One-Hoss Shay

There are two more signs today that the Administration has failed to work out a satisfactory labor-management treaty for the duration of the war. We are sure that Mr. Roosevelt and his policy-makers are at fault, for the forces have held almost to the end, through the heroic efforts of NLRB and its successor, WLB. The best minds in Washington, aided and abetted by men of industry and labor, could do no better than produce the compromise agreement known as maintenance of membership. It stabilized U. S. production long enough to insure victory, but in the final months of crisis is breaking down, here and there.

tremendous, despite the high prices. Natives had the money in these times, and invaders from dry counties in North Carolina were anxious to flee the doubt-high prices of their bootleggers. If any...

Carbon's "E"

For two years National Carbon's Charlotte plant has been struggling and growing in a vital war production job. It began as one of Washington's war orphans, with insufficient skilled personnel. It was forced to train its own supervisory employees, and to depend upon this fledgling region for its workers.

U. S. Flag Hit Intrigue

In other words, all during the period when Greek political factions were trying to work out their own problems, a British colonel, disguised as an UNRRA worker, was paying Greek Royalist factions to fight the EMB-LAS group which had done most of the guerrilla fighting against the Germans.

Democratic Stillwell

Gen. Joe Stillwell has always rated high with his men. Now that he's stationed in Washington as Chief of the Army Ground Forces, he still has the reputation of looking out for them.

Monarch of All He Surveys

The other day, Washington realtor Col. Gus Ring who is used to getting phone calls from all sorts of important apartment managers, was surprised to find Gen. Stillwell walk into his office and ask for an apartment.

It broke first in the Montgomery Ward case, with Sewell Avery as the assassin. It broke in scattered other cases, as in the strike of Detroit superintendents.

Those two states installed closed shop amendments, as we recall having mentioned before. Sewell Avery didn't meet his first test. The State Supreme Court, ruling it invalid, in effect, beat industry to the gun by no more than a few hours.

And this week in Gastonia a foundry and machine manufacturing plant adopted WLB's maintenance of membership order. The company accepts WLB orders as to wages and hours, but it will not recognize the board's right to enforce maintenance of membership upon its workers.

Most of Carbon's 1,500 employees are women, and most of those come from rural sections and small towns. These people have set up a record for production-per-employee, which veteran company officials say far surpasses those in aircraft factories and other war plants they have seen.

No Upset

One more session of the Legislature--and North Carolina's tradition of making progress slowly is by no means protracted. By the same token, Governor Gregg Cherry is past the limit of his two hundredth bill upright and unshaken in the saddle.

A Simple Thing, Really

The Bretton Woods plan has been criticized for being complicated. It is not so very complicated. The nations of the world, under Bretton Woods, will keep their currencies at stable values.

Italy's Strange War

Supplies are shipped to them from the air under conditions which subject them to great hazards. For obvious reasons, little can be said about this now.

Statesmen At Work

For enemies and collaborators with the marauder plot (black market). It is noted that our intelligence service in 1941-42, had about twenty of my friends were arrested in February 1942. I escaped once more, but at that time my passport came into my hands.

Thirsty Times

The drought which fell upon South Carolina Tuesday at midnight was man-made. Even hard-drinking Carolinians who stand to lose most from the wholesale closing of 73 bars and liquor stores will admit that the operators of these war-time gold mines had it coming.

For this year, legislation, Governor Cherry had laid out a program whose basis was that the State should (1) consider moderate increases in services and salaries paid, (2) safely within the limits of estimated revenue.

Enter Lord Beveridge

Lord Beveridge is not alone, Harold Stassen and other leaders who support the plan in its present form will there "should be no world peace."

People's Platform

The only result that I could find in Mr. Peter McKnight's article on the wine was the correct appellation of the wine connoisseur, which delayed this note 'till I could find the article again.

Stately Men

There is more than a suspicion that the distillers were the original sinners--at least they were the investigators--the charge that they swept their standard brands off the market early and substituted new ones, priced as befits their standing in a time of inflation.

U. S. Flag Hit Intrigue

The incident is in no way the fault of Governor Lehman or his Washington staff, since the Near East UNRRA is under British direction. Here are the so-far-suppressed facts as to what happened.

The Merry-Go-Round

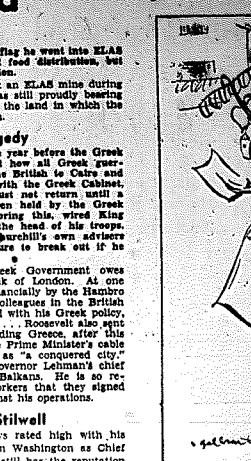

By Drew Pearson

Under cover of the American flag he went into ELAS territory to talk about food distribution, but actually to get supplies for his own faction. When Col. Shephard's car hit an ELAS mine during the last days of the battle, it was still proudly bearing the Stars and Stripes on the land in which the Greek people have so much faith.

Greek Tragedy

As early as October, 1943, one year before the Greek trouble started, this column told how all Greek guerrilla fighters were brought by the British, Greek and United States, together with the Greek Cabinet, that King George of Greece must not return until a plebiscite regarding him had been held by the Greek people; but that Churchill, ignoring this, wired King George to return to Greece at the head of his troops.
