Crippling Storm Rolls To Canada, Leaving 10 Dead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Blizzard conditions crippled the Northern Plains today as a giant storm system rolled slowly into Canada leaving much heavy drifted snow, tornado

At least 10 deaths were attributed to one of the earliest major winter storms in Weather Bureau history—a turbulence that swept from Texas and Louisiana to Minnesota and Wisconsin, from the slopes of the Rockies to the Mississippi River.

The storm center moved to the Minnesota-Canadian border overnight and was expected to pass into western Ontario by evening, resulting in diminishing winds and generally improving conditions over the northern Plains late tonight.

HEAVY DRIFTING

Heavy snow drifting was reported over the Dakotas and north-west Minnesota, making road travel hazardous.

Temperatures dropped to 21 below at Alamosa in south central Colorado, 12 below at Flagstaff, Ariz., and 6 below at Zuni, N. M., and Bryans, Kan. Low readings from Texas to Illinois were mostly in the 20s and 30s but the temperatures sagged to 7 above at Goodland, Kan., and 12 at Dahlart, Tex.

A band of rain and scattered thunderstorms stretched from the Gulf Coast to Texas to the Ohio-Michigan border, marking the advance edge of the cold air.

A few snow flurries continued over the Rockies. Rain began moving into the Northwest again, with snow over interior of Washington and Oregon.

Highway accidents caused three deaths in Missouri, the Mercury Colorado and one in South Dakota.

Unusually severe for this time of year, the storm deposited as much as 18 inches of snow Monday at Leavenworth, S.D.

Generally the depths were six to eight inches across western Kansas. Throughout the blizzard 50 mph winds whipped the snow into road-clogging drifts and made driving hazardous. Roads from Kansas southward, however, were generally open to travel.

SNOW ON DESERT

In Arizona the storm left two inches of snow in the desert, deposited 4 1/2 inches in the warm Tucson and 4 inches at Flagstaff.

Bone-chilling temperatures followed the clearing. The Mercury dropped to zero in northern Arizona and 10 below in northern New Mexico.

Thunder and high winds caused damage in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Iowa as the storm system approached. Scattered severe thunderstorms and possible tornadoes were forecast for an area from extreme southeastern Iowa to extreme southeastern Wisconsin.

High winds caused two other deaths. A Texas oil field worker was killed when winds blew over an oil rig near Odessa. An Oklahoma gas field worker in a high wind struck her chicken house. Heart attacks caused two deaths in the Oklahoma storm.

Hope faded in Arizona for the safety of three Boy Scouts missing since Saturday in the snow-covered and bitter cold Santa Rita Mountains near Tucson. A high wind struck her chicken house. Heart attacks caused two deaths in the Oklahoma storm.

In other parts of Arizona about 10 hunters were trapped but believed safe in cabins near Flagstaff. Three others were snowed out.

State Attacks Record Files Of Judge Boyd

Assistant Clerk Tells Of Uncollected Bonds

By JOHN KILGO
News Staff Writer

The prosecution attempted to prove today that Judge Basil M. Boyd did not keep a "faithful" record of the proceedings in City Recorder's Court.

Police Sgt. Charles Adams—who for 11 years was assistant court clerk — spent the entire morning testifying for the state in Mecklenburg Superior Court.

In response to Solicitor Grady B. Scott's questions, Sgt. Adams said:

During his 11 years as an assistant clerk no record was kept of signed bonds that were ordered forfeited.

No official record of notices to professional bondsmen that their bonds had been forfeited was kept. No register for signed bonds was kept.

ALLOWED TO ACCUMULATE

Sgt. Adams also said over $20,000 in forfeited but uncollected bonds were allowed to accumulate in the city court.

He said as far as he knew, no written notices were ever given to professional bondsmen informing them that their bonds had been ordered forfeited.

Sgt. Adams said he didn't know of any steps Judge Boyd took on occasions, order notices be given to the bondsmen after the officer would ask for them in court.

But he said he doesn't know if the judge ever took any steps to see that the written notices were delivered.

WARRANTS AS EVIDENCE

Mr. Stott introduced over 30 warrants into evidence this morning after they were identified as official city court documents.

All of the warrants were cases where bonds had been forfeited but weren't collected until after the city court investigation was launched in May 1958.

After Mr. Stott showed Sgt. Adams the warrants, he turned to the judge's docket book to see if anything was recorded in the docket book near the date.

The spaces in the docket book were blank on all but one occasion. That time the letter "G" was written in and the words, "Prayer for judgment continued until May 10."

Sgt. Adams testified no one made notations in the docket book but the judge and the judge pro tem.

He also said he didn't know of any records kept by Judge Boyd except those in the docket book. Solicitor Stott has now introduced into evidence these things:

The city court docket books since Boyd came into office in May, 1955.

The city court minute books. Sgt. Adams said the clerk of court and his assistants kept the minute book. This is done by copying the disposition off the

AF Is Silent About Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A mighty Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile thundered into space last night but the Air Force was silent today on the fate of the giant war rocket.

If the 100-ton missile hit its target, the United States took another great step forward in its campaign to develop a carrier that can drop a nuclear warhead on any target on earth.

There was official silence, however, after the Atlas blasted off at 11 p.m. EST last night.

The three engines of the Atlas built up more than 350,000 pounds of thrust before the missile was released from its launching pad. When it soared safely upward into the black Florida night sky, the brilliance of its exhaust flames almost blinded newsmen watching from a platform three miles from the launching pad.

The thunder of the rocket's engines shook this area of the Atlantic Coast as the Atlas climbed straight upward for about a minute, then curved gracefully away to the southeast.

Four minutes later, it resembled a great star hanging in the sky. Then, 30 seconds later, it suddenly vanished from view as its fuel burned out.

Reportedly, this Atlas was aimed for a target 3,000 miles from the Atlantic Ocean tracking range.

The beautiful takeoff contrasted sharply with the last Atlas shot Sept. 18. That rocket, aimed for the full 6,325-mile intercontinental range, lit up 40 seconds after liftoff. This was the first time the U. S. tried to fire an Atlas "all the way."

—SHIPMATE SHOT IN AUTO— Sailor In Short, Wild Spree

BOSTON (AP) — A 23-year-old sailor, awaiting court martial, returned shipmates aboard the pick-up ship USS Investigator today.

Lizotte was a full-blooded Indian, was captured later in Providence, R. I., after he burst into a lodging house and demanded clothing.

The sailor, Fireman Raymond J. Lizotte of Poplar, Mont., who the Navy said is a full-blooded Indian, was captured later in Providence, R. I., after he burst into a lodging house and demanded clothing.

Patrolman George Gilbert captured him a half block away after a struggle in which he knocked out Lizotte with a punch to the nose. Gilbert said he had no time to draw his own gun when Lizotte went for it, so he just swung.

Wounded in the fray in East Boston was Seaman Donald Hicks, 19, of Jacksonville, Wis.

Lizotte then forced Hicks, Ryan and Thompson to walk from the ship to Hicks' parked car. Thompson bolted from the group and alerted a civilian guard.

When Lizotte demanded that Hicks drive down a one-way street, Hicks balked and Lizotte fired a single shot into his jaw.

Hicks was pushed from the car by Lizotte and Ryan was commanded to drive.

As Ryan and Lizotte neared the Chelsea Naval Hospital, Lizotte told Ryan to stop the car and get out. Lizotte then sped off.
