Left On Charlottean's Front Porch

New-Born Baby Abandoned

By DICK YOUNG Charlotte News Staff Writer A new-born baby girl, cute as a button, with brown eyes and black hair, was found on the front porch of the residence of Charles Green at 308 N. Brevard St. shortly before 6:30 A. M. today.

At least an hour and a half before Mrs. Ross Martin, a resident at the address, reported the cry of a baby around 5 A. M. but thought nothing of it. The baby was warm and comfortable in the outside pink blanket, supplemented by two other blankets and never did cry after the police took charge of her. Cuddled in the arms of a hefty policeman at headquarters, the baby was the center of attention while hasty preparations were made to place her in a hospital for care. One lieutenant the father of three boys, holding her in his arms, said, "If she was a blonde I'd adopt her." Officers of Mercy at Mercy Hospital readily and without question agreed to accept the baby and care for it while police investigation was underway. The baby was the identity of the person who left it on the porch. Included in the blankets were a couple of extra diapers and a tin of baby powder. A member of a local department store. There was no milk bottle nor were there any instructions regarding feeding.

New Program Begun

U. S. Exporting 'Tracer' Atoms

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE ST. LOUIS — (AP) — The United States today started a new program of sharing some "tracer" atoms from atomic ovens with foreign countries—a move hailed by scientists as promising quicker conquests over cancer and other diseases.

There were also immediate suggestions that the action might serve as a trail-blazer to a smooth achievement of international control over the atom bomb and atomic energy. President Truman announced the decision in a message last night to scientists of 44 nations at the Fourth International Cancer Research Congress. He asserted it would "help reduce loss of life and human suffering from disease throughout the world."

Dr. R. Rhoads, director of Memorial Hospital and Sloan-Kettering Institute, New York, instantly announced that "the pattern established by this action, or requiring supervisory inspection and control of the great of isotopes (tracers), is notable. "It not only removes the studies from the possibilities of exploitation for military purposes, but it should set up, by these two, what is a familiarly will benevolent, forward-looking control. This should greatly advance international thought and work in the field of atomic energy."

British See Gold Plan As Recovery Aid

Bevin Has Talk With Lawmakers LONDON — (AP) — An authoritative American source today said that the Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's proposal for redistribution of the Fort Knox gold was, in the British view, to be an integral part of the Marshall Plan for aiding European economic recovery.

The informant said Bevin had been talking informally in an exchange with U. S. Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas before announcing publicly yesterday in the Trade Union Congress in Southampton. In the course of a 70-minute talk with American Congressmen who are investigating economic conditions in Britain and Western Europe, the Foreign Secretary gave several more details of his proposal. This source added:

British See Gold Plan As Recovery Aid

Bevin's elucidation of his proposal for redistributing U. S. gold stocks came in answer to a question from one of the Congressmen and the informant said the Foreign Secretary said:

His proposal had the backing of the British Government. He believed it was unambiguously and unopposed economic aid to harmony with the principles of the Marshall Plan. He said that the United States herself was struggling for one country to hold most of the world's economic resources. There would be no lasting settlement in Europe until the gold which it contained was used to help the world's economic systems and every country should have access to it.
