Brighter Side

Just Try Another Airport

(FROM AP REPORTS) The welcoming committee had returned empty-handed from an Abieskie airport and it looked as if the Democratic rally would fizzle. When Gov. Luther Hodges and Sen. B. Everett Jordan arrived, it was in a farmer's rattling pickup truck. "We finally hitched a ride," Hodges explained. Others said the governor's plane had landed at the wrong airport.

Rescuers Carry Ramirez To Stretcher

Buried Alive

Man Worried Over Rescue Machines

CORONA, Calif. (AP) — What does a man buried under 100 tons of rock and earth think about? Those digging machines that are biting down to free him, says Carlos Ramirez. He was buried for 90 minutes yesterday in a quarry rockslide. "I've seen a couple of fellows killed by machines trying to dig them up," Ramirez, who came through the ordeal with only minor injuries, "I thought that might happen to me, but I still couldn't move, so what could I do?" The steel helmet he wore saved his life. It made an air pocket over his head.

He was slanting explosives at the base of a 150-foot cliff when the slide buried him. A steam shovel went to work and removed 40 tons of earth and rock. A smaller machine was sent in and removed another 60 tons. Fellow workers then started in with hand shovels. Ramirez, 54, was motionless when he was uncovered. But when one of the men touched him, he screamed. "I don't go for church," he said. "Yet, I've got the strongest belief in God of anybody in the world. I worked 36 years up and down the mines and yet God didn't want old Carlos, even this time. I've still got some time."

Nine Arrested

Bragg Soldier Killed In Rioting

FAYETTEVILLE (AP) — A Ft. Bragg soldier was shot to death here last night by a Fayetteville patrolman. The shooting setting off a riot between soldiers and policemen. Pfc. Roberto Hernandez, 19, of New Braunfels, Tex., was shot through the leg, arm and chest by Patrolman W. R. Taylor, 27, and was pronounced dead upon arrival at Womack Army Hospital at nearby Ft. Bragg.

As the pistol fire cracked out in front of a mid-town tavern, soldiers streamed out of other taverns and a bus station. The police report said officers were pushed about as "several" soldiers quizzed in general from the tavern. Emergency calls brought sheriff's officers and military police and they were increased to 20 to 25.

NINE ARRESTED

Officers arrested nine soldiers on minor charges, including refusal to heed an officer, assault, and resisting arrest.

The police report of Chief W. F. Wercell gave this account: Hernandez was seated in the tavern with Pfc. Luther M. Jennings and a companion named Berra. A switchblade knife was flashed when Jennings and Berra teased Hernandez about his girl friend, a barmaid in the tavern.

Someone telephoned police headquarters, and a police radio dispatcher telephoned Patrolman Taylor at a nearby call box and told him to investigate. Taylor said the three were quarreling in front of the tavern when he arrived and that Jennings was holding a hand in a pocket. Taylor said he asked Jennings for the knife. Jennings tossed the weapon to the pavement and Hernandez retrieved it. Tay-

Brooklyn Project Is Cleared

By ROBERT J. WEIRICH
News Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Urban Renewal Administration today announced an advanced allocation of $50,799 to Charlotte for undertaking preparation of a general neighborhood renewal plan for the Brooklyn Urban Renewal Area.

At the same time the administration announced that one million dollars has been approved for the first project, and was being set aside in anticipation that Charlotte would request federal loan and grant assistance.

The project covers 228 acres. The administration made its announcement jointly to the offices of Sen. Edward Jordan and Rep. Charles Raper Jomas of North Carolina's Tenth District.

10-YEAR LIMIT

The grant carries with it the stipulation that the renewal activities project may be carried out in stages, but that they may not extend over a period of more than 10 years. This means that the renewal plan must be carried out as a single project.

The announcement came from Commissioner R. L. Steiner. The Urban Renewal Administration comes under the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

The program, the first phase of which will cost an estimated $15 million, was presented in the urban redevelopment Commission's application to the Housing and Home Finance Agency for an advance of the planning funds.

It was pointed out in the application that the first phase will represent 20 per cent of the Brooklyn area, which has been officially designated by the City-County Planning Commission as blighted.

SOUGHT $7,788

A 12-block area is tentatively being set aside for redevelopment. The application for planning funds actually sought $14,013 for administrative overhead and services and $64,000 for the first year of actual planning work—a total of $77,888.

The planning study will include existing land use, structure, public and semi-public community facilities, public utilities, rights-of-way and street improvements and zoning.

Jennings grabbed Taylor from behind, but the officer was able to draw his revolver. His first shot went astray, striking a nearby building. Jennings released Taylor, but Hernandez hit in. Taylor fired three times, hitting the soldier with each shot.

It was then that crowds of soldiers swooped out of taverns. Chief Wercell said the calls for help were put in when his men were being "pushed around" by the soldiers.

Coroner Alph Clark said an inquest would be held Friday at 8 p.m.

Committee Decision

Stadium Crusade Ideas Rejected

(Other Stories On Page 13-B)

Memorial Stadium will not be used for the Billy Graham Greater Charlotte Crusade. Members of the crusade executive committee met with Dr. Graham last night concerning use of the stadium on Oct. 12 and Oct. 19.

George M. Ivey, chairman of the committee, told The News today that following a discussion a vote of the committee rejected the proposal.

"We decided not to use the stadium," explained Mr. Ivey, "due to the scarcity of parking areas and the possible tie-up of traffic on Independence Blvd."

COULD HOLD 26,000

The stadium, according to Marion Diehl, superintendent of the Park and Recreation Commission, could hold 26,000 persons seated and standing. The largest crowd at the coliseum and auditorium to date has been 17,775 persons, with several hundred being turned away because of lack of room.

Last night 14,500 persons sat in the coliseum and auditorium to hear Dr. Graham, with 815 coming forward to make "decisions for Christ" as "inquirers."

The Charlotte-born evangelist will continue his services at 7:30 P.M. today. In his sermon last night, Billy Graham told the audience, "I am not going to speak on the subject which announced Sunday, but I want to speak on a similar subject entitled, 'God's Delinquency.'"

"I think most of us have been beginning to follow the newspaper stories in one of our papers (The Charlotte News) about the teenage problem in Charlotte, about some of the amazing things that are going on which we did not realize are happening in this city."

The evangelist used Sampson as his example in the sermon at a teenage delinquent. "I want us to look at the life of Sampson thought for our illustration of what I believe to be the worst problem right here in the city of Charlotte."

Dr. Graham said that Sampson "was a young man who had every advantage, but he was a teenage delinquent. We want to see how he got that way and what he could have done to have saved himself."

ANALYSIS TRIED

"Our newspapers today are filled with stories of teenage violence and crime. By 1965 it is predicted that one boy in five will have a police record by the time he is 20 years of age."

Suffers Second Stroke

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The life of Pius XII, Pope for 19 years of war and ideological strife, was ebbing away tonight.

He suffered a second stroke during the day and later his physicians reported he was suffering "a grave cardiac pulmonary collapse."

The 82-year-old pope and his breathing were giving in to the strain of illness intensified by the weight of his 82 years.

One of the physicians, while declining use of his name, said: "He is in a deep coma and a speedily pulse were symptoms of his decline."

The Vatican radio speaker, broadcasting from the Pope's antechamber, told of an air of resignation about the sickroom.

Members of the papal household was reported by a Castel Gandolfo police official to have sent this message to the Italian government.

All four specialists who were attending the Pope since he was felled by Monday's stroke kept watch at his bedside.

All close relatives of the pontiff and all cardinals of the Vatican Curia as well as other cardinals from Italy were in an antechamber.

Heightening the emotional tension were false reports that the Pope died this morning. The Italian news agency Italia issued one such report. The Vatican officially denied it, but several Rome newspapers came out with extra editions.

The Vatican radio announced at 7:30 a.m. EST in a special broadcast to 12-11 this was 82-year-old Pope Pius XII.

The speaker added, however, that the Pope's pulse had increased to 123-it was 82 yesterday morning—and he had a slight fever.

Another instance cited a fight which began at a nearby garden and was brought "all the way across town" to the center. One boy, who advanced under into the center's restaurant, but the center director quickly ended the disturbance.

"This also happened about a year ago," Mr. Diehl said. Mr. Diehl pointed out that "one rotten apple" in a barrel of teenagers eventually turns up at a community center. But he added that once a boy or girl misbehaves, the center director bars him from the building and writes a letter to the child's parents etc.

Mr. Kilgo's first article, according to parks Dept. Marion Diehl, referred to an incident involving a boy with a knife. The center director took place at one of the community centers a year ago. We've had no trouble whatsoever at our centers in a long, long time.

Killer Janice Stays Clear Of U. S. Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Janice, the season's most deadly storm, spun its winds of 75 m.p.h. in the open Atlantic today, a menace to unwary sailors. Its victims numbered 10.

Janice was located at 5 a.m. about 435 miles east of Jacksonville.

Reconnaissance aircraft and ships reported Janice was moving between North and northeast and northeast at 8 m.p.h. The Weather Bureau said the course would keep the storm's center well off the East Coast of the United States.

Gale warnings were lowered south of Wilmington to Vero Beach, Fla., but continued to fly south of Cape Hatteras to Wilmington.

Small craft from the Virginia capes to Wilmington were advised to remain in sheltered waters and those south of Wilmington to the east central Florida coast were told to proceed with caution until the sea subsided.

Janice gained its reputation as a killer when it whipped through Bahama waters yesterday on a drive to the open sea.

A 45-foot Haitian sloop, trying to make shore in heavy seas, was damaged and 18 persons aboard were drowned.

Capt. Curwood Knowles, Chief of Nassau's air-sea rescue unit, said the sloop's crew went down just off shore near Turnbull, Long Island (Bahamas), 200 miles southeast of Nassau.

An unidentified sailboat skipper drowned when winds of 60 miles an hour buffeted Nassau Harbor Monday afternoon.

Knowles said the sloop, the Den Davin, left Nassau Oct. 1. It was loaded with fuel and passengers and crewmen.

The Den Davin was caught in the full blast of Janice which stormed out of Cuba northward into the Bahamas Monday.

Park Board Raps Articles in News

By DONALD McDONALD
News Staff Writer

Disagreement with an editorial and statements in a Charlotte News series on juvenile delinquency was voiced by members of the city's Park and Recreation Commission at a special meeting yesterday. One commissioner, Joe Murnick, was questioned about comments he made to News Reporter John Kilgo.

Commissioners objected not so much to Mr. Kilgo's series but to an accompanying editorial in Monday's News which stated: "The community centers themselves seem to be breeding grounds for delinquency and the experts cannot cope with the consequences."

Mr. Kilgo's first article, according to parks Dept. Marion Diehl, referred to an incident involving a boy with a knife. The center director took place at one of the community centers a year ago. We've had no trouble whatsoever at our centers in a long, long time.

Faubus To Aid Fund Campaign

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Faubus stepped into the drive for private school funds today by preparing thousands of letters appealing nationwide for money.

The letters are signed by Faubus and Dr. T. J. Baney, president of the corporation seeking to establish all-white private high schools here to replace those closed by the governor to avoid integration.

The appeals will be printed on the governor's stationery and will be ready for mailing in about four days. They will go to the thousands of people who have written or wired Faubus urging him to stand fast against the federal government.

The appeal letter promises a pro-rata refund of any unused portion of contributions toward the use of state money become legal later on.

The letter states that the original plan to use Faubus money for the operation of private, segregated schools was thwarted by federal court action which restrained the state from using public funds for support of private schools.

Do Centers Cut Down On Crime?

(Third In A Series)
By JOHN KILGO
News Staff Writer

Charlotte's taxpayers have spent thousands of dollars building community recreation centers for their children.

They wanted to give the children a place to go where they could have good, clean fun. The centers were to help cut down on juvenile crime.

But the directors at the centers can only do so much. There's nothing they can do about the hoodlums who hang around outside on the public streets.

If a person becomes disorderly inside the center or comes in with whiskey or beer on his breath, he is asked by the director to leave.

If necessary, the center director can suspend anyone from all of the centers. They sometimes have to do this.

The Youth Bureau of the Charlotte Police Dept. works hard to help keep the centers a nice place for the children to visit.

Youth Bureau Director J. R. Hall said recently, "If the kids give the center directors a hard time, they get suspended from the center."

"When this happens, they get out and hang around the front of the center, on the public sidewalk, and make trouble."

Joe Murnick, member of the Park and Recreation Commission, says the fact that a very few young hoodlums frighten some of the respectable children from coming to the centers is, in itself, a serious problem.

Our Weather

LISTED AS TROUBLE SPOTS

"We'll shut down a center before we let the hoodlums take it over," he said.

Mr. Diehl is proud of the programs offered by the centers, and he's happy with the people he has running them.

One center director said: "The situation was pretty bad when I came here 18 months ago, but now we have the finest group of children coming to our center that we've ever had."

But the fact remains a juvenile crime report on Die at police headquarters states "Places investigated or inspected by Youth Bureau detectives for conditions that influence or contribute to juvenile delinquency are: ... Dances at Park and Recreation Centers." Thirteen other places are listed.
