Ship Rescues Downed Fliers

SANTA MARIA AIRFIELD, Azores (AP)—A Norwegian freighter reported today that it had rescued three American airmen whose B-26 jet bomber crashed in the Atlantic off the Azores. The freighter Vesuvius reported that it first found two of the airmen and picked up the third two hours later. The freighter said it was heading for the Azores with the men. The bomber disappeared yesterday on a flight from Shaw Air Force Base, S. C., to a European base via the Azores. The plane's three crewmen were identified as Capt. Clyde B. Trent, Jr., 34, Gold Hill, N. C.; the pilot, First Lt. R. O. Owen, 27, Fair Oak, Calif.; the navigator, and Alvin L. C. Julius, 31, Raleigh, N. C.; the gunner. All are stationed at Shaw

Soviet Boss, Classier Hold Surprise Talk

CAIRO (AP)—The Cairo government today reported "an atmosphere of amity and understanding" in a Moscow meeting between President Nasser and Premier Khrushchev of Soviet Russia.

A meeting took place Thursday in Moscow between President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the U.S.S.R., said a terse statement from the president's office.

Two Beaten After Homes Are Blasted

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Three white men were arrested, two of them beaten by angry Negroes, shortly after dynamite rocked two houses in a racially mixed residential area here last night.

Police Commissioner Eugene Connor said warrants charging the three with the bombing would be issued during the day.

He listed the men as H. E. Walcott, 23; Ellis Lee, 42; and Crawford Neal, 28, all of Birmingham. Damage to the two houses, one Negro occupied and the other white, was slight.

Two of the three were arrested at a hospital where they went for treatment of multiple cuts and bruises inflicted by a Negro group a few minutes after the dynamite blast. The third was picked up after police talked with the first two.

STATEMENTS MADE

The three were questioned through the night at police headquarters after the two beaten men were released from the hospital. Connor said all three had made statements concerning the bombing.

The bombings occurred in the Fountain Heights area, an old section gradually evolving into a Negro neighborhood. The houses damaged were next to each other, with a trailer lot between.

GLASS BROKEN

No one was hurt although broken glass was strewn across the beds of three sleeping children—including a 9-month-old baby—in the home of William Blackwell, 47-year-old Negro railroad worker.

Retired mailman Barney Crawford was asleep and his wife was reading a Bible in the living room when the blasts occurred between their home and the Blackwells.

Damage was limited to shattered windows, cracked plaster and a few splintered boards on the front porches of both houses.

Earnest Coppins, Negro, said police he was looking out a window of his nearby home when he saw three white men light fuses to two separate bombs, toss them at the houses, then flee in a car.

The explosions occurred in a neighborhood racially split since the change-over from white to Negro residents began. A huge cross was burned in the area several months ago.

BLOCK AWAY

A Negro, who asked that his name be withheld, said the two white men came to the block and about a block from the explosion. He would not say how many Negroes were involved in the beating.

Blackwell bought his home from a person and moved in last month. He said there had been no indications his family was unwelcome. Another Negro family lives next door on the other side.

The Crawford family has lived in the home 25 years, but said they were planning to sell it to a Negro family.

WOULD TROOPS RETURN?—New Rights Chief Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Gen. W. Wilson White refused today to rule out the possibility that federal troops might be used again to enforce court orders on school integration at Little Rock, Ark., or elsewhere.

But, pressed hard on this point by Sen. John F. McClellan, D-Ark., at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing, White testified that "I can say categorically that it is not the program of the Justice Department to enforce school integration at the point of a bayonet."

"Can you say it will not happen?" demanded McClellan.

In his opinion, it will not, White replied. He said he would, however, to say troops would not be used again in circumstances like those which occurred at Central High School in Little Rock last September.

White, serving under a recess appointment made by President Eisenhower last Dec. 9, appeared

Embassy Windows Smashed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mobs in Moscow and Potsdam, Germany, gathered at United States installations today to protest landing of U.S. military forces in Lebanon.

In Moscow, an unruly mob of more than 10,000 Russians smashed 50 windows in the U.S. Embassy and pelted the building with bottles containing blue and green ink.

The wild demonstration lasted more than three hours before Soviet militiamen made a determined effort to get the crowd under control.

The smashing of windows and the throwing of ink bottles went on for more than an hour. The crowd covered a 10-lane boulevard in front of the embassy and extended for a half a mile in either direction.

A force of 300 to 400 militiamen finally began pushing the demonstrators back from the embassy to a sidewalk on the side of the street.

By that time every window on the first three floors had been smashed and there was a scattering of broken glass on other floors up to the sixth.

Lower-floor windows of the embassy were quickly smashed, and as projectiles continued to hit the front of the building glass was smashed on the floors above.

Those in the crowd carried placards saying "Shame on American democracy," "U. S. gangsters," "Hands off Lebanon" and "Tar and feathers for Dulles."

One youngster shinned up a drain pipe to a third-floor balcony and placed on it a placard saying "Long live Arab unity."

He slid down the pipe and then shinned up it again with a portrait of Gamal Abdel Nasser, president of the United Arab Republic.

A communist mob of 2,500 East Germans tore down and defaced the American flag flying over the U. S. military mission in Potsdam.

The mob wrote on the flag "Socialism go home" and then hoisted it again, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

The mob, made up of workers released from factories, demanded that American members of the mission come out and face them.

But, ADN said, the American officers and enlisted men remained inside the building.

The mob also demonstrated in front of the British mission, but there were no reports of violence.

Barbara Burns' Forgery Dropped

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The district attorney's office has declined to prosecute 20-year-old Barbara Burns for forgery.

Miss Burns, daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns, was arrested last Friday when a merchant called police over a $35 check she offered. Police said the check bore a fictitious address.

Miss Burns told officers she found it easier to cash checks if she gave an address near the place she was shopping.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY

MONHEGAN ISLAND, Maine (AP)—A family fell from a cliff into the sea yesterday and their mother and another woman drowned with the child in rescue attempts.

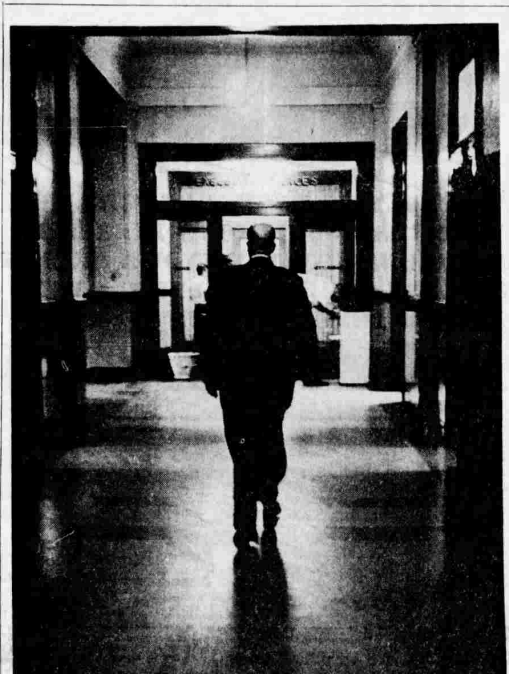

Erin said that local police were allowed to function for "only a few hours before troops were sent in with bayonets." Additionally, he said, contempt citations were levied against persons interfering with the court order.

OTHER METHOD

He and McClellan also emphasized that every absentee-dutied in the 40 counties of the eastern court district in Arkansas could have been sworn in as a deputy U. S. marshal to enforce the school integration order.

McClellan protested what he called the by-passing of these normal procedures, but White testified that "those alternatives overlooked the suddenness with which the mob developed there."

He also observed that Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas had thrown National Guardsmen around the school to keep the Negro students out.

Lloyd Henkel Takes Lonely Walk After Commission Decision

Henkel Still Calm Dejection Shows After 23 Years

By JOHN KILGO
News Staff Writer

When Lloyd Henkel left City Hall yesterday afternoon he walked away from a job he had held for 23 years. The Civil Service Commission had just fired him from the police force.

He came to the department in December 1935, was promoted to captain of traffic in March, 1942, was almost made chief in 1946, and was fired in 1958.

Although Henkel said today he'd rather not talk about the matter, there's little doubt that he is a dejected man.

What type man is it who has held his name splashed in the headlines for the last six weeks?

Lloyd Henkel lives in a rented five-room house on Wilmore Dr. His attorney, Henry Lee Harkley, said Henkel has been in debt for 16 years.

As a police captain, he was the boss of 51 persons and his pay was $5,000 a year.

He is married and has two daughters. They sat directly behind him during every minute of the Civil Service Board hearing this week.

Capt. Henkel is a big, heavy-set man, nearly bald. He is 55 years old and seems to be in good health.

Before the present investigation hit the headlines, Capt. Henkel enjoyed watching the Charlotte Hornets play baseball. "I haven't been much of anywhere in a good long time."

Sixth Fleet Now Totals 49 Ships

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—More U.S. Marines landed here today as the 1st Battalion of the 8th Regiment joined two Marine battalions already ashore.

This brought the total of U. S. Marines in Lebanon to about 5,100. About 2,000 U. S. paratroopers are nearby in Turkey and Britain completed the landing of 2,000 paratroopers in Jordan. New warship arrivals swelled the total of U. S. 6th Fleet units in Lebanese waters to 49.

An advance party of U. S. paratroopers arrived in Beirut to scout the territory patrolled by the Marines before taking over from the Lebanese.

While the British and Americans rushed their buildup in the Middle East, Saudi Arabia put a crimp in U. S. plans to fly tanker planes loaded with oil from Bahrain to Jordan.

U. S. Embassy sources in Amman said Saudi Arabia—which has been on the sidelines in this latest crisis—refused permission for the tankers to fly over Saudi Arabia from the Persian Gulf. This is the fastest and only direct route.

The oil badly needed by Jordan, as well as by British forces there, presumably will have to go by ship. That means a slow and circuitous voyage around the Arabian peninsula and up the Gulf of Aden to South Jordan's port.

MORNING LANDING

The Leathernecks reinforcements came ashore at 9 a. m. under the command of Lt. Col. John H. Brickley of Billings, Mont.

The landings were made from five amphibious ships, the Mount McKinley, the amphibious force flagship, the attack transports Fremont and Olmstead, the landing ship Spigell Grove and the cargo ship Muligan.

An American official said the Marines would stay for the present in the immediate area of the landing and maintain a beachhead there. Cover planes came from the carrier Saratoga off the Lebanon coast.

U. S. combat planes streamed into the Adana staging base in southern Turkey.

Other striking forces were being rushed to the Mediterranean by the British to move on a moment's notice if needed.

Creek British guardmen—Irish, Welsh and Grenadians—who have been policing Cyprus were alerted to be flown to any trouble spot. Troops of the U. S. 6th Fleet were alerted.

—WHILE THE CITY SLEPT—

Baghdad Coup Swift, Silent

WASHINGTON, P.—It took seven hours last Saturday day for the Baghdad rebels to seize and secure power over Iraq. Then, the rest of the day, the mobs took over.

That was the picture of the Middle East's latest July 14, as shown in a chronology based on the best available probable information here. Officials informed on the situation assembled the pieces, some admittedly sketchy, this way.

Baghdad was sleeping. It was 5 a. m. and the first faint rays of another sun were just becoming apparent. Slightly and silently, Brig. Gen. Abdul Karim Qasbi, seen last 20th Brigade into the unsuspecting city.

Whispered orders. Detachments dropped off at the railroad, at the bridges, at the telegraph office, at main street junctions, at the post office at Baghdad radio. Quietly, efficiently, the troops took over without firing their rifles and machine guns.

Knock, arrest. More whispered orders. This time, names of those to be arrested. Other detachments going around to the specified addresses, knocking and arresting, with orders to shoot if resistance.

In an hour the secrecy, locked in the hearts of fewer than two dozen men for two months, was no longer necessary. It was 8 a. m. The first phase of a classic coup was over. Baghdad radio blared the city awake with the news: "Citizens of Baghdad, the monarchy is dead, the republic is here."

And then, the names of 15 men, mostly young army officers, the 12-man Cabinet, headed by Kassem as premier, and the three-man Sovereignty Council, a new strategy-making supercommittee, topped by Lt. Gen. Najib el-Tariki.

A detachment, led by two officers, See COTP on page 3A
