What Of The Public?

Compulsory bathing and electric lighton pusory dathing and electric henting, as it were, may well be unconstitu-onal in North Carolina. Attorney Gen-ral Harry McMulian, after a preliminary carch through the statutes and the Constitution, is of the opinion that Chariothe's model housing ordinance requiring bathing facilities and electric lights) may be outside the pale. He dion't say so flatly and hinted that he was still looking for autiliorization on the books. But his word of caution was enough to branc our new housing standard to an obstacle."

standard to an obsystel.

In the pause let see all we can't make a case for the ordinance are one in the interest of public health and safety. Many a health ordinance are one in the interest of public health and safety. Many a health ordinance for example has been trassed on that horse and operated in the interest and support most adult clinical are propored to agree that nothers is non-thoughout to agree that nothers is non-house essential to cond health. That at least is the opinion of cuts Health officer. Common Health officer is not the normal to see the not condition of the control house of the control himself expresses in finel hear that some legal means may be found of putting both tube and showers into an ordinance.

both tabs and shonger note an ordinance.

Much the same thang uses for electric lighting. Properly ward electric lights are the safest form of illumination in general use. And of course if substandard houses do not have electric lights, they have something ease of and kerosene lamps, oven lamp. There, the restraining provisions of the Constitution week against public health and safety again. The City Fire Department would be delighted to have fercosene lamps outlanded by ordinance. Chief Hendric Palacet, orders ingoing the few an lawyer, thinks need electric warm discreases fire housed by an ordinance written in the interest of public safety.

And, come right down to it most.

Race relations are having a workout in Countries this work. Yesterday the House made tready to pass, as it has twice before, a bill to climate the poli tax as a requirement in wome for Federal offerers. To should be made to the before the thickness of the properties of the political terms of the p lation. The poll tax is a dying duck, and in a few years will be as extinct as prochine, a former favorite subject for Congressional rows. It will be all the deader for having been allowed to due naturally. As for FEPC: I could easily be another. Noble Experiment, an attempt to change overnight the ways in which a society has become set, and to which it intends to cline.

One of the characteristics of the denocratic processes is the delay, sometimes maddening delay, which reforms may encounter. Oftentimes it is a nuisance. It is frequently a virtue.

He has, too, embraced Republican and and advice, seeking out Herbert Hower and Alf Landon. So far as the public knows, our forcing policy as unchanged, even down to France Spain and the Argentine government - by colonels. We are still firmly for San Francisco, Bertton Woods, reciprocal trade. The President showed, in backing the British in Syria, Mr. Rousevilla lack of faith in vicueral de Gaulle. There have been no high diplomate shifts.

Japan can expect nothing less than shifts.

Japan 'ran expect nothing less than unconditional surrender, Germany nothing less than punishment for war cruminals, the South nothing but Presidential support for a permanent PEPC. Mr. Truman is mowing to rat expenses, and re-organize the Government, but we can expect no tax reduction until V-E Day. expect to law returnton until V-E Day, and no indiag for ing business in re-conversion. The President has storilly exported OPA, and takely will continue to do so. In the early weeks of his trial, the Bresident has burne his burden well, and played no factionalism. The signs are good.
