Government And Private Enterprise

ONE of the heritages of the New Deal era is the belief, shared by many people, that Government and Private Enterprise are incompatible...

discreed, and today the U. S. is slowly but surely beginning to build up its good earth once again and to increase its productivity...

Musings On The Preventive War

THE next war, we are told this week, will be the "flash war," or, more accurately, "the 30-day air blitz."

Col. Smith agrees that the important point in any discussion of Air Power centers around this question: Can the planes be assured of reaching their target?

Colonel Smith's opinions (strictly unofficial as they are) testify the Air Force's continuing campaign to convince the Joint Chiefs of Staff that Air Power, almost unassisted, can do the nearest knock-out job in the tremendous vision of the future—the Third World War.

This stupendous conception of the "30-day air blitz" is nothing more than the expected result when atomic age scientists get together and make plans for effective military defense.

In reality the United States, which disarms hatefully and which has only slowly begun to commit its destiny to armed force under the disillusionment of dealing with nothing but mistrust and non-co-operation on this part of Russia.

It is to be feared that we are witnesses today of a repetition of what Paul outlined in Romans: "And even as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to the lusts of their hearts..."

One gets tired of reading such "great swelling words" as world order, super-ethnocentrism, and world peace. In the next newspaper column he reads the sordid details of murders committed by children, attacks on women, Russia's latest objections, and science's newest weapons.
