Police Dog Aids Injured Trainer

ROME (AP)—The trainer of Italy's police dogs had reason Sunday to be grateful to one of them. Police Brig. Giovanni Maimone was working out one of the dogs, named Dox Junior, when he fell into a 20-foot-deep hole and was knocked unconscious. In minutes the dog was back with two farmhands who rescued the policeman and took him to a hospital. He was not seriously hurt.

'Lady Be Good' Bombardier's Body Found; Will Be Returned to U.S.

TRIPOLI, Libya, (AP)—The remains of Lt. John S. Woravka of Cleveland, Ohio, bombardier in the wartime Liberator "Lady Be Good" which crashed in the western desert in 1943, have been recovered. They were brought to Wheelus Air Force base here for shipment to the United States.

Confirming this Sunday, base authorities said an analysis of water in a container which Woravka carried was found—after 17 years—to be bacteria-free and still drinkable.

In April 1959, a British oil team discovered the wreck of the bomber in the arid wastes of central Cyrenaica. It had crashed there on the way back from a World War II bombing mission over Naples.

Last February, the remains of five of the bomber's nine-man crew were found by another oil team. This in turn led to sending a U.S. Army team from Frankfurt, Germany, on a search for further bodies.

Fight Looms in Council Over Rival Congo Groups

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Diplomats said Sunday night they expect a fight in the U. N. security Council over which of two rival delegations from the Congo the Council should listen to.

President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Patrice Lumumba each notified the United Nations he is sending a delegation to the Council's next meeting on the Congo, set for Monday.

Kasavubu and Lumumba each claims top leadership in the Congo.

Delegates generally predicted that the Soviet Union would object to the Council's giving a seat at its table to the Kasavubu group.

Some foresaw that if the Russians did that, the American delegation then would object to the Council's seating the Lumumba group.

Valerian A. Zorin will make his first appearance at the meeting as the newly appointed Soviet representative on the Council. He arrived in New York Saturday night to take over from Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, who was called back to Moscow.

The Belgian radio reported that Kasavubu's delegation passed through Brazzaville in the old French Congo en route to New York but that Lumumba's was kept from leaving Brazzaville airport.

The broadcast said President Kasavubu's delegation, endorsed by rival Premier Joseph Ileo, is made up of Foreign Minister Juste Lumumba, a senator named Fela and a parliamentary deputy named Badibanga.

U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld in a note published Sunday, warned the Soviet Union against "the precedent that may be created" by its flying Congolese government troops around in the Congo.

Although he did not define the precedent, he apparently meant that if the Russians carried troops for Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, other powers might have an excuse to do the same for Lumumba's rivals—President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga Province and Albert Kalonji of the so-called Mineral State in Kasai Province.
