greater pitch "agin" than for an issue, it probably follows that the control experiment has worked out well enough during the three years or more of its trial in these places.

In most of the elections, however, the vote has been close. In Franklin, which went dry (and which at first went wet to get the Wake County trade) 200 votes to get the Wake County trade) 200 votes would have reversed the decision. In Vanice, which kept its stores, 225 changed votes would have turned them out. By only 27 votes did Bertie retain its ABC franchise. Warren was more or less emphatically wet.

emphalically wet.

But whereas the wet counties seem for the most part disposed not to go dry, the dry counties exhipt no urge to go wet. There hasn't been an election on the original proposition of liquor stores in goodness knows when. Even the agitation for an election has died down in Mecklenburg, although it is our quest that the wets would carry such a day in a walk.

Earle Godbey

He Will Not Die for A Long, Long Time

A Long, Long Time

During his 77 years as associate editor, editor and part-owner of The Greensboro Daily Rews, Earle Godbey put abmething into his newspaper. It was an intangible thing, but it was real. Readers knew it was there—a translation of the way people in the upper Morth Carolina Piedmont lived and talked and believed, into the pages of a newspaper. In estense, The Greensborn News was Earle Godbey and the people who produced him. If he had been able to do and be nothing else, Earle Godbey would have been counted a successful main.

But he was mort. He was a kind.

But he was more. He was a kind, tolerant, and wise gentleman. He shared his ability to see into the hearts of his people with others and thus contributed to the making of dozens of younger wapapermen

There is a little bit of Earle Godbey in so many places and so many men the in severy resistence, his death at the age of sit in others the be all nor the mid sil. He will live for a long, long time.

WALLACE'S BOARD

CONTROLS EXPORTS

Economic activity is in the hands of the Economic Defrase Board, which is headed by Vice-President Wallace. In taking over the office of export control last month, Vice-President Wallace said that the international crists required a "determined intensitication of our pol-key of presenting subpracts to Austoninated countries."

Within the last few days it has been declared to discourage Japan from obtaining supplies in the Philippine Labouts, Iron one and several lesser items which the Japanese have been obtaining in the Philippines have been put under claser seruting. It is now required that all Japanese purchases of these commodities be subject to affidavity filed with the economic board here showing what the commodity hav been used for and wind Japan intenda to use it for. This does not prohibit ray portation but it delays transactions unportation but it delays transactions un-til they can be checked here.
