Capacity Is Increased In Plant At Cliffside

Leakville Unit Well Under Way By J. A. DALY Charlotte News Staff Writer Duke Power Co. with headquarters here revealed today that its current expansion program, which will continue several more years, will involve investment of more than $100,000,000.

At the same time, the company announced completion of two additional great units at the Cliffside plant...

Two years ago, when the company announced its decision to expand Cliffside, the start of the additions in service was set for November, this year.

Also, the Duke organization is engaged in the construction of a great steel structure plant on the Dan River near Leakville. This work is well advanced in progress.

Only a few weeks ago, the company announced its decision to locate a similar big unit at the Carolina to the west of South Carolina. Another plant is being located on the Broad River in the Orange area of South Carolina.

Along with the additional power producing capacity, the transmission and distribution system is being extended into still more territories...

The Duke plant includes steam-electric and hydro-electric plants. The latter are placed on the Carolina to the west of South Carolina. Another plant is being located on the Broad River in the Orange area of South Carolina.

Call Truman 'Prisoner'

PARIS (AP)—Poland charged that President Truman is a prisoner of military tactics, and that when he wanted to resign, he was held back.

The secretary of the Polish Kats-Suchy of Poland in the disarmament subcommittee of the United Nations said today...

Kats-Suchy apparently was referring to the recent plan of Winston Churchill to visit the Soviet Union to Moscow to explain the U. S. position on atomic energy to Generalissimo Stalin.

Francis' labor unrest seemed likely to hamper an American Communist-controlled General Confederation of Labor (GCL) voted a general strike.

The CGT pledged itself to seek the destruction of the European Recovery Program and voted for co-operation with Russia and Communist France.

U. S. Envoy Admits Greek Situation Not Satisfactory

ATHENS (AP)—American Ambassador Henry F. Grady conceded today that the military picture in Greece is Communist-led rebels are to be smashed.

He said fully that more effective cooperation is needed between the Greek government and the American economic-military mission. He declined to predict how long fighting might go on.

MARSHALL IN ATHENS—Grady's statement, handed to correspondents shortly before the expected arrival of Secretary of State George Marshall, was prompted by written questions from the correspondents, designed to uncover the reasons for Greece's failure to clear out the guerrillas.

The ambassador said the operation through which Albanian, Yugoslav and Bulgarian aid flowed to the rebels was the main factor behind the Communist ability to continue organized military operations.

He said there had been too much Greek over-reliance on American troops over past successes and possible future successes.

He also noted that organized resistance will be put down in the near future but will continue hard fighting in mountainous areas.

West Thinks Reds Offend 'Neutrals'

PARIS (AP)—Western power officials said today Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky had alienated the Security Council "neutrals" by challenging their motives in attempting to mediate the Berlin blockade.

A French delegate said Vishinsky's remarks were "offensive" to the "neutrals" over his charge that a trap was being laid for Russia.

The former State Department chief said in his statement that the "neutrals" will not continue their compromise efforts to continue affairs quite as effectively as though the debate were directed toward the substance of our policies.

Observers also noted that the Greek army has made no headway in its military operations against Communist forces.

Biartisan Credit Claimed Hull And Dewey Dispute Foreign Policy Origins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cordell Hull and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey were in dispute today over origins of the nation's bi-partisan foreign policy.

The former Secretary of State said the Republican Presidential candidate's claim of having initiated two-party unity on this matter is "extraneous" and "incorrect."

Hull said Dewey's reference to the subject in his Louisville campaign address last Tuesday was "only the latest of many statements taking credit for achievements which were the fruit of joint and patriotic efforts by members of both parties."
