Landing 'Aggression'

Labor Control Interest Holds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor legislation apparently is dead for this session of Congress. But signs point to another battle over the issue next year.

The last hope for enactment of such legislation this year faded yesterday when the House voted 100-106 to kill the Kennedy-Lives bill aimed at curbing corruption in labor union activities.

The measure failed by 69 votes to muster the two-thirds majority needed to win passage under special procedure. Some of the opposition apparently stemmed from the restrictions permitting little debate and prohibiting amendments.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Sen. Irving Ives (R-N.Y.), passed the Senate 81-20 months ago.

Kennedy and Ives denounced the House action. Kennedy said, "Only Jimmy Hoffa (president of the Teamsters Union) can rejoice at his continued good luck." Hoffa has been the target of corruption charges before the Senate Ratification Committee.

The young Massachusetts senator promised a renewed fight in the 1959 session of Congress opening in January.

"Constructive labor reform legislation will definitely be brought forward again next year," Kennedy said. "In the meantime, those who defeated this bill will bear a heavy responsibility for the labor racketeering that will continue unchecked."

Some members who favor a tougher bill said they would try again in 1959.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

Supporters of a Western-backed Middle East peace plan predicted today the U.N. General Assembly would approve it despite opposition from some Arab and Asian nations.

The resolution introduced by Norwegian Deputy Foreign Minister Hans Engen, with six other small nations as cosponsors, may come to a vote tomorrow night or Thursday. It asks Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld to make arrangements which would permit the withdrawal of American troops from Lebanon and British troops from Jordan.

Engen predicted Assembly approval. One Asian diplomat forecast passage with 56 favorable votes and some abstentions in the 14-nation Assembly. But some Arab and Soviet sources expressed belief it would fail to get the necessary two-thirds of those voting. India opposed the resolution because it did not demand immediate U.S.-British troop withdrawals and because it would lay the groundwork for sending more U.N. troops to the Middle East. Iraq also found the resolution unacceptable, and Yugoslavia disliked it.

GROMOYKO'S STAND

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said the resolution must be rejected. Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of the United Arab Republic refused comment but was expected to oppose it.

Both the United States and Britain endorsed the resolution, which was sponsored by Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Liberia, Norway, Panama and Paraguay. With the resolution were letters from Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

U.S. and British troops would be withdrawn whenever the Assembly decided U.N. action against their presence in Lebanon and Jordan unnecessary to peace.

Both nations had said earlier they would withdraw when arrangements had been made to protect the independence of the two Middle East nations. The letters today signaled a change of policy by leaving the decision up to the Assembly.

There was no chance of the Assembly's adopting a rival Soviet proposal for a Middle East peace plan drawn under supervision of U.N. observers who would stay on to watch the frontier.

DAG TO TRAVEL

Whatever action the Assembly takes, diplomats expect Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld soon to visit Lebanon and Jordan.

The Norwegian resolution asks Hammarskjöld to make practical arrangements to maintain the independence of Lebanon and Jordan, presumably by the stationing of U.N. observers or other forces in the two countries.

Concerning two key points in the Middle East peace plan President Eisenhower put before the Assembly, the resolution asked Hammarskjöld (1) to continue the study he is making for the Assembly of the feasibility of establishing a standby U.N. force of troops, and (2) to talk with the Arab countries about the economic development program for their area Eisenhower recommended.

GIFFORD WALLACE worries about disappearance of young son.

AF Jet Hits Myrtle Pier; Four Killed

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — An Air Force jet trainer flamed out while landing here yesterday, crashed into a fishing pier concession stand and pinballed into a row of parked cars. Four were killed, three seriously hurt.

The pilots drew Air Force praise for guiding their plane into the least congested portion of this resort area in the midst of its booming vacation season.

A Naval Hospital spokesman at Charleston reported the pilots, Capt. Wallace B. McCafferty of San Bernardino, Calif., and Capt. William J. Sitzman Jr. of Wakeham, Ill., in critical condition today. Both suffered extensive burns and cuts.

BUILDING HIT

The jet first struck a concession building situated on a fishing pier about a mile from a Myrtle Beach Air Force Base runway. The plane then crashed into a row of parked cars.

The plane then cartwheeled into an automobile occupied by three members of a New Albany, Ind., family, vacationing here. An Air Force spokesman identified those dead as Lewis H. Snider, 46, and his two sons, David, 9, and Freddie, 7.

Snider's wife, Mary, 45, and two daughters, Marilyn, 17, and Hope, 15, were here, but not in the car. The Air Force made arrangements to fly them back to Indiana in a military plane.

A spokesman for a crash investigating team from Pope Air Force Base, N.C., said McCafferty was pilot when the plane-out occurred at about 200 feet altitude while making a ground-controlled landing. Cause of the engine failure was not immediately apparent.

Had McCafferty veered right he would have struck a restaurant and motel; left, a congested area. Col. Francis S. Galarneau, commanding the 55th Tactical Fighter Wing at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base, said the pilots "chose to guide the aircraft away from populated areas at the risk of their own lives."

The crash scene was about two miles from the center of this crowded beach resort city, and a few hundred yards from the park's bathing pavilion and public beach.

The T-33 trainer was one of a flight of planes coming in over the beach, witnesses said. It bounced off the fishing pier but into two cars, one of which was occupied by the Sniders.

Bitten Biscuit Found

County Police were dragging lakes off Highway 51 near the T. E. Henby estate today as the search for 2½-year-old (Ulysses) Wallace went into its third day.

Most observers believe the child is either in a hole taken out of it. This makes two pieces of fresh bread found since the search started.

This morning the child's mother sat on the shabby farm house's porch and cried for her missing son while volunteer searchers continued combing nearby woods.

County Police Chief Joe D. Whitely, who is directing the search for the youngster, said today, "It is one of the most puzzling things I've ever run across."

The boy, then son of Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Wallace, either strayed away or was taken from his grandparents' farm off Highway 51 near Matthews early Sunday.

MUCH ACTIVITY

Yesterday, some 200 Boy Scouts made a human chain and scoured every inch of a field near where the boy was last seen.

They were helped by National Guardsmen, volunteer workers and police officers. Three airplanes circled the area for hours trying to find the boy.

A large pond near the farm-house was to be drained sometime today to see if the child might have drowned. Already it has been drained.

A searcher pulled a strap from a sunsuit out of the water yesterday afternoon. It was pink and white.

The boy was last seen wearing a red and white sunsuit with only one strap.

"REAL MYSTERY"

"This thing is a real mystery," Chief Whitely said. "We've looked over that land so close that I believe we would have found a rabbit if it was in there."

"We'll drain that pond or pump it sometime today, but I believe if the child was in there, he would have come to the surface by now."

"We don't have any idea of evidence that foul play was involved in this thing. There is not much motive for a kidnapping because the child's family doesn't have any money."

Reports had been heard that a Negro man was seen walking near the farmhouse with a young child Sunday morning.

Police have checked every Negro farmhouse in the area without success.

Volunteer firemen and friends of the family continued the search today.

Mute's Death To Be Probed

MACON, Ga. (AP) — An inquest will be held today to determine whether a deaf mute killed himself or was shot to death at a roadblock by officers seeking him in the slaying of a 7-year-old girl.

Parson Youngblood, a 22-year-old itinerant peddler from Tombsboro, Ga., died in a blaze of gunfire yesterday when he slammed on the brakes of a stolen station wagon at the roadblock on a bridge near here and fired at officers.

It was first assumed Youngblood was killed by an officer's bullet. But Coroner Lester H. Chapman said last night evidence indicated Youngblood shot himself.

Chapman said he found powder burns on skull bones behind Youngblood's right ear, indicating the fatal shot was fired at close range. He ordered the inquest.

The gun battle climaxed a month manhunt for Youngblood, who was charged with kidnapping 7-year-old Margie Jones of Melvin, Ky., Saturday night.

The girl's body was found yesterday in a field. She had been shot twice in the back with a rifle and apparently had been beaten on the head and choked. She had not been raped.

Sheriff George Hatcher of Wilkinson County said the Jones family had been visiting Youngblood and his mother at their home near Tombsboro.

Youngblood was supposed to have taken Margie and three half-sisters to a drive-in movie Saturday night. Instead, the sheriff said he drove around for several hours and then forced the three half-sisters from the car and went off with Margie.

Evening Prayer

Eternal Father, Thou hast given me the choice either of refusing to go Thy Way, or of doing Thy will. Thou art wiser than I. Come and dwell in my heart and mind. Fulfill Thy high purposes in me; work in and through me. For the Saviour's sake. — Amen.

Court Setback

Faubus Ponders Calling Assembly

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus called on the Little Rock School Board today to let him and the people of Arkansas know immediately what it intends to do to resist the integration decision of yesterday.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus is expected to call a special legislative session in view of an appellate court ruling against a 2½-year integration delay.

Faubus would be joined in his efforts to keep Negroes from returning to Central High School by Schools Supt. Virgil Blossom. Blossom, key witness for the board in its plea for an integration delay, said at a news conference yesterday that the board will exploit every possibility of maintaining the delay order in force.

Blossom said the board is ready to pursue "all legal remedies it has, including an appeal to the United States Supreme Court."

The special legislative session Faubus is expected to summon would handle the issues posed by the appellate court ruling.

The court, in a 6-1 decision yesterday set aside a ruling of U.S. District Judge Harry J. Lemley of Hope, Ark., which would have provided a 2½-year "breathing spell" after a tense year of troop-enforced integration at the school.

"We say the time has not yet come in these United States when an order of a federal court must be whittled away, watered down or shamefully withdrawn in the face of violent and unlawful acts," Judge Matthews wrote.

Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner of Huron, S.D., was the only dissenter. He said the school board had acted in good faith and that Judge Lemley's decision based "on realities and conditions, rather than theories."

"OPEN INVITATION" Judge Matthews emphasized the importance of the decision on integration of Southern schools. Allowing Lemley's order to stand, he said, would mean an open invitation for other school districts to resort to violence.

In his short dissenting memorandum, the 90-year-old Gardner said segregation had become a part of the people's life, and that federal troops could be removed from the school.

Hodges was chairman of a group of Southern governors which last year attempted unsuccessfully to negotiate between President Eisenhower and Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus so that federal troops could be removed from the school.

Probe Squelch Charge Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.) denied under oath today that pressure from high places squelched a 1953 investigation of teamster boss James R. Hoffa.

Smith said the hearings by a House subcommittee had run their course by the time he gaveled them to a close in Detroit.

Testifying before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, Smith said in reply to questions:

1. He never received anything of value from Hoffa to influence the inquiry.

2. He never has received campaign contributions from Hoffa or from organized labor.

3. Hoffa received nothing but fair treatment from the House labor subcommittee in the 1953 inquiry.

Smith was co-chairman of the labor subcommittee with Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.).

ALL IN ORDER

Hoffman came before the Senators last week and testified that there had been nothing out of order in the wind-up of the hearings. At the time they closed in Detroit, Smith was quoted as saying he had orders "from way up there." He told reporters in an interview last week that what he meant by this was that he had instructions from the then chairman of the full labor committee—former Rep. Sam McConnell (R-Pa.) — that the subcommittee must limit its inquiry strictly to matters of union welfare funds.

Smith said to the Senate committee a prepared statement in which he repeated that McConnell was the "higher authority" to which he had made reference.

Social Security Bill Is Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House completed congressional action and sent to President Eisenhower today a bill increasing social security benefits 7 per cent.

The House, without debate, accepted Senate-passed revisions in the bill.

The chief change from the original House version was a reduction in the amount of federal public assistance grants from 228 million to 197 million dollars.

7 PER CENT As the measure goes to the White House for the President's signature, beneficiaries under the federal old-age and survivors program would get a 7 per cent increase in benefits in checks going out next Feb. 3, with a 3½ minimum monthly increase.

The administration had endorsed that part of the bill but objected to federal financing of a bigger proportion of the public assistance program.

At the same time, the payroll tax on coerced workers and employees will go up from 2½ to 2½ per cent starting Jan. 1, and the taxable wage base will be increased from $4,200 to $4,800 a year.

The increase will mean higher pay checks but less money for workers, the amount rising from $945 to $120 a year.
