such a tax uncompaningly, out moun-ing dehig.

And in the lack of a sale tax plus he jack of forced savings may lie a press inflationary threat. The Govern-sent can always finance the war by selling its bonds to banks, which are sage purchasare of them. And why not, may? The Government virtually creates the money with which the banks buy honds. Bank deposits are at a peak even seen from Government apanding. The hanks are glad enough to convert a por-ling of these stross deposits into inter-sale saving bonds. The Government is that snough to get the money, which it says out to the producers of war goods, who redeposit it. The result, in either tass, is more deposits and more bond also may be more deposits and more bond

When individuals buy bonds, however, it represents to them a decrease in purshasing power. Their money goes immediately into circulation and by so much is inflationary. But they have less to spend, and by that much offset Government spending.

Forced bond sales and a general sales tax both would have the effect of cursulling private spending as public spending increased, and would represent a var ascrifice which all the people would have to make as insurance against postwar disasters. But the Administration safeway both devices. Let us hope that it knows what it is doing.

which the man Broom had on his person when he was arrested and which he was allowed to account for.

The man was being tried, to be sure, for murder alone, and not for any lesser charge. For his double crime the public had felt indignation, but its curiosity was engaged by those instruments. And we think the curiosity was of the healthy kind, for abortion instruments in the possession of a man who had no valid explanation of them inevitably suggests that here was a sordid circumstance which might well have been tracked to its source by the police.

With its four reports on crime and law enforcement, housing, juvenile delinquency and the office of coroner, the Association of Civic Cluba has rendered a unique service to a community that is certafnly no better than it should be. In a good many ways, indeed, Charlotte is alling, and just as a doctor diagnoses a condition before he prescribes for it, so is it well for a city to learn all it can about itself that it may understand what needs to be done.
Recommendations made in these reports fall into two main classes, the first of which has to do with changes that will require legislative action. In that class is the underlined recommendation that Mecklenburg be made a separate judicial district unto itself. Likewise, the proposed limitation upon the duties and authority of the corner concerns the Legislature exclusively, sithough it is not likely to engage that body's attention unless the Mecklenburg delegation takes up the case and presents it as convincingly as it has been presented by the Civic Club committee.

Strictly within the community's proprince, and depending as much upon public sentiment as upon any action by the municipal government, are the other principal recommendations made in this report. Two committees, examining the causes of crime from different standcolints, reached two opinions in common. Stum areas, they and, should be cleared, and adequent fedelities for recreation should be provided.

These, we recognize, are long-range undertakings, and the immediate period creation should be provided.

These, we recognize, are long-range undertakings, and the immediate period is not propilitious for starting them. Even so, the time is over-ripe for crystallizing public sentiment in their behalf. Once we agree wholeheartedly among ourselves that alums must give way to decent housing and that the city's children shall have parks and playgrounds, the Job will be half dona-

House thought of Senate committee stated proving back into the complicated new administrative restifications on interest payments, altered allowances for debt retirement, and provisions forcing business to shandon its fiscal year system; it discovered the bill would throw a lot of businesses into the unprofitable complications.

For Instance, the Gildden Co. of Cleveland, Ohle, (making suprous saide for shipbuilding and paints) showed that its profit margin had been cut so much by taxes and price scilings that a change in its fiscal year bookkeeping system to the calendar year would teave it $405,074 short of being able to meet its taxes this year. The Utah Pewer & Light Co. presented its books, estimating its taxable income for this year at $3.138.872, its normal tax at $4.000.880, its excess profits tax at $382.576, allowing only $1.225.000 to meet its legally required preferred stack dividends of $1.704.000. Its indicated deficiency was $815,000. (Business men rarely have produced their books before at lax hearings, but there was no hesitancy (tils time).

Any concern with large increased sales and cost, heavy debts, or a fiscal year ending around June or July, would be in somewhat the same circumstances, and there are thousands auch. It is therefore a foregone conclusion that the Senate committee will considerably alter the complicated technical administrative feature of the House bill, and may even trim the corporation rates somewhat.

1017. He NAWS:
The Congress sits with unconcern,
While Democracy's bridges burn,
By the New Deal having its way,
Through some swist or turn, evry day.
Right now, with gas-rubber ridde,
Ly plays both ends gesinst the middle:

/ Makes free-gas buyers content,
Makes red-gas buyers content,

As sop to all, the price advance
Will be wholly withdrawn, perchance;
In which even, an added tax
Will be wrought with New Deel'z sharp axs.
Will be wrought with New Deel'z sharp axs.
Thus, both sides swallow hook and line,
And the Congress looks on supine;
New Deal ple being its concern,
As Democracy's bridges burn.
But, when voters rouse from their trance,
Swift will be the deliverance.
