WINDOWS SHATTERED BY BOMB

DURHAM (AP) — A bomb of some type was thrown through a window at the home of the chairman of Durham's Human Relations Committee last night and shattered windows when it exploded.

The Rev. Warren Carr, chairman of the group set up to promote understanding and better relations between Negroes and whites, told police the blast occurred around 12:30 a.m.

Neither Carr nor his wife, who were alone in the house, were injured.

Evening Prayer

Heavenly Father, it is our desire to love Thee as we should and to love one another, as Christ, Thine Son, has taught us. Exemplify, May Thy gifts of power and love be upon us as we endeavor to fulfill this desire through Christ our Lord.

Many Bright Spots Mark Economy

By J. A. DALY
News Business Editor

Charlotte's realistic management men in trade, finance and industry have turned to optimistic thinking. They are influenced by the numerous bright spots appearing in Charlotte's and this area's business picture early in the third quarter.

Furthermore, the economic outlook for the whole United States has acquired bright spots which are creating widespread hopefulness for a decisive industrial upturn. Significantly, Steel magazine said editorially "recovery is in sight" for the metalworking industry.

Charlotte, with its own favorable tendencies in business, also is benefiting directly and indirectly from the powerful forces which are improving the nation's economic prospect.

In 6 Months, A Brightening

Analysis of many reports and statistical summaries shows the current encouraging conditions present impressive and definitely favorable contrasts with the dominant recessionary factors prevailing in the economy six and twelve months ago.

A year ago sentiment was being chilled by emphasis then being given to the "tight money" trend with its many impacts upon finance and business. Now "easy money" and a record volume of funds for loans or investments are being emphasized.

Six months ago emphasis was being given to the severe decline in employment, drastic and progressive reductions in inventories and broad cutbacks in construction. Now employment is slowly rising after stabilizing a month ago; the inventory trend is turning upward quietly, and construction is at record volume.

Each of those favorable tendencies is clearly discernible in the Charlotte area's economy as well as in the national economic picture.

Also, analysts at Charlotte of industrial and financial institutions still are insisting that Charlotte and the two Carolinas experienced at the worst several months ago much less recession than other areas.

We Save More, Spend More

All financial institutions at Charlotte agree that, despite whatever else may have happened, Charlotteans through the recently ended recession attained new records in accumulating savings.

Nevertheless, the checks drawn against individuals' bank accounts at Charlotte continued to show increases month by month over the year earlier totals of these debits, which showed the high rate of spending. In May, this total of debits was officially reported at $474,331,000, compared with $447,212,000 in May, last year.

Bank clearings at Charlotte, another indicator of business trends, totaled $888,777,445 in the past six weeks. The total for the same weeks a year ago was about $867,225,776.

Building permits at Charlotte and its perimeter areas, as recorded at the City Hall, totaled $4,489,708 in May, this year, compared with $2,534,212 in May, last year. The North Carolina Labor Department described construction as booming for this state as a whole.

The latest weekly report from the Charlotte agency of the North Carolina Employment Security Commission showed only 323 new claims for unemployment compensation were received in that week. The total of initial claims in the same week a year ago was 421. However, in the second week of January, this agency received 1,297 of these claims and 1,059 more of these claims were received in the following week.

The ESC Charlotte agency's latest weekly report showed a total of 2,462 continuing claims for compensation from unemployed men and women, compared with 1,979 in the same week last year. This total of continuing claims was 3,094 for the second week in January, 2,727 for the first week in February and 3,063 for the first week in March.

Many thousands of dollars in benefits have been paid by ESC to these unemployed Charlotteans. These payments provided a substantial support for the area's economy while actual employment held at high levels.

No Depression In Diplomats

The economic strength of Charlotte and its population is reflected impressively in the recent report from the public school system here that 45.6 per cent of Charlotte's 1158 June graduates from high schools already have been accepted for entrance into colleges or universities next September. The official forecast was this percentage will be increased to around 57 by the end of August, which would be about 7 percentage points better than the 1957 percentage of new graduates. The nationwide percentage of high school graduates attending college was reported as varying around 50 per cent.

Goldfine Secretary's Hotel Room Robbed

Investigator Used 'Bug' For Prober

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine's aides charged today that the hotel room of his secretary has been burglarized. This came atop discovery of a microphone placed in position to eavesdrop on conversation of the aides.

Jack Lott, a public relations man newly hired by Goldfine, said that bank records, correspondence, lists, and documents had been taken from the room of the secretary, Miss Mildred Pearman, occupied. He said a report had been made to police.

Lott said: "We feel this burglary is a continuation of the Gestapo tactics being employed against Mr. Goldfine and his associates."

Lott said the missing papers were to have been used by Goldfine in his appearance tomorrow before the House committee investigating relations between the Boston industrialist and White House aide Sherman Adams.

Lott said Goldfine and his assistants don't know how much is missing and consequently can't say whether it will interfere with Goldfine's testimony.

The discovery of the microphone had already plunged the Adams-Goldfine investigation into a roaring controversy.

At the other end of the microphone wires was Baron I. Shacklette, chief investigator for the House subcommittee looking into relations between Goldfine and Sherman Adams. With Shacklette was Jack Anderson, a legman for columnist Drew Pearson.

Rep. Owen Harris (D-Ark.) said after a meeting of his House subcommittee that he was "bottom" of bugging and burglary incidents in the Goldfine investigation. The committee reached no decision on whether to fire its chief investigator, Baron I. Shacklette.

Roger Robb, Goldfine attorney, demanded under oath examination of anyone who might know confidential data has been obtained through such tactics.

ROBB COMPLAINS

Lott said Robb also had complained to the FBI about the microphone and that the FBI was investigating. Lott said he himself had a complaint with the U.S. district attorney, Lott said he registered for the room at which the microphone had been placed.

Miss Pearman was living in room 842 at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel.

Lott said her room appeared to have been ransacked, and that she found an empty cigarette package in the room. She doesn't smoke.

Lott said she returned to her room about 10:30 a.m. last night and went to bed.

At that time, she said, she closed a bolt in a door connecting with an adjoining room, but thought nothing of it at the time.

The adjoining room 844 had been occupied by a member of the Goldfine staff who was not there yesterday.

Miss Pearman said she discovered the loss of the papers this morning when she went to a closet.

Lott said sealed letters marked "personal" had been broken open, Miss Pearman had been in Boston over the weekend.

Goldfine himself was reported by his aides to be still abroad. They said he didn't get to bed until about 3 a.m. because of the excitement over the microphone.

Robb made public a letter to Harris saying these questions

Reds Free 9 Airmen In Armenia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today released nine U.S. airmen whose military transport was forced down inside Soviet Armenia 11 days ago.

U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. said the men were turned over to U.S. authorities on the Soviet-Iranian border.

This left nine U.S. Army men in the hands of Communist East Germans. Their helicopter crashed into East Germany June 7.

The Soviet News Agency Tass reported that the airmen released from Armenia were delivered to a U.S. Army representative at the border town of Astar. This is in the Azerbaijan region just west of the Caspian Sea.

FORCED DOWN

Their plane, a C-119 transport, was forced to land by Soviet fighter craft. According to the Soviet announcement made the same day the plane burned on the ground—whether because of fighter action or because its crew wished to keep it out of Soviet hands was not made clear.

The U.S.S.R. officially protested the flight over Soviet territory as a frontier violation. The United States replied that there had been no such intention and that the transport became lost because of a navigational error in bad weather.

Father And Daughter Say Goodby

LONG BEACH (AP) — A father and daughter bade each other goodby when realizing they were drowning in the Atlantic yesterday.

However, William Joyner was rescued by another man who himself drowned in a vain effort to rescue the daughter.

The other man, Ernest McCracken of Southport, previously had rescued another daughter, Inez Joyner, 10, who had been swept off her feet by a current on Long Beach Inlet.

Shirley Joyner, 14, of Nashville, N.C., drowned along with McCracken.

Inez ventured into deep water and was knocked down by a current. Shirley tried to help her and also was gripped by the current. Their screams attracted Joyner and McCracken.

Inez tried to swim back to shore, but Joyner was too exhausted to help her.

"We went under several times," Joyner related. "We knew we were going to drown. We said goodbye to each other."

After McCracken rescued Joyner, he reached Shirley last in the water. Witnesses said they appeared to struggle, and then disappeared beneath the waves at this beach near Southport and Wilmington.

Thorough Work Ordered Nine Jurors Join City Court Probe

Nine new jurors were sworn in today and took their places on a grand jury busy investigating alleged irregularities in City Records' Court.

Judge George M. Fountain of Tarboro charged the jury and ordered the 11 members to conduct a thorough and "impartial" investigation into court affairs.

In other matters pertaining to the scandal in the city court, H. E. Coffin of the George G. Scott auditing firm, said his company is ready to begin another investigation of the court's records.

NEEDS RECORDS

Mr. Coffin was at the court-house today to pick up court records that he needs to carry his investigation back through 1952.

However, before he can get the records, which have been under investigation by the grand jury, he must file a petition with the court telling what he will use them for.

The first investigation by the auditing firm went back through 1953. The city court ordered another investigation that will go back through 1952.

SBI AGENTS DUE

State Bureau of Investigation agents are expected to appear before the grand jury this afternoon and bring them up to date on the investigation.

However, it appears the final count will be close to the number killed during the recent Memorial Day holiday period. The FBI today said for the first time since 1953 that the record low since 1953 was 25 deaths of persons killed in the holiday.

However, it appears the final count will be close to the number killed during the recent Memorial Day holiday period. The FBI today said for the first time since 1953 that the record low since 1953 was 25 deaths of persons killed in the holiday.

725 FOR TWO

This, the traffic death toll for the first two long weekend holidays this year was more than 725. During the first five months this year, traffic deaths averaged 80 per day.

The National Safety Council had estimated the 4th traffic death toll for the 72-hour period starting at 8 p.m. (local time) Thursday and ending last midnight. The record high for the holiday was 107 for July 4 holiday period was 497 in 1953 while the record low since 1953 was 25 deaths of persons killed in the holiday.

—BIG DEAL FALLS THROUGH— Prince Now Pauper—Again

LONDON (AP) — Britain's future king has suffered an inglorious reverse in a big deal to straighten out his shaky finances at the school candy store.

This financial crisis, in the life of 3-year-old Prince Charles took place at Charterhouse boarding school in nearby Berkshire.

His mother, Queen Elizabeth II, allows the heir to the throne money each month, usually ten like the other boys, the Prince keeps it at what is called the bank in the candy shop.

With three weeks left in the term, Charles discovered he had no money left in the bank.

Being a resourceful boy as well as a king-to-be, the Prince thought up a way out of his tricky predicament. He staged a big sale of some of his belongings.

BIG DRAW

As a result there was an excellent opportunity to buy royal souvenirs, cheap, other school boys flocked to Charles' sale.

Delighted with the result, the young Prince visited the candy shop once more, dreaming, his friends said, of chocolate judge and other delicacies.

But, no. He wasn't allowed to make any purchases. Mrs. Margaret Cowlishaw, in charge of the shop, knew that the Prince had exhausted his candy funds. So — no sale.

The price had to return the money.

His friends had to return the money.

And the boy who will be king has no sweets.

In sending Charles to school with other boys, the Queen and Prince Philip insisted that he be treated the same as any other student.

He was.
