said today the Little Rock School Board's pending plan for opening the city's high schools on a segregated basis is invalid.

The government asserted US District Judge John Miller had the power to grant an injunction against the school board's plan. Judge Miller declined to make a ruling in the private school issue. The school board has asked him to rule whether it could legally lease schools to a private corporation.

'A DARNED GOOD PILOT' Plane Lands On NY Street

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — An unidentified pilot made a perfect landing early today on an upper Manhattan street, then fled from the single-engine, two-seater craft.

Police said they were seeking for questioning a man who landed a small plane in a city street two years ago.

The plane, a red and white Cessna, turned out to belong to Donald Hulse of Paramus, N. J., who operates an aeronautics school at Teeterhorn, N. J. airport. At Teeterhorn, officials said, a plane took off at 12:30 p. m. (EIT) from the field's west taxiway with a 170-hp navigation lights, clearance, or radio contact with the control tower.

On the block in which the plane landed are apartment buildings varying in size from 10 to 10 stories.

Police removed the plane's wings and fuselage aboard trucks for removal to a station house.

Hulse said the plane is one of 10 of the same type his school uses.

Authorities said they wanted to question Thomas Fitzpatrick, 28, who on Sept. 29, 1956, "borrowed" a small plane from Hulse's school at Teeterhorn and landed it safely on St. Nicholas Ave. at 181st St.

Fitzpatrick, blond and husky, left the plane and walked into a nearby tavern, where he was packed up.
