Priorities Amendment Aims To Hamstring Roosevelt

Old Gene Cox of Georgia has spent of his time in the Congress of the United States whooping for lynching as the shield of Southern womanhood and rigging up schemes to destroy labor unions.

unious.

Ordinarily he has amounted to nothing, one way or the other, save another ranting showman to shame the South. But his rpite toward the Administration yesterday took a turn which deserves close acrutiny.

The amendment which he tacked on to the priorities bill, and which was passed by the House, constitutes a gross usur-

by the House, constitutes a gross usur-pation of powers.

In the first place, it attempts to vest ultimate control over profesiles in the hands of an Army and Navy board, re-gardless of Mr. Rooseviles civilian OPM. That flouts the Constitution of the United States which makes the Presi-dent the supreme executive of this na-tion, both military and civilian. It flouts the sound rule which has always tion, both minitary and evinant it flouts the sound rule which has always prevailed in this democracy, that military authority must be kept under the control of the civilian executive power, and it flouts common sense, for it is pikin that by and large Army and Navy officers' know less shout bidness than business men.

In the second place, the Cox amendment sets up a job called Director of Priorities; and Cox confesses quite candidity that his purpose is to "freeze Edward flettinius in the post ."

How that is to be done does not appear, but it is plain that it is an attempt on the part of Congress to dictate the personnel of the defense setup.

Misleading

Vandenberg Uses Land Figures To Create False Impression

Arthur Vandenberg is both an old iso-lationist and a bitter-end partisan Re-bidonist and a bitter-end partisan Republican.

So be was full of gice when he wrote
Chairman Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission and got back a letter saying that only twelve of the ships which left United States ports for England from Jan. It a April 30 had been sunk. That was material exactly to Arhur's purpose of discreding the Administration and throwing a crimp in aid to Britain. It proved, he trumpeted to the Senate, that exaggerated figures
had been circulated to bolster the idea that convoy is necessary if Britain is to survive.

And so it might, if you accepted Ar-

aurive.

And so it might, if you accepted Arthur's bland assumption that this represents the whole picture and that it is negligible. But isn't it a little odd that Chairman Land himself has come all out for convoy? Is he a list and a sooundred out to betray the American people into a useless conflict?

Nobody who is not blinded by apilo believes it. The fact is that Chairman Land knows that the twelve vessels represent about fifteen per cent of the shipping from U. B. ports.—a terrific rafe of loss. He points out that these are simply the ships positively known to have been lost, that others undoubtedly must be added. He knows also that these figures take no account of the great number of ships which sailed from Canadian ports with U. B. smade goods and were lost. And tinally, he knows that the greatest loss of shipping occurs on the west-bound journey when the ships are often host ton tonwoyed.

Vandenberg has done is to draw a red herring across the trail and add confusion to what, for the national safety, ought not to be confused.

Unable to offer resistance in a land

totally different conception as to method

The objective cannot be to literally destroy the German army, It must be to paralyse Germany by attacking her nerve centers of produc-tion, destroying her materials, de-moralizing her transportation, and all the while wearing down the morale of the nation.
