Explosive chemicals also spilled in the accident early today, posing a threat to nearby homes before firemen spread foam. Paper Sales Bring Over $3,000 To Squad Funds

Members of the Charlotte Exchange Club sold 4,944 copies of The News in yesterday's effort to raise funds for the Charlotte Life Saving Squad.

The street sales boosted the total raised to well over $3,000. Street sales brought in $850 and more than $2,200 had been raised in advance sales.

The News and Exchange Club cooperated in the project to buy equipment for the squad. The club already has provided an ambulance.

B. C. Flowers, captain of the rescue squad, today expressed thanks to The News, The Exchange Club, and Ladies of the Moose, who also sold papers.

"We also want to thank the people of Charlotte for their splendid support," Mr. Flowers said. "The squad's only financial aid comes from the city, which pays $1,000 yearly toward squad operations, and from contributions."

"We do not receive any United Appeal money," he said. The squad's needs were underscored recently when two youngsters drowned in a mudhole off Moore's Chapel Rd. Members of the Exchange Club worked from 10:30 a. m. until after dark yesterday, asking advanced prices for The News. They also delivered copies to contributors who ordered in advance.

Feud Flares Anew

Two of the three member units of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, charged with studying its relationship with the State Board of Higher Education, reflect negotiations between the two groups.

A member of the State Board of Higher Education told The News today that it did not.

Robert L. Lassiter Jr., Charlotte attorney and member of a special committee named to meet with a trustee committee, said his committee met only once with the trustees.

At that time, he said, problems allegedly existing between the two groups were not identified, and the only conclusion reached was that the two bodies would meet in the future.

Since that Feb. 20 meeting, he said, there has been no further liaison between the groups.

The discussion on the State Board of Higher Education, the board of trustees matter has a long history, but came to a head yesterday when a report calling for drastic reductions in the authority of the State Board was circulated.

The report was written by a special committee of the trustees headed by Thomas J. Pearsall.

It will be presented to the trustees executive committee on Monday and is expected to get full approval.

It calls for curtailment of the board's three member units of higher education, and prohibits the state board from controlling assignment functions and activities of the three member units of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

While there has been some controversy between the two bodies since Lassiter on page 2-A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All men, says Dr. Lydia Sicher, are afraid of all women — including their wives. Dr. Sicher, of course, is a woman. She is a matter of male interests, the psychoanalyst insists. The same inadequate feeling that makes men seek to be the center of the universe, she says, makes them gruff toward the fair sex when they don't really feel tough. The feeling that makes a man go out and pick up a babe when he loses his job. Unconsciously he identifies his failure to get the job with the fear that he isn't completely masculine. And so, in almost any situation you could imagine, Dr. Sicher would say men invariably are afraid of women.

Stokesdale Robbery

Lawmen Tracking Lone Bank Bandit

STOKESDALE (AP)—A strong, young Negro bank robber with a saved off shotgun and about $8,000 in loot was being tracked by lawmen and bloodhounds in rough terrain near here today.

The stocky gunman was chased into the Oak Ridge district yesterday shortly after the Stokesdale Commercial Bank was robbed of $17,200 at 12:20 p. m.

The FBI said today the posse finally had tracked the bandit 12 miles since he fled from the old getaway car, scattering bank bills wildly as he scrambled through thick and swampy terrain.

Nearly $9,000 was recovered before nightfall. The FBI said the apparently unharmed bandit either dropped or tossed away $2,900 as he fled the bank in a stolen 1950 automobile as cashier Gerald Richardson fired after him.

CAR FOUND

The getaway car was found abandoned on N. C. 68, about five miles south of here. As the posse pressed its search, it found other bills from the loot in the brush, apparently dropped or ripped loose from the paper bag in which the bandit carried it.

Richardson said the bandit entered the bank shortly after noon, uncovering a sawed-off shotgun from beneath a coat draped over his arm.

The bandit ordered Richardson to lie on the floor, then told 22-year-old Mrs. John R. Warren, a teller, to fill up a paper bag. "I don't know how much I had put in the bag," Mrs. Warren said afterward.

The gunman told bank employees to give him five minutes to get away.

The Guilford County Sheriff's Department said the bandit abandoned the vehicle between Oak Ridge and Stokesdale and fled into the woods.

Police then ordered bloodhounds and planes into the search. Bloodhounds were given the scent from a coat found near the car and officers were told of a Negro man seen plunging into dense woods and swampy area, carrying a gun.

WAVE PLANS

One of the search plans circling the woods reported seeing two men waving a white flag, but the ground party could not locate them.

A plane flown by Justice of the Peace Robert J. Whelan of Greensboro, participating in the hunt, reported slight damage while landing. Whelan was not injured.

FBI agents from Greensboro and other cities joined Guilford County Sheriff John R. Walters and his deputy state highway patrolmen, Greensboro police, and agents of the federal Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

Man's Great Fear—Women

LOS ANGELES (AP)—All men, says Dr. Lydia Sicher, are afraid of all women — including their wives. Dr. Sicher, of course, is a woman.

She is a matter of male interests, the psychoanalyst insists. The same inadequate feeling that makes men seek to be the center of the universe, she says, makes them gruff toward the fair sex when they don't really feel tough.

The feeling that makes a man go out and pick up a babe when he loses his job. Unconsciously he identifies his failure to get the job with the fear that he isn't completely masculine. And so, in almost any situation you could imagine, Dr. Sicher would say men invariably are afraid of women.

PROOF NEEDED

"In our western culture . . . the male feels he must constantly prove himself adequate as a man," Dr. Sicher says in an interview. "The result has been that he strives to become a combination of God and Napoleon."

Dr. Sicher, disciple of Vienna's famed Alfred Adler, concludes that women constantly are trying to get men under their thumbs. How does she de-

Army Abandons Plans To Slash Guard Units

Capt. McCoy Talks About Accident

Just An Explosion

Crash Survivor Never Saw Plane

BRUNSWICK, Md. (AP)—Capt. Julius R. McCoy, sole survivor of a plane collision that killed 12 persons, says he never saw the other aircraft.

"We were cruising at about 8,000 feet in clear air," he said. "At no time did I see another plane. The next thing I knew there seemed to be an explosion. There were flames and wreckage all around me."

The 34-year-old Air National Guard officer, his hands swathed in bandages, his face red, black and blue from second-degree burns, was the only person to live through yesterday's collision. His condition was not serious.

A Chicago-to-Baltimore Capital Airlines and the Air Guard T33 jet trainer collided over the high Potomac River Valley eight miles west of this railroad town and about 50 miles northwest of Washington.

The four crewmen and seven passengers aboard the turbo-prop airplane were killed, along with the passenger in the trainer. Pfc. D. A. Chambers of Baltimore, Capt. McCoy was blown from the wreckage.

Stassen's Bid Ends In Defeat

By Associated Press

Harold E. Stassen's bid for a political comeback was shattered today as Pennsylvania's Republican primary opponent, Arthur T. McGonigle, a victory margin of nearly two to one. Returns gave McGonigle, 544,719 votes, Stassen 279,899.

The 31-year-old Minnesota native, admittedly losing an uphill fight, was swamped by a tide of votes that gave his gubernatorial primary opponent, Arthur T. McGonigle, a victory margin of nearly two to one. Returns gave McGonigle, 544,719 votes, Stassen 279,899.

In Pennsylvania's Democratic primary for governor, Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh won an overwhelming triumph, too.

Easy victories also were scored by Rep. Hugh Scott in the Republican senatorial primary and Gov. George M. Leader in the Democratic senatorial race.

McGonigle, a Reading pretzel maker, achieved victory in his first election try, beating a man who had his first taste of victory in political success when he was elected governor of Minnesota at 21. Stassen twice was elected governor of his home state.

Cash For Support Upcoming

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Army disclosed today that plans for disbursing six National Guard divisions have been abandoned.

The disclosure was made by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, in an address prepared for delivery to the Governor's Conference here.

The original plan for reduction in the size of the ground National Guard grew out of federal government economy measures.

In his prepared speech today, Taylor said many governors have passed along their thoughts on the proposal to Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and Secretary of the Army William B. Franke.

Then Taylor added: "This morning Secretary Brucker and I are happy to announce that there has been a relaxation of the original guidance upon which our plans thus far have been based."

ENOUGH MONEY

In Washington earlier Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he had information that the House Appropriations Committee would approve money enough to keep guard and reserve forces at full strength.

This would amount to a congressional attempt to reverse the administration's decision to reduce the approved strength of the state troops from 400,000 to 380,000 and the reserves from 300,000 to 270,000.

Vinson said his report on the money outlook, U. S. Armed Services Committee discussion of how the civilian components would fare under proposed reorganization legislation.

"I have been advised the appropriations committee will approve enough funds for 400,000 men in the National Guard and 300,000 men in the reserves," Vinson said.

He also said there is nothing in the reorganization bill approved by the committee which would "put the National Guard in jeopardy in the slightest degree."

The committee report, Vinson said, will contain language intended to make it clear the group does not intend any change in status for the National Guard or the National Guard Bureau which represents the state troops at the Pentagon.

FIRST DUTY

The fire brigade force furnished 200 paratroopers today—affiliated to the Caribbean when Vice President Nixon was best by rioters in Venezuela.

The existence of Strac and the units which compose it were announced simultaneously at Washington and at a news briefing here.

The organization some years ago was composed of the nation's experience in Korea.

If such a limited war force had been in existence when the Korean War "mobsters" were having a much shorter and more satisfactory campaign," said Brig. Gen. Charles H. Chase, Strac's assistant commander and chief of staff.
