All Claim Prizes In SS Game

All four of last week's $10 prize winners in The News' Social Security game claimed their prizes before the 5 p. m. Tuesday deadline.

The $10 prize winners were Miss Gladys L. Russell, Salisbury, Richard L. Mabry, 2718 Springway Dr., Thelma Edger, 1827 N. Allen St., and May Cash Blue, 200 Green Blvd., all three of Charlotte.

Their names were drawn in the weekly contest ending noon last Friday. A new set of winners, including one $50 prize winner and four $10 winners will be drawn this afternoon. Winning numbers will appear in tomorrow's issue of The News.

Mrs. Ethel Mulligan of 900 Seagriff Rd. was last week's $50 prize winner.

'Insect' Luckily Arrived Spent

RATON, N. M. (P)—Mrs. Revmond Salazar was cutting weeds in her yard and felt something sting her arm. She swatted at it and felt a lump, just under the skin. A neighbor dug out a 22 bullet. Police said the bullet was fired from a considerable distance and was almost spent when it struck her. She heard no shot.

NLRB In Middle

Non-Union Pews Cause Of Dispute

WASHINGTON (P)—Everybody concerned is appealing the case of the non-union church pews. The National Labor Relations Board itself must decide whether an examiner's findings were just right, too hard or too soft.

The case involves complaints by the Endicott Church Furniture Co., Warsaw, Ind., that the Carpenters Union has boycotted installation of Endicott products in churches around Chicago, Minneapolis, New York and Detroit. The union lost an NLRB bargaining rights election held in March 1956 among the 40 employees of the Endicott firm.

The company contends the union since then has been trying to stop churches from installing Endicott pews, as a means of forcing Endicott to capitulate and put its workers under union contract.

EVIDENCE NEEDED

An NLRB trial examiner, C. W. Whittemore, has ruled there was insufficient evidence at a series of hearings to support these charges.

But Whittemore did find that in the case of the Nazareth Baptist Church, East Williston, N.Y., the union illegally persuaded union workers to go on strike to stop nonunion Endicott workers from installing pews.

In that instance, the pastor, Rev. Albert P. Seibert, got the nonunion Endicott men to return to church and had his parishioners finish installing the pews.

Whittemore recommended requiring the Carpenters Union to agree in writing that it would not foment further strikes to prevent installation of Endicott products.

Whittemore's report also speaks about Carpenters' pressure on a chapel construction job at the U.S. Air Force base at Bunker Hill, Ind., to prevent installing of Endicott pews. But this was not litigated.

Other incidents of Endicott pestering churches with the union were cited as having occurred at the Edison Park Lutheran Church, Chicago; Mission Covenant Church, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; First Methodist Church, Hopkins, Minn.; Bethlehem Baptist Church, Minneapolis; and Woodlawn Church of God, Royal Oak, Mich.

The Endicott firm, the general counsel of the NLRB have appealed to the board, contending that examiner Whittemore went too light on the union. The Carpenters say Whittemore was wrong as to his own finding of illegality concerning the East Williston, N.Y., church strike.

The board hasn't said when it will act.

People Rap Help Delay in Flooding

By DONALD MACDONALD News Staff Writer

Embittered Beechwood Acres residents—promised relief "within two days" by Gov. Luther Hodges—watched skies today, fearing more rain which might bring additional flooding.

"He promised us some help within two days," said Paul Gentry. "But the way it looks, two days may be too late."

Flooded again yesterday during a mid-afternoon downpour, home owners on Beechwood Rd. S. tried hard to find some humor in their predicament.

But like some ominous monster hovering in the background was the Highway 29 bypass which the home-owners blame for all their troubles.

Since the bypass construction a ditch alongside the bypass brings torrents upon them from as far away as Freedom Dr.

"We've started sleeping with one foot out of the bed and on the floor," said Miss Virginia Thornton, 4029 Beechwood Rd. S.

LAST RESORT

"That way, if the flood comes in the night, it'll wake us up and we can at least swim out."

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gummels, who moved out of their home after Sunday's major flood, had not had time to get their furniture back in place when yesterday's flooding began.

"After can we live with something like this?" Mrs. Gummels asked in desperation.

A mass meeting was held in the neighborhood last night and residents heard WBT radio personality Grady Cole explain about his plans to get the water today.

Mr. Cole, Mr. Gentry and Carl Hamm, 4019 Beechwood Rd. S., talked with Gov. Hodges following his press conference yesterday at the Charlotte Press Club.

"Without blaming anyone or finding out right now who is responsible for the problem, we are going to do something to help you and do it quickly," the governor said.

HELP CALLED

The governor added that engineers from Raleigh will be here "within the next two days."

The state's chief executive said he called in his top people yesterday in Raleigh and told them, "We are not going to put this problem off."

"Get up to Charlotte as quick as you can."

The governor said there is some discussion on responsibility, but added, "I am not interested in who is responsible. We will do the work now and decide later who pays."

When it was learned the governor was in town and might visit the flood-stricken area, residents came home from their jobs to meet him.

But the governor's tight schedule—he was due in Pembroke at 3:30 p.m.—made it impossible for him to inspect the area.

The people hardly had time to voice their disappointment before a new flood was upon them.

As crowds of curious spectators drove to the area last night, residents hastily constructed a sign which read "Parking, 50 cents."

Another sign read "Governor Hodges, your highway commission stinks!" (Signed) Beechwood Acres Aquarium.

Secrecy Cloaks Note Goes Abroad Iraq UN Issue Ike Wants Limits Placed On Summit

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (P)—Secret consultations are going on at the United Nations to settle the thorny issue of Iraqi representation in advance of a Security Council summit meeting.

Qualified sources predicted today the outcome would be the seating of a representative of the new revolutionary regime on the 11-nation Council.

The U.N. diplomats are anxious to avoid any East-West ruckus the very outset of a summit meeting. This could happen if the Council got bogged down in an argument over Iraqi representation.

Up to now the Council has not decided whether Kadhafi Javard, here to represent the revolutionary regime, should take the place of Abdul Majid Abbas, who has been occupying Iraq's seat.

Abbas' credentials were signed by Fadhil Jamal, former foreign minister now in jail in Baghdad. The revolutionary regime is recognized, the representative at the summit level would be the Premier, Brig. Gen. Abdel Karim Nasser.

Meanwhile, other troublesome issues cropped up to bedevil U.N. diplomats and officials preparing for the summit meeting.

One big question is just which Arab nations would be invited to take part.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev specified that "Arab countries concerned" should be invited but did not name them. Lebanon, Jordan and the United Arab Republic — and Iraq as a Security Council member — are the only Arab nations that took part in previous Council debate on the Middle East crisis.

It's an open question whether the other Arab nations in the U.N. — Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Sudan — would be invited to take part.

There is also speculation whether Israel will bid for an invitation.

In addition, President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil has deformed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld that Latin-American countries ought to be represented at the summit conference if it is held outside the U.N.

A meeting elsewhere is still possible since French Premier de Gaulle has let it be known he could speed only two or three days in New York.

There is prospect of only a ceremonial opening Council meeting with the crisis issues being handled by the big powers in secret sessions. If this is decided, several countries may decide to send only their foreign ministers, even let their permanent U.N. representatives sit in for them.

Sniper Fire At Marines Dies Away

BEIRUT (P)—A U. S. Navy spokesman said today that no American planes have been shot down by anti-aircraft fire from Syria.

He was commenting on an announcement from Damascus yesterday that an unidentified jet fighter plane was shot down while intruding on the air space of the United Arab Republic. The Syrian announcement claimed the downed plane crashed and burned in Lebanese territory.

All was quiet with the U. S. Marines in Lebanon last night, a Marine spokesman reported. On previous nights U. S. troops have been harassed by rebel sniper fire, but the only fatality reported was a Marine killed by one of his own sentries when he did not answer a challenge.

The Marines reported today that a 29-year-old Lebanese carried a Marine's body into Lebanon with a pistol. He was not identified.

In Cairo, an Egyptian editor who accompanied President Nasser on his secret flight to Moscow quoted Soviet Premier Khrushchev as declaring "We Russians have weapons which could easily turn the U. S. 4th Fleet into coffins of molten steel for its sailors."

STUPID MAN

The article by Muhammad Helal in his newspaper Al-Ahram also said Khrushchev called the 6th Fleet commander, Vice Adm. Charles B. Brown "an exceedingly stupid and foolish admiral" and asserted, "if the God (Secretary of State) Dulles claims to believe in reality exists, I would be closer to him than Dulles, who claims he is his priest."

Helal reported also that Khrushchev declared at a luncheon talk that the western allies "would gladly give up half the years of their lives to get at" and (destroy) Nasser, Khrushchev added, "but they will never get that chance—never."

At the United Nations, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld announced he was setting up a seven-man group to advise him on enlarging the U. N. observer group in Lebanon.

The observers are working under a security council mandate to report any illegal shipments of arms and munitions into Lebanon from Syria. The Lebanese government has charged President Nasser of Arab Republic with having helped the rebels via its Syrian province. By sending in more observers, Hammarskjöld hopes to make it possible for the American withdrawal.

All commercial airline flights between the U. A. R. and Jordan were suspended meanwhile. Nasser has urged his partisans in Jordan to revolt and oust King Hussein, and earlier this week Jordan severed diplomatic relations with the U. A. R.

The new Iraqi government bid for the support of Indian Prime Minister Nehru with a message to the Indian government announcing it would "abide by the Bandung Conference principles, honor the country's international obligations" and protect foreigners and their property.

The only conditions Khrushchev imposed were that all three Western government chiefs should attend and that Prime Minister Nehru of India and Arab leaders should be invited also to take part.

The Brighter Side

Callers Are Speeded On Their Way Home

(FROM AP REPORTS)

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilburn of Louisville dropped in on Mrs. Norvella Stuart and dropped right out again.

The three stepped onto Mrs. Stuart's back porch, and porch and people, tell two stories. Mrs. Stuart and Wilburn tell still more, down a flight of basement steps.

No one was hurt.

A Philadelphia professor's wife is in jail for three days after she was hit by a $10 traffic fine.

Magistrate Ralph Pusey said Mrs. Redford B. Hersey is guilty of making a turn on a red light, but she declares she's innocent. The professor won't pay, either, says he's proud of his wife's principles.

Three months ago Jeanette Pickens and Lance Van Zandt of Port Neches, Tex., set their wedding date for tonight. Yesterday Van Zandt learned his fate from the baseball team would play in San Antonio at the same hour.

They moved the wedding to early afternoon and will fly to San Antonio for the game. The bride's going-away outfit will include a baseball cap, and her first chore as a housewife will be to wash the third base.

Evening Prayer

Dear Lord, keep our hearts humble and teachable as a little child. May we live and love that we can lead children, young people, and parents into the knowledge of Thy saving grace. May we, indeed, have a new song in our hearts. For our Redeemer's sake — Amen.
