His People Offer Measure Of Late Speaker Bankhead

The huge crowd that gathered in Jas-per, Ala, to pay final tribute to the mean-ory of Speaker William II. Batukhead ... a crowd hergely made up of the people called 'common' or 'plain' ... was a good measure of the man

He was by no standard a great states-He was by no standard a great state-man. But he was a man who room-manded the unlimited confidence of his people. And with reason. For he was truly gentle of nature — one of those 'men of good-will' we hear so much about since a Frenchman popularized the phrace as the title of a long work of fiction.

To be a man of good will is perhaps not enough in the hard and complex.

To be a man of good will be perhaps not enough in the hard and complex world which we now inhabit—a world almost as far removed from the old world which existed before 1944, and in which William Backhead grew up as it is removed from that of Thothmes III. But for the people in reneral the presistion of the permitse rentiences and humanity of heart, which the physical instances instances to the contract the physical contract the property of the permitse rentiences and humanity of heart, which the physical instances are supported.

But it at least showed his interest in what is ultimately perhaps the more pressing problem of the Bouth — that its yeoman farmer class is in process of disappearing. And the people seemed to have had no doubt of his sincerity in the matter.

The leaders of the new world which is making will have to have the quadres of Bankhead, alone with some natures of Bankhead, alone with some natures of Bankhead, alone with some natures of that world is not to be as bleak as Adolf Bitter dreams it.

The dwinding of Wendell Wilkle which most of the columnists three been announcing for the last ten days, and which is now shown to be true by the opinion pulls is undoubtedly due primarily to the fact that the Buttle of Bertain has thin in its shadow, and that in relation to it the Persident has overwhelming advantage.

WASHINGTON. — The conscription bill is a law and it is high time. But because of the last minute rush and the aheer politics and demapoguery of part of the debate, a per-plies only to computerly orders for manufacturing and its manufacturing plants. The need of such a law for this purpose is the rare reception rather than the role. The need for commandering power in the much wider field just mentioned a very frequent. It ma wars of no experienced authority who contests the granting of such a power to the granting of such a power to the reason of its almost ited linuminations as just explained, the provision is not properly defined. There is another reason, under our constitution private property may not be faken for public use without just compensation. In World War commandering, when the Government sanital, it offered to buy or rent it and named a pice. There was a "commandering action" of experts on value in the War Industries Board II they could not reach an astronomen on price with the owner, they paid him what they were willing to pay and took the property. He could then sue the United States in the Court of Claims for ibsufficence between the price saked and the price poid! This was in accordance with the country can decide finally.

SECRETARLES HANK.

SECRETARIES HAVE TOO MI'CH POWER

These provisions worked smoothly and well. Frequently the commandering process was welcomed by the owner as a quick and just way to a conclusion on price.

But this law makes no such provision. But this has makes up such providing for determining "his compensation". A manufacturer must accept an order at a price which the burer gay is fair—or go to last as a felon with no access in a court. Worse will, this his-kelding applies to exist. On the second to provide the manufacture new and comilex products in which the owner service has any experience. He himself, frequently could quote an intelligent price to advance.
