A Bitter Turnip For Truman

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S double blast at the Republican Congress yesterday provided impressive evidence that the Turning Day "special session has been a figure on all counts.

Be the service of the control o or early next week. There already is too much evidence that the extra session, called in the midst of the campalgn as a maneuver to put the Républicans on the spot, has succeeded chieffy in putting the Administration over a barrel. On the basis of the results achieved since Congress reconvened July 26, the President should be very happy to see the Senators and Representatives pack up and go home.

The President cannot count one certain political gain for himself and his party in the two. weeks of equaboling since Turnip Day. He and his advisers hope that the voters will be angered at the refusal of Congress to approve the "inflation control" proposals recommended by the Administration, and signify their disastifaction at the polis Nov. 2. However, the Truman attrategies will have made a large miscal-culation if there is a price decline between now and election day, as is not impossible. now and election day, as is not impossible Meanwhile, they are discounting the pub-lic's reaction to the disruption of the or-ne's reaction to the disruption of the or-derly business of government by the elec-tioneering show in Congress. On the other hand, Mr. Truman can count a definite political setback from the Russian spy ring disclosure which the Re-publicans are developing in Senate and House hearings. The President properly labels this Investigation a "red herring" to divert popular attention from Republican lanction on anti-inflation measures, and he protests so vigorously because the spy ring, propaganda show is serving that Republican purpose very well indeed. For a week, the main headlines have been stolen by the GOP airing of charges that Communists and fellow travelers in-filitated into positions of influence in the Government under the Democratic Administration. From all signs the Republicans are prepared to keep this Red hunt going all Summer, and no one is more responsible for giving them this grand campaign opening than the man who called the Republican Congress back into assession. Our native Communists protest that the spy ring exhibition has been stauged by American war-mongers to asbotage cliplor within now are under any between Russia and the Western powers. Coming at this critical moment, it is possible that these discloures will make our international relationships more difficult. It is also true that the wfloir Turnip Day special has had an evil effect on America's world leader-ship. The intense politicking on both sides has placed an added strain on the bl-partisan foreign policy, and contributed greatly to general contusion and disumity at a has placed an added strain on the bi-par-tisan foreign policy, and contributed great-ly to general confusion and disunity at a time when the public, the Administration and the leaders of both parties should be concentrating, their thoughts, hopes and energies on the effort to end the world crists.

Filibuster Dampens Revolt

WHEN the Republican-controlled Senate on Wednesday surrendered to a fill-buster by Southern Democrats against an anti-poll tax bill it buried the whole Truman civil rights program which has kept the South in a state of ferment for nearly the South in a state of ferment for nearly a year.

Diris gratitude to the GOP for this sop will be restrained in view of the Republican promise to revive the anti-digerimination legislative program in January, along with publicans to stop a Southern fillbutter. That piedge carries more than ordinary weight in view of the civil rights records and views of the men who head the 1948 Republican ticket, Dewey and Warren, and in the light of the Republican For subsequent or recapture the Negor ove for subsequent elections.

What effect this development in Con-

What effect this development in Congress will have on the Dixiecrat revolt signals President Truman and the national Democratic ticket remains to be seen, but it would appear that the shutout for civil rights legislation in Washington will put a heavy damper on the campaign of the Blate's Rights Democrats. In other words, the success of the fillbutter in this section will give Southerners more time and more reason to reflect on the dublous features of the Dixiecrat bolt, and that undoubtedly will have a chilling effect on the revolters.

will have a chilling effect on the revolters. It has been clear all along that this States Rights campaign could accomplish nothing except the defeat of the national Democratic ticket, and that the Distinctural point even while they shouted that they were going to defeat both Truman and Dewey. Continuation of the bolt after this week will provide further glaring proof that the main purpose of the Distincturals is to wreck the Democratic Party rather than to block the Pederal civil rights legislation recommended by President Truman and officially endorsed by the Republican Party.

Party.

Up to now, some excuse has been offered for the Dixiecrats on the ground that they suffered from a certain obtuseness intural in men who are shaken by anger. If they go on with their revolt, more and more will be heard of the simpler explanation that the Dixiecrats are Republicans at heart, of disguised Republicans, or disgruntled politicians who can't make the grade in the Democratic Party.

We Like Mountain Music

WE HAVE just read a piece on mountain music in which the writer labors under the illusion that the jug-blowing, straw-hatted comedians who clutter the airwave seak saturday night are indeed presenting hilbility music to millions of listeners. We are constrained to point out that there is hilbility music and there is hilbility music.

nasal passages that now passes for hillbilly music is an imposter; Genuine hillbilly music delivered by such folk music subtorities as Burl Ives and Richard Dyer-Bennett is seldom, if ever, found in a juke box. The men and women who sing for nickels what they refer to as "hillbilly music" de-serve to be called musicians only because they can deliver rapidly in a loud voice what, for lack of a better term, is referred to as music.

is recognized by the juke box public if it is presented with a minimum of respect for enunciation and accompanied by a guitar. A well-known example of "hillbilly music" was popular a year of so ago under the title "Pistol-Pracking Mama."

A less familiar example of genuine hill-billy music is performed quite often by Burl Ires. Its title: "Foggy, Foggy Dew" This melody never achieved the mass popularity of the "Pistol-Packking" number nor has it made a tenth as much money for its performer.

A few American musicians — men like Lamar Stringfield and Aaron Copeland—have set many of the old folk ballads and ligs into permanent form in suties and concert pieces. To group this hilbillity music of the Juke box and radio is a grave error.

Tadio is a grave error.

like-hillbilly question is to give the hillbilly label to Tin Pan Alley, which has pre-empted it anyway, and refer to the genuine mountain melodies as folk music.
