

Blue Blood Socialist 'A Study'

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer
Baltimore—“Miss Lizzie,” now in her 80th year, is one of America's unusual women.

A blue-blooded Socialist from the Social Register, Elizabeth Gilman is Maryland's grand old lady of dissent—a follower of political lost causes who has won her city's heart by long integrity and warm charity.

Of her someone once remarked: “Baltimore is entitled to one liberal.”

“Miss Lizzie” also has been called a reformer and a “hound of heaven extraordinary.” She has been six times voted down in tries for public office on the Socialist ticket—she's run for sheriff, mayor, governor and senator—but many critics of her politics believe she would easily win any poll to pick Baltimore's outstanding woman.

UNORTHODOX FATHER

She is loved—her politics aside—for the selfless way in which she has fought for people in trouble, and the vigor with which she carried out her lifelong slogan: “If you see a thing that's right, do it.”

The daughter of Daniel Colt Gilman, first president of the Johns Hopkins University, she learned unorthodoxy from her father, a “mugwump” in both politics and education.

She left her own fashionable home to organize food kitchens during mill and coal mine strikes and on occasion marched on the picket line herself carrying a placard.

FORESAW DEFEAT

A small and sprightly woman with great energy, she threw herself into Socialist-sponsored campaigns for slum clearance, public ownership of utilities, labor gains and old age insurance. Two years ago, cheerfully forseeing defeat in her second campaign for governor, she said:

“Franklin Roosevelt stole a good deal of our thunder, but all of us in the United States should be grateful for that.”

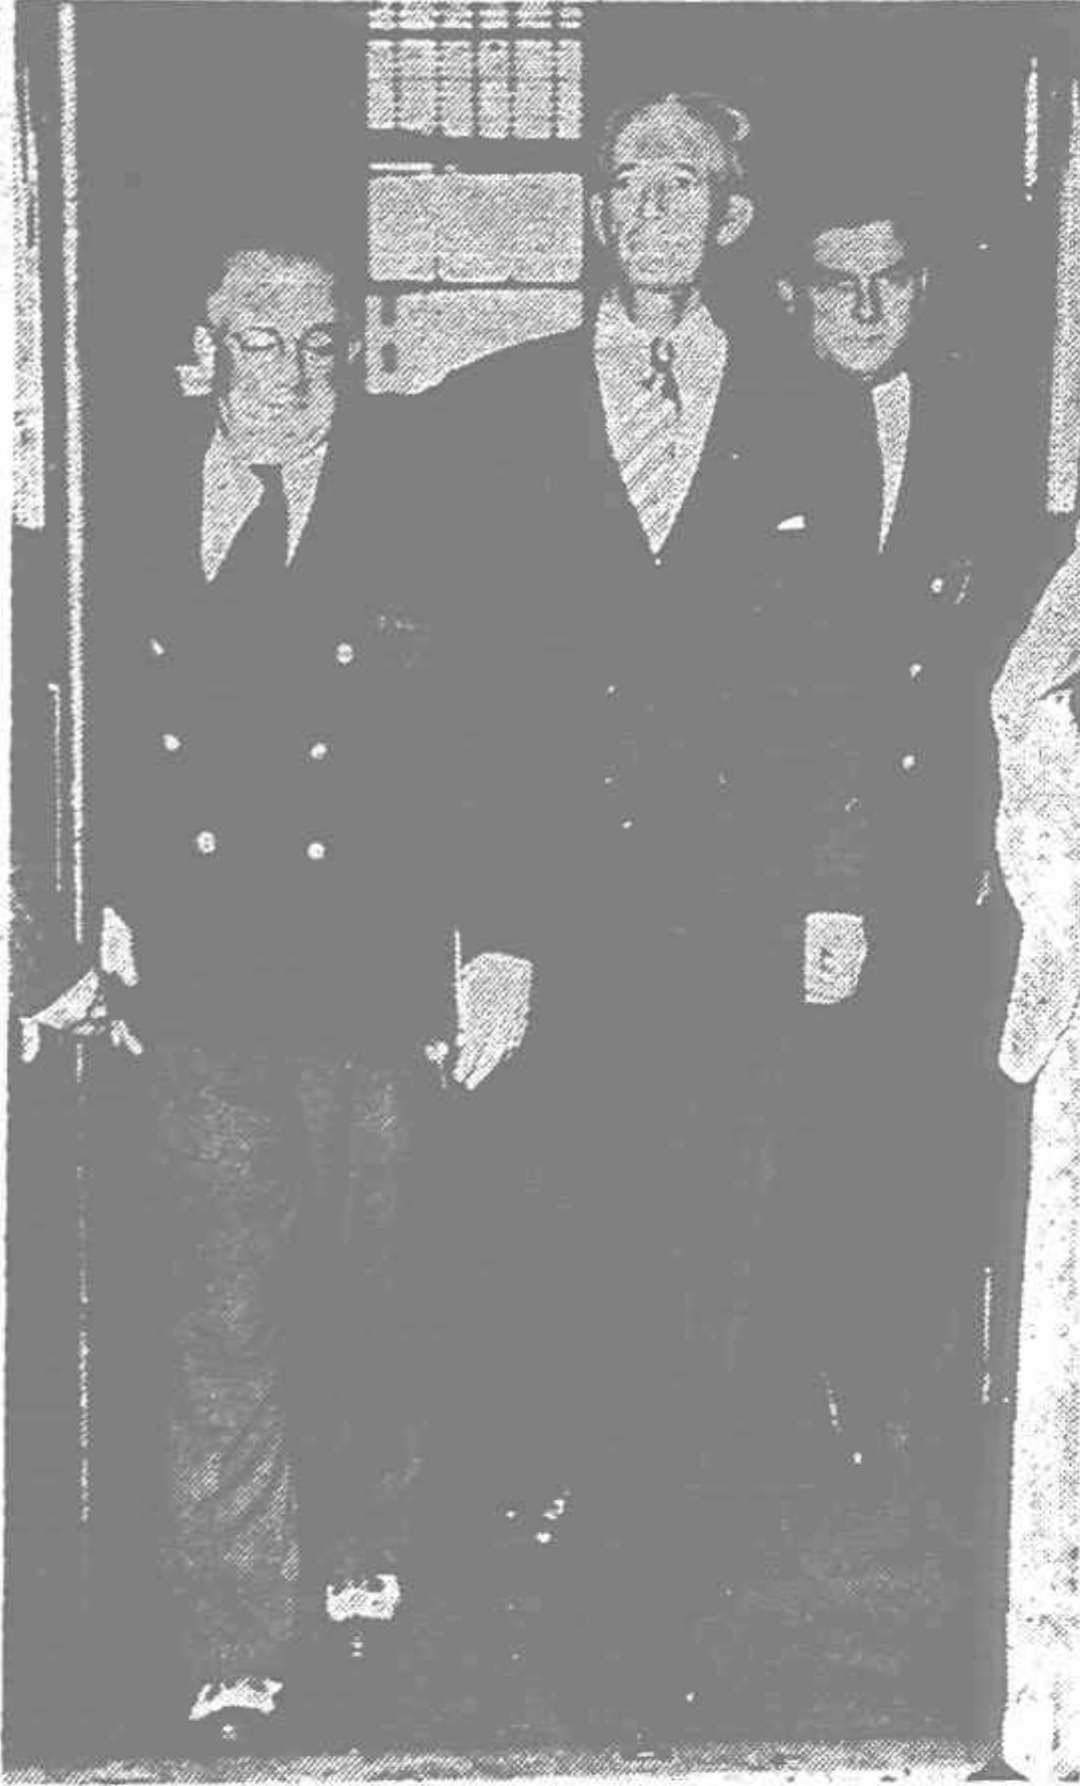

During battles for civil liberties and against racial discrimination and militarism “Miss Lizzie” found time for 20 years to direct the Baltimore Open Forum, a center of civic intellectual life. H. L. Menchen—no socialist himself—once remarked: “It's the only intelligent place to go in Baltimore on Sunday.”

HAPPIEST MEMORY

A public testimonial dinner in 1941 is the happiest memory of modest Elizabeth Gilman's crowded life. White and Negro leaders praised her and her Episcopalian rector said:

“The daughter is equal to the father. She is one of the truest Christians I have known in a ministry of nearly 80 years.”

In Baltimore they'll do anything now for “Miss Lizzie”—anything but vote for her.

Finances With U. S.

London—(P)—Britain arranged high-level economic talks with the United States today in a renewed bid to stave off her looming economic crisis.

The government's Board of Trade said its president, Sir Stafford Cripps, would fly to Paris this afternoon for a conference with William L. Clayton, U. S. undersecretary of state for economic affairs, and the British press said they would consider slashing Britain's imports from America to save dollars.

Meanwhile, the British people took calmly disclosures that the government almost immediately would cut its armed strength, scale down the nation's standard of living and call for longer working hours to save British economy.

Few newspapers commented editorially on the revelations, which followed a “crisis” meeting yesterday of Prime Minister Attlee and his Labor members of Parliament. Those that did wrote approvingly.

“It is high time that they (the government) took this step, though it will mean a still more austere way of life for everyone,” said the conservative Yorkshire Post, owned by the family of former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

'Partial Enforcement' of Law Is Dangerous, Declares Hanley

Watertown—(P)—Partial enforcement of laws in the United States is dangerous, says Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley.

Speaking yesterday at the annual convention of the Allied Printing Trades Council of New York State, Hanley declared: “I believe that it is very dangerous to have laws partially administered and partially enforced. If any man by any process whatsoever obtains immunity from legal enactment which another man has to endure, you are writing a dangerous paraphrase in human liberty.”

“MAJORITY TOMORROW”

Hanley said that “no man should be judged in America by his color, race or creed,” and added that the “minority group of today is the majority group of tomorrow.”

“Humanity has never been able to put its foot on the neck of any reasonable minority without sometime later having that minority arise and... overthrow its oppressors,” he declared.

Asserting that “liberty under law means... freedom to live without fear and without molestation,” Hanley said “America cannot afford to have any group of men, no matter how powerful and... righteous they seem to think themselves, take the law into their own hands.”

TRIP TO JAPAN

“The ones who suffer the most when the law is maladministered by the court are not the ones by whom the law is broken, but those who take the law into their own hands and attempt to administer it,” Hanley said.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John P. Boland, former chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, described his recent trip to Japan where he supervised relief and served as labor adviser to Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

20,000 UNION JAPS

“The most popular question among Japanese workers,” he said, “is ‘if labor relations in the United States are so good, why the Taft-Hartley Bill?’”

He described the outlook for labor in Japan and said that he addressed more than 20,000 union men there.

State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi declared that a workable system of disability insurance is the next step in New York's social security program. He said the new system may be ready for submission to the 1948 Legislature.

Approximately $3,000,000,000 worth of glass is manufactured in the United States every year.

Virginia Tells Embassy She Lost Her Passport

By JOHN E. LEE
International News Service Writer

Paris—The apparently mysterious disappearance of Virginia Hill's passport constituted the latest development today in the strange case of the girl who cared “too much” for murdered gangster “Bugsy” Siegel.

Miss Hill, who once before broke down and was hospitalized because of her great affection for the slain racketeer, again is lying in Paris' American Hospital in an highly emotional state.

An official U. S. embassy spokesman revealed that she told a vice-consul who arranged for her to go to the hospital that she did not have a passport.

“I DON'T KNOW”

According to official accounts, the conversation then went like this:

Consul: “Where is it?”
Miss Hill: “I don't know.”
Consul: “You don't know? What did you do with it?”
Miss Hill: “I don't know—I think I loaned it to a friend to keep for me.”
Consul: “What friend?”
Miss Hill: “I don't remember.”

NOT TOLD TO LEAVE

The embassy spokesman said there was no indication that the fabulous heiress, in whose swank California home Siegel was slain, had torn up the passport.

He also denied flatly that the embassy had asked her to leave France, as some press circles had reported.

The spokesman explained: “The embassy can not request any American citizen who has a valid French visa to leave France, unless extradition proceedings are involved, which is not so in Miss Hill's case.”

FRENCH NOT CONCERNED

Virginia told the vice-consul that she wanted to go home, and it was announced that the embassy would help arrange transportation for her if she still desires to return to the United States when she recovers.

The official American spokesman expressed doubt that the French have requested her to leave, saying:

“The French have no grounds for asking her to leave. She has done nothing to violate French laws, and so long as her visa remains valid she has a right to remain.”

At the American Hospital, a supervisor admitted that she had spent an restless day yesterday but that she slept peacefully during the night.

New “post-war” materials for home building include steel, aluminum, plastics, and lightweight concrete.

House Committee To Visit Albany

By Gannett News Service
Washington—Albany, N. Y., will be House Small Business Committee's second “road stop” in its investigation of tax-free cooperative organizations and government corporations.

The committee will investigate operations of an Albany mutual savings and loan insurance company, a committee official said.

Two days, Aug. 18 and 19 are scheduled for the Albany hearings, the only ones in New York State. Representatives of New York State cooperatives will ask to be heard at the Albany session.

Dewey Checking On State Printing

By Gannett News Service
Albany—Governor Dewey's office has launched a full-scale inquiry to determine what is wrong about state printing.

Printing jams, late delivery, red tape, non-cooperation in production, excessive costs, inefficient bidding by printers, and inefficiency in handling departmental printing requirements will be studied, it was learned.

Annually the state buys more than $2,500,000 worth of printing, exclusive of work for the Legislature.

Local Ideas Asked On Teachers' Pay

Albany—(P)—Formation of local advisory groups to help formulate standards for the new “merit” salary increments is proposed by the State Advisory Committee on Teachers Salaries.

The 21-member state group also recommends that “full use of teacher opinion” be used in establishing the promotional requirements.

The committee meeting, the second in less than a month, opened yesterday and will end today.

Fools Fish

Portland, Ore.—(AP)—The only artificial fishing worm manufacturer to attend the National Association of Manufacturers' regional meeting here was Hugh Loid, of Detroit.

His product, which “looks like the real McCoy,” he said, “and is better than the real McCoy,” has been introduced on the shelves of sporting goods stores across the country to meet the needs of fishermen who “like to go fishing, but dislike the early morning chase of angletorm hunting.”
