Even Grandma Could Take Some Tutorin' From Miss Wright and Her Dehydrator

Just as there's more than one way to kill a cat, there's more than one way to preserve food. And the old ways aren't always the best.

Miss Helen John Wright, essayist in a demonstration series, showing farm women and city victory gardeners how to preserve more food this year than ever before at the same time occupy less space on the pantry shelf. The new process is that of dehydration.

Miss Wright has a home-made demonstration dehydration service in operation on the third floor of the Courthouse.

WORK SHOP

By this system you dry your foods instead of canning them, and the food value is the same in both dried and canned foods. Dehydration is a good way to save your food if you don't have a pressure cooker for canning.

CIVIC SPONSORSHIP

It was also suggested in the Institute recommendation that such a program might best be sponsored by some Charlotte civic club or group.

Many Call On Ration Form

None Available At Present Time

War Ration Book No. 3 was becoming a cause of official headaches today because so many people, who failed to obtain the application form, were swarming telephone facilities at postoffices, at the Charlotte district OPA agency and at the OPA North Carolina Meeting Center here.

A consequence was that the Charlotte agency of the Office of War Information appealed to the public to be patient and await the arrival of the larger number of applications for the No. 3. Assurance was given by the OWI that these applications will be made available again about August 1. Meanwhile, the OWI said, distribution of the applications has been discontinued.

The No. 3 books will not be put into use until September or later. It was indicated officially, so, there will be plenty of time for the applicants to receive their coupons before they are needed, the OWI pointed out.

On Program Of Concert Association

Ovens Makes Announcement

Gounod's "Faust" will be presented here by the Metropolitan Opera Co. as a principal attraction on the Charlotte Community Concert Association's program for the coming season, David Ovens, president of the association, announced today.

This popular attraction will be the most costly ever to be presented in Charlotte. In order to insure production of this great caliber, the association had to submit its request early.

A cast of 70, including leading stars of the Metropolitan, will perform "Faust" here. They will be accompanied by an orchestra from the same company. A stage manager from this world-famous opera company will come from New York to direct the presentation of Gounod's story of Dr. Faustus, which was set to music by Gounod.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the association, which was held at the Metropolitan Opera house tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, selections of four artists for the remaining program of the Victory series will be made. A list of internationally-known concert artists has been submitted to the Charlotte Community Concert Association by Ward French, who is in charge of the new headquarters of the Community Concert Association.

Ross May Get Post

Favored By Council To Succeed DeLaney

Former Councilman C. B. Ross was today reported to be the favorite of the Council's majority faction for appointment as City Tax Collector to succeed dismissed Ernest S. DeLaney.

While there was no official confirmation from any source today, the reports have persisted for the last several days that Mr. Ross is the man slated to get the job, which is now being temporarily filled by William A. White, who was the assistant collector under Mr. DeLaney.

Members of the Council insisted they did not know who would get the appointment and explained that the search for a successor to Mr. DeLaney is still on.

REPORT OFFER

From reliable sources it was learned that Mr. Ross, who was eliminated in his preliminary run when he ran with the Citizens Group for re-election, had been offered Mr. DeLaney's job by the majority candidates met at the Citizens campaign headquarters and discussed the statement presented by Councilman

Heat Hits At 100; 96 Aims At 2 P. M.

The temperature reached for the 100 mark today and at 2 P. M. was almost there—96 degrees—with the all-time record for the date only 97.1, established in 1922 by E. A. Warren.

Mr. Warren, one of Williams' attorneys, said he had been unable to set a record since June 11 because he was unable to obtain a permit to set the gauge on the roof of the City of Gastonia to sell a beer license to E. J. Williams trading as Ed's Tavern, near the Square, in Gastonia.

Foxy Females Shoe Salesmen Shudder As Smart Sisters Seek To Swap For No. 18

By FRED SPROLES

Charlotte News Staff Writer

It's no wonder that men shake their heads in utter bewilderment and mutter, "Women!"

The "Foxy" Female figured seventeen ways for Sunday on this shoe stamp system, and they didn't get a half-proof plan in the lot. The most prevalent number was the idea that they could buy before the deadline Tuesday and exchange their purchases for a No. 18 coupon.

The Office of Price Administration put the static on that little brain wave. Foxy shoe clerks are sorry for the shoe-seeking sisters, but they may feel like indulging in a little of this "I told you so" stuff.

Later and get a pair of Fall shoes, she's got a great display. At least, at one she has.

Women with charge accounts in the shoe store have had to give up now, take my coupon, and I will come and pick out the shoes I want. The store people were sorry, but they couldn't oblige. If things were as they were, the seventeen coupon would be similar to the cat with nine lives.

Most of the shoe salesmen were amused. But one or two of them were directly interested in the shoe swap.

OTTO HAAS Dies Here

For 23 years the state headquarters has been operated in the home town of the state commander and this has necessitated annual moving of all the records and equipment. It also has meant that J. N. Caldwell, the state adjutant, has had to move his family once each year.

NEW COMMITTEE

This question may come before the retiring executive committee at its session Sunday afternoon, but it was believed that final decision would be left to the new committee, which meets immediately upon adjournment of the convention at noon Tuesday.

The usual political activity over the election of the state commander will be lacking at this convention as Bob Stevens of Goldsboro is the unopposed candidate to succeed the late Maynard of Greensboro. Under the Legion's policy of alternating between eastern and western Legionnaires, the 1943-44 commander will come from the east.

Mr. Stevens is the present department membership chairman and under his leadership the Tar Heel Legion has this year attained a membership of more than 20,000, the highest in its history.

Roane Waring of Memphis, Tenn., the national commander, will head the list of distinguished speakers who will address the convention. He will speak at the Tuesday morning session. The others include Lieut. Governor R. L. Harris; Mrs. W. J. Danforth, of Fort Worth, Texas, national vice-president of the Legion Auxiliary; Phil Ganley, former department commander of West Virginia, and Colonel William

Man Denied Beer Order

Judge Wilson Warlick refused today to sign an order here in Sumner, S. C., that the City of Gastonia to sell a beer license to E. J. Williams trading as Ed's Tavern, near the Square, in Gastonia.

O. A. Warren, one of Williams' attorneys, said he had been unable to set a record since June 11 because he was unable to obtain a permit to set the gauge on the roof of the City of Gastonia to sell a beer license to E. J. Williams trading as Ed's Tavern, near the Square, in Gastonia.

Pioneer in Motion Picture Industry

Otto Haas, 56, one of Charlotte's pioneer motion picture theater owners, died suddenly last night at his home, 3615 Park Rd., of a heart attack. He had been in ill health for more than a year, but had been working within recent weeks at a clerical job at the Quartermaster Depot here.

Mr. Haas had a wide circle of friends over the Carolinas. He was born in Bavaria, Germany, but came to America when a lad. When he came to Charlotte he entered the moving picture business and opened one of the first motion picture houses here, the Ottaway, located on the east side of N. Tryon St. near the Square.

At the motion picture industry grew in the Carolinas, Mr. Haas took an active part in its development. He was one of the founders of the Theater Owners of North and South Carolina. On May 20, 1912, when the association was formed, he was elected secretary and though disassociated from the industry during later years maintained an interest in the association's work, and was one of a number to receive honors when the
