GOOD NEWS AND BAD

The first reaction of Charlotteans to the news that the Duke Power Co. and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen accepted the fact-finding report will be one of vast relief that the city's public bus service will not be tied up by a costly and inconvenient strike.

If the company is correct in this opinion, and we believe that it is, the higher wages may eventually mean higher fares or reduced service. The bus system can not continue to operate at a loss.

ECONOMY BEGINS AT HOME

IN COMPARISON with Congressional Ham J. Jones' $237 million dollar raid on the Treasury to build veterans' hospitals which aren't needed, the grab for an extra million bucks for the Blue Ridge Parkway by Senators Hoy and Graham is strictly sane politics.

Byrd and Robertson. Byrd, long a supporter of the parkway, said he would not advocate any increase over the House figure. Robertson said it would be "inconsistent with my stand for economy and ultimately a balanced budget."

TRAGEDY ON THE CATAWBA

IF THE newspaper accounts are trustworthy, neither of the tragedies on the Catawba River which have happened had a little care, foresight, and plain common sense been applied.

Catawba in normal weather. Its waters lie quiet and serene except when churned by the cold winds that blow from the north to wash over the sides of a small boat often deeply.

ENOUGH OF McCARTHYISM

SENATOR FLENDERS' resolution to bar further public hearings on Senator McCarthy's charges of Communism in the State Department is in order, and should be passed by the Senate.

There was a Communist or Communist sympathizer, or that he at any time in the past influenced U. S. foreign policy, farmed off to another direction over the neck-and.

WEEDS

WEEDS spring up everywhere, but mostly in places where you expect to find them like gardens, yards and flower beds.

pull them up. While that may be true from her point-of-view. It isn't always so from the way weeds look at or react to it. For roots are parts of the weeds that are being growing too, which means that you have more to tug at. Tops of weeds also are slicker and more tender after also are more difficult to pull off more easily and great part of your pulling results in only the tops coming off in your hands.

Some Things Are Worth The Sacrifice Of A Day's Class

ALBEMARLE (I did not hear any criticism the other night, however. The papers said that the Communist Party was printing all over their faces with pride. I grinned right back at them.)

A Curious Statement

READING your editorial of Friday, May 5, in which you run up the flag for Willis Smith, I found my eyes riveted by one of the most curious statements I have ever found in an American newspaper.

A 'Masterpiece'

MT. PLEASANT (I am confident that if every Democrat in North Carolina could read this masterpiece, Smith would win by 100,000 majority.)

Ambiguous Argument

CHARLOTTE (That is the "ambiguous" argument. The "dangerous" political argument follows: "You see, Hoy and Graham in Washington would cancel out each other." If this concept had any validity, there would be no need for elections.)

Drew Pearson's Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON (It is now possible to give the complete facts in the Russian plane crash which landed in the Baltic.)

British Witnessed Plane Incident

WASHINGTON (The British radio observation showed the Privateer wrecked sharply with the Russian fighters in hot pursuit.)

Quote, Unquote

He that stinks his neck out, the same shall be named chairman.—Greenleaf (S. C.) Piedmont. We understand, of course, about "blackberry winter" and all the other small-claim, but we've never become of the real Winter War, Nashville (Tenn.) Banner.
