

Many interesting occasions will be carried out during the coming year at Duke University. The west campus of which is pictured above, in connection with the celebration of the Centennial of the Origin of Trinity College. Throughout the 1938-39 session the university will be at home to visitors, and special guide service will be provided to show guests to places of interest. Symposia, lectures, concerts, and other events are being scheduled.

A school of cultural studies, member of the Association for the Advancement of Education, located in beautiful Lenoir Rhyne College. The school features modern buildings, wood-paneled interiors, and large lawns for the more direct study of the world.

The above picture shows Lenoir Rhyne College, a member of the United Evangelical Association, offering liberal education in the following fields: Primary, Grammar, High School, A.B. and B.S. degrees in Education, stenographic, and shorthand. The college is now open for the 1938-39 session.