Arab Talks Fail

BENGASI, Libya (AP) — The Arab League announced today its failure to settle the angry dispute between Lebanon and the United Arab Republic after Lebanon rejected a compromise.

Polaris Up, Down Within 20 Seconds

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Navy Polaris experimental missile streaked skyward today on what was described as its toughest test yet. The slim rocket roared straight up for some 20 seconds but then seemed to break apart shortly after it moved toward a more horizontal course. At least one section plummeted into the ocean where crash boats were standing by. The Navy said in a brief announcement that the mission was to test certain components of the Navy Polaris missile system under more difficult conditions than on previous launchings. The last time the trim Lockheed rocket was fired on May 15, it burst apart with a huge flash of flame shortly after takeoff, but the Navy announced that the breakup was expected and the test appeared to be normal.

Three big events mark the current life of Rodger Elosion, Sunday he'll be graduated by the University of North Dakota, triplets came yesterday, and Wednesday dad was commissioned a lieutenant in the Marine Corps. The two girls and their brother weighed a total of less than six pounds at birth.

Six Negroes Apply To Change Schools

Six applications for assignment of Negro students to white schools for the 1958-59 term have been received at the City School Board offices. These initial requests, filed yesterday afternoon, called for original assignment of a first grader at Piedmont, for reassignment of a fifth grader from Biddleville to Seversville, third grader and fifth grader from Alexander Street to Piedmont, and fifth grader from Myers Street to Dilworth.

Dr. John Otis, assistant principal, said there was another application for reassignment from Northwest Junior High School to Seversville with no explanation of the grade of the student. Since Northwest is a junior high school and Seversville is an elementary school there is confusion about this application, Dr. Otis said.

FIRST THREE

During the last school year for the first time in history Negro students were admitted to white schools and three completed the year.

These three were at Central High School, Alexander Graham Junior High School and Piedmont Junior High School. The student at AG will attend Myers Street next year since Alexander Graham School is being abandoned at its Morehead St. site and the student's address is closest to Myers Street.

Data for filing applications for reassignment is regarded as June 12 although the school board has not officially acted setting the date.

10-DAY RULE

The state pupil assignment law says parents have 10 days to file application for reassignment after notification of assignment.

Students in school in the 1957-58 term are formally assigned by the board to the same schools for next year. Notice of such

Ike Picks Successor To Strauss

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Hiram B. Hall (R-Calif.) said the White House advised him today that John A. McCone, a Los Angeles business man, will be nominated to succeed Lewis L. Strauss on the Atomic Energy Commission.

McCone, 56, is an engineer as well as having widespread business interests. He was a Defense Department official in the administration of former President Truman, serving as deputy to the Secretary of Defense in 1948 and as under secretary of the Air Force in 1955.

A personal friend of President Eisenhower, McCone has been a frequent visitor to the White House.

LEAVES JUNE 30

Strauss is leaving the AEC June 30 when his current five-year term expires. His decision to step out as chairman and an AEC member was announced by the White House yesterday.

McCone is former president and director of the California Shipbuilding Corp., the Joshua Henry Ironworks; chairman of the board of the Pacific Far East Line; director of the California Bank of Los Angeles; the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Co. and the Industrial Indemnity Co.

Like President Eisenhower, he is a member of the Burning Tree Country Club in Washington. Strauss gave no specific reason for his decision. But he said in a letter to President Eisenhower that he believed "circumstances beyond the control of either of us make a change in the chairmanship of the commission advisable."

This could have been an allusion to speculation that his reappointment might run into stiff opposition in the Senate.

MIXED REACTION

Capitol Hill reaction to his decision was mixed, with some Congress members lauding his "great contributions" and others voicing pleasure at his impending departure.

The 62-year-old Strauss, a former New York banker, also will give up his post as special adviser to Eisenhower on atomic energy matters. But he will become the President's special assistant in charge of promoting the atomic energy program. At such, he will lead the U.S. delegation to an international scientific conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy in Geneva, Switzerland, next September.

For the past several months, he reportedly has been locked in a dispute with the State Department over U.S. policy on nuclear testing.

Strauss contends continued testing is necessary to perfect anti-missile weapons and to produce nuclear weapons with a minimum of radioactive fallout. He has said tests should be halted only in conjunction with a halt in production and with a safeguarded inspection system.

Dulles, on the other hand, is known to believe the United States should adopt its test policy, possibly along the lines of a temporary halt in tests while efforts are made to work out a more permanent arrangement with the Soviet Union.

"We were playing a game along the tracks to see who could stay on a track the longest. I fell off once, Jimmy fell off twice. Ronald didn't fall off at all."

"We walked along the trestle and then came down to the creek underneath. We threw rocks in the water. Then we climbed all the way back up."

"I saw a light. I was walking across the trestle. I heard yell 'there's a train.' We were walking toward the train. I saw light. I turned around and ran."

"If Ronald hadn't yelled, I would have got hit. I didn't hear a bell or whistle or anything."

Integration Move Ends In Tiny Cell More Freedom Or Red Revolt, States Dulles

Editor's Note — Associated Press staffer Douglas Starr and two other members of the Jackson Daily News were the only newsmen to contact Negro King after he was being held in a tiny cell on the top floor of the state highway patrol headquarters here and held an exclusive tape-recorded interview.

The interview came only an hour before the highway patrol threw a cordon of troops around the building and refused anyone access to the tall, Georgia-born King.

"I just want to get out of here," King said in the interview tape recorded by Newman Bergam of the Jackson Daily News. "I don't know what they're going to do to me." King told his interviewers, "I would like to get out. I wouldn't bother it any more. I would leave it alone."

But state authorities may not leave King alone. They indicated he would be examined by physicians. Chancery Clerk J.B. Howell of Oxford, who filed a lunacy warrant against King, said, "They conclude his mind is a little off, they will send him to a White field (state hospital) for psychiatric examination."

OUT OF LINE

King was taken from a line of students waiting to register for summer school at the University of Oxford and was told "that if I came back on the campus I would be arrested."

King said university registrar Robert Ellis told him the situation on registering was "just about hopeless." He said he asked that his application forms be returned, but was refused, and said he wanted to return to the waiting line.

"When I sought to leave the room they forced me out another entrance," King continued. "He said he was carried to a waiting car."

King said he was not mistreated and that he was not in the line of students waiting to register for summer school at the University of Oxford and was told "that if I came back on the campus I would be arrested."

De Gaulle Firm With Algerians

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — Premier Charles de Gaulle told representatives of the All-Algeria Public Safety Committee today its insurance authority must come to an end. He said he will return to Algeria.

He named Gen. Raoul Salan, military commander of the Juba, as his own delegate general in Algeria — a new post.

But De Gaulle will personally assume control of Algerian affairs, as his own cabinet minister for the strifetorn territory.

De Gaulle said the committee, which led the drive to bring him to power, must now concentrate on integration of the Moslem and European communities in Algeria.

On the last day of his tour of Algeria, he told representatives of the Algerian and the local safety committee.

"You must not trespass or substitute yourselves for legal authority. Your task is to work for a complete integration of souls."

De Gaulle said that authority "now exists in the hands of Satan. It must be combated."

This was a rebuff to Leon Delbecq, one of the civilian leaders who plotted the takeover in Algeria by the committee. Only yesterday De Gaulle had called for unification of all such groups both here and in France to prevent leaders of past French governments from coming to power.

Speaking at the committee's work for integrative he declared, "This is a great role but there is no question of going any further."

"It is very important that everyone here continue his function. But you must help in every way the authorities responsible for the

Conference At Summit Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today "we have been encouraged" by some recent Soviet foreign policy moves and believes significant agreements between Russia and the western powers are possible.

"Whether or not a summit conference would be productive of such agreements remains to be seen," Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He described as encouraging the Soviet agreement to join in scientific studies of policing an atomic test suspension and also Soviet acceptance of the U.S. proposal to confer on neutralizing the antarctic.

Dulles pictured the Soviet Communist bloc as in trouble on a number of points. Moscow, he predicted, will either have to grant more independence to the Eastern European satellite countries or else revert to Stalinist terror "with increased likelihood of violent revolt."

Dulles said that is only one of several "insoluble problems" faced by the Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the rest of the Kremlin leadership. He listed the problems as:

1. Education — the Soviet government has increased education particularly in science but "minds which can find the ways to penetrate outer space can also penetrate the fallacies of Marxism."

2. Economic — the Soviet people are demanding more consumer goods and the Soviet rulers will have to do more for the welfare of their own people.

POLICE EASIER

3. Personal Security — Stalinist brutality has been put under a microscope and the more relaxed atmosphere "individualism tends to grow."

4. Satellites — Poland and Hungary have shown that nationalism and individualism "are not extinguished even by massive and sustained pressures." Soviet leadership will have to grant more independence to the satellites or increase police oppression and thereby the chance of revolt.

5. Refugees — Millions of people have fled from Communist rule areas to free countries and are developing "a vested interest in the Communist rule."

6. Foreign Policy — Since "the force no longer brings results" in view of free world defenses Russia's rulers have switched to more friendly policies and developed "a vested interest in respectability."

"That is a trend," Dulles said, "which we welcome and encourage. It may bring nearer the day when Soviet leaders will be primarily interested in improving the lot of their own people and there will be an end to the natural exploitation of the ruled peoples by international communism."

"The Soviet rulers must either grant more independence, and thus liberate forces which oppose the existing regimes, or else must revert to the Stalinist tactics of oppression with increased likelihood of violent revolt," Dulles said.

"When I sought to leave the room they forced me out another entrance," King continued. "He said he was carried to a waiting car."

King said he was not mistreated and that he was not in the line of students waiting to register for summer school at the University of Oxford and was told "that if I came back on the campus I would be arrested."
