WASHINGTON (UPI)—Plenty of publicity was given the fact that the Russians had barred the Allies from entering the city of Vienna, but it was kept very hush-hush when an Anglo-American-French mission finally did enter Vienna on June 15.

Under the Yalta agreement, the United States and Britain were supposed to send military missions to the city of Vienna, but during the height of the Polish trouble, when US-RUSSER relations strained the Russians, the British and the United States simply wouldn't let it land.

underway to make ex-Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa, retiring head of the Surplus War Property Board, and let Undersecretary of State, Gillette has his ear close to the ground of American public opinion, especially Mid-West opinion, which the State Department sometimes ignores.

Under the Yalta agreement, the United States and Britain were supposed to send military missions to the city of Vienna, but during the height of the Polish trouble, when US-RUSSER relations strained the Russians, the British and the United States simply wouldn't let it land.

President Truman apparently is adopting the unique policy of not forgetting campaign pledges. The other day he was seen to ask that American policy in Italy give more encouragement to democratic ideas, and not let the Italian people be subject to the British policy of restoring the monarchy or the Russian policy of communism.

There is a complete, new isolationist line with regard to the war against Japan, and it is worth a glance. For the first time in a long time, the isolationists are becoming rather disinterested with the Pacific war, which they have liked so well.

Laundry Wages

According to the telegram which President Moore of the Charlotte Central Labor Union sent to President Truman, laundry workers in Charlotte are striking because they are paid only 18 and 20 cents an hour.

gations to laborers and managers. Some of the changes he suggested were little ones, some were big ones. Their total effect was to boost materially the nation's war production, particularly in the critical airplane and tank divisions.

It seems to us that a better case would be made for an increase in laundry workers if they got together on the exact wage they are striking against and stuck to the facts.

Same Old Same Old

The successor to the Dies Committee promises to be no improvement over the Dies Committee. The investigations into un-Americanism were distinguished by that very quality.

Baseball and United Nations

In San Francisco, a delegation of Philadelphia called on Australia's External Affairs Minister Herbert Evatt in 1943.

Ambassador Davies' Airplane

When Ambassador Davies went to London for special talks with Prime Minister Churchill, he found himself ready to fly home in a virtually empty plane.

"All this junk in the pockets of your suit. I'm sending it to the cleaners—you wouldn't feel the heat so much if you'd carry it in a purse the way I do!"

Sooner Or Later

Of course it's some weeks yet before the kids out in the county cut short their frolicking and return to the more serious business of being educated.

Frustration

When the City Council meets in special session for the purpose of considering changes in the system of handling traffic proposed after detailed study by Chief of Police Walter Anderson.

Capital Chaff

Henry Kaiser, the big coal-burner, is getting together with Colorado Iron and Fuel to take over the Government-owned plant at Geneva, Utah.

Diplomatic Chaff

UNRRA will lead a special mission in London, and the London Conference on European Relief, the first since the war.

Statesmen At Work

SENATOR JOHNSON (Colo.) on protective tariff: I agree with many of the restrictions expressed by the Senate on Delaware.

About Parks

The test of any playground is the use to which it is put. And opening week at Charlotte's play centers reminds us that a more adequate system of parks and recreation should not be overlooked.

What Will History Say?

By Marquis Childs: "The people here in America, we are having our turn to honor Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who comes to us with the applause of millions in London and Paris as well."

Mr. Speaker

The Senate is reported less enthusiastic than the House over the President's Presidential election proposal.

Mister Knudsen

Bill Knudsen is by nature a fellow who gets things done without talking about it. That's the way he rose from general manager of the Danmore Corporation.

The Nips' Dilemma

Henry Kaiser, the big coal-burner, is getting together with Colorado Iron and Fuel to take over the Government-owned plant at Geneva, Utah.
