Ervin Backs New Trial For Caudle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The long legal battle of T. Lamar Caudle and Matthew J. Gardner, convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government in an income tax case should be rewarded with a new trial, says Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-NC).

Ervin declared yesterday he was much gratified when Chief Justice Archibald B. Gardner of the 8th U.S. Court of Appeals granted Caudle and Comely a new trial, says Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-NC). The order was based on a petition for a new trial. Caudle, Wadesboro, N.C. lawyer, was head of the Justice Department's tax division under President Truman. Comely was Truman's appointments secretary. The two were convicted of helping St. Louis shoe broker Irvin Sachs evade income taxes in 1951. Sachs later was fined $40,000. During their trial a co-defendant, Harry I. Schweitzer, formerly an attorney for Sachs, became ill. He was granted a mistrial.

Now-Faint Call To Colors Echoed By Pension Help

Lady, if your husband answered President Polk's call to the colors for the Mexican War in 1846, the Veterans Administration will help you catch up with the atom-age cost of living. The VA regional office announced today more than 82,000 widows of pre-World War I wars will receive a pension increase of $7.27 to $12.50 monthly. This also includes widows of the Indian Wars, Civil War and Spanish-American War. But the VA is careful to point out that most—but not all—widows of Civil and Indian Wars veterans will get the pension boost. You see, you must be over 70 to collect.

U.S. Judge Okays Suspension Of Integration At Little Rock

2.5 Years Granted By Arkansan

By CLIFTON WELLS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An Arkansas federal district judge ruled today that racial integration at embattled Little Rock Central High School could be suspended until 1961. U.S. Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope said in his order, received by mail in the district clerk's office here, that the Little Rock gradual plan for desegregation could be suspended for 2½ years without the school "being considered collectively or individually in contempt of this court." Lemley, 74, heard the board's petition for suspension in court here June 18.

His ruling means that the seven Negro students still enrolled in the 2,000-pupil school at the conclusion of this school year will be bannished from Central this September.

NO WORD

Wiley Branton of Pine Bluff, an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who opposed the suspension, declined to say whether Lemley's ruling would be appealed. On the other side, Wayne Upton, president of the school board, expressed pleasure at the judge's decision. "I feel we made a strong case, and I am quite well pleased with the results of the hearing," he said. Upton and other board witnesses told Lemley at the hearing that racial incidents continued at Central throughout the past school year despite the presence of federal troops. They said they saw nothing to indicate that the situation would change this September if the Negroes were allowed to return.

A CHANGE?

The school board president said the board had based its request for a 2½-year suspension in part on the fact that Gov. Orval Faubus may no longer be governor in 1961. Last fall Faubus placed national guardsmen at the school on the eve of the school opening and ordered the troops to prevent Negroes from entering despite a federal court order directing the beginning of racial desegregation. Nine Negro students were turned away.

Under the school board's court-appealed plan integration was to begin at the high school level, then junior high, and finally in elementary schools.

Faubus withdrew the troops after U.S. Dist. Judge Ronald N. Davies of Fargo, N. D., had enjoined him and other state officials from interfering with integration.

Rioting broke out when the nine Negroes attempted to enter Central under protection of city policemen.

President Eisenhower on Sept. 24 ordered elements of the 101st Airborne Division here from Ft. Campbell, Ky., and federalized the National Guard, thus removing the guard from the command of the Arkansas governor.

The federal troops dispersed the anti-integration crowds, which had filled the street in front of Central in an enforced disorder. That integration proceed forthwith, Federalized guardsmen remained on duty at Central High throughout the school year.

HELPED OFF

When Father Wagner came down the gangway of the British freighter Changsha from Shanghai, he was trembling and had to be helped. But he managed a wan smile.

Father McCormack was the first to step off the ship and he called "hello." He was dressed in a black suit while Father Wagner wore a white shirt and dark trousers.

They appeared to be in only fair health at best, although they reported by telephone from Shanghai earlier that they were in good health.

The two were released last Saturday after spending nearly five years in Red prisons. Their release left four Americans in Red Chinese cells, two businessmen and two civilian employees of the U. S. Army.

Dag Fails To Solve Rebellion

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Dag Hammarskjöld left today to look into a couple of other Middle East hot spots after apparently failing to make any headway toward ending the six-week-old Lebanese rebellion.

As he flew to Israel after two days of talks, a bomb exploded only a few yards from the presidential palace, another of the hundreds of bombs hurled by terrorists since the rebellion began.

The U. N. secretary general was scheduled to visit Jerusalem and the Jordanian capital of Amman on the way to Cairo, capital of the United Arab Republic, which Beirut officials charge with supporting the rebels trying to overthrow Lebanon's pro-Western government.

Jordanian officials said Hammarskjöld would meet King Hussein and Premier Samir El Riad in Amman. U. N. headquarters in New York announced the secretary general would discuss Mt. Scopus, an Israeli enclave in Jordanian territory near Jerusalem where a Canadian U. N. truce official was killed in a clash May 28.

The U. N. announcement said one topic for discussion in Cairo would be the U. N. Emergency Force which has been separating Egyptian and Israeli troops since their 1956 war.

But another subject of Cairo talks was expected to be Lebanese violence. President Camille Chamoun of Lebanon has accused the U. A. R. of sending in from its neighboring Syrian province arms and troops to aid the rebels.

Hammarskjöld is scheduled to return to Beirut Monday or Tuesday and fly back to New York Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the Lebanese government took another legal step against the rebels as it sponsored small-scale warfare against them.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of 17 rebel leaders on charges of inciting terrorism and rebellion. They included former Premier Saad Salam, Hassan Karame and Kamal Jumblatt, heads of political parties outlawed a week ago.

Hammarskjöld met yesterday with Lebanese officials on the national issue while scattered gunfire rang through Beirut.

Ike Wonders Of Gift Sword

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, looking for a gift sword, wants to know whether George Washington was investigated for accepting a gift sword.

The President highlighted posed the question late yesterday in making a surprise 30-minute tour of the historic Washington home at nearby Mount Vernon, Va.

Turning from study of an ornate sword given to Washington by a German admiral, Eisenhower pointed out his shoulder at the weapon and inquired with a grin:

"Do you suppose they investigated him for getting a present?" This was an obvious allusion to the current controversy over gifts from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine to Sherman Adams, Eisenhower's chief aide.

The President made his unscheduled visit to Mount Vernon on the way back to Washington from a Defense Department conference at the Quantico, Va., Marine base.

Eisenhower had visited the Washington shrine many times before, but this was the first time he did so as president.

The chief executive showed special interest in the bedroom where Washington died in 1799 when he was 67. Eisenhower's present age, 69, was noted.

Gazing around the room, Eisenhower said Washington was "a good, strong fellow" but that it was "remarkable he lived as long as he did."

Admission, Denial

Haggard Priests Reach Free Soil

By JAMES WILDE

HONG KONG (AP)—A haggard American priest just out of five years in a Communist China prison said today he did not deny the Communist charges.

But a fellow priest said his companion was sick and made denial for both.

The Rev. Joseph P. McCormack, 65, and the Rev. Cyril P. Wagner, 51, were moved almost to tears by the greetings of fellow Catholics when they reached Hong Kong. Both looked worn and older than their years.

After they landed, well-known Father Wagner of Pittsburgh and Chicago said he did not deny the Communist charges.

"I did deal in black market currency," he said.

Father McCormack of the Maryland Seminary in Owning, N. Y., interrupted him and put his arms around the younger priest's shoulders.

"This man has been sick for five years," he told newsmen. "I deny the charges" against Father Wagner, he said. "My
