

Yoo Hoo - Halloooo - Hey!

New Gimmick And Technique Raise Republicans' Hopes

MARQUIS W. CHILDS

'MAKE IT COME TRUE IN '51.' That was the wily speech of the big Republican rally here the other night.

There is a difference this time.
While prominent Republicans are not given to discussing it publicly.

'DECLINE NOTED' Federal Power Commission - under the chairmanship of Theodore Roosevelt.

'MISUSE APPARENT'
The evil consequences of maladministration through government by crony are becoming more and more apparent.

'Procor Over Youth Drafting'
Is Labeled To M-o-t-h-e-r
By ROBERT C. RUARK

'NEW YORK'
If YOU can die for the kernel of pressure in this draft warrant, you will be entitled to the drafting of children married to other girls.

'LITTLE DIFFERENCE' Yet, he is a man in body, avift of effort, and still more amenable to training and less sensitive to danger than an adult with responsibility.

'Behind The Fighting Lines' OR combat troops, now fighting in Korea since last July, are now enjoying a moment of combat exhaustion.

'RFC Favoritism'
HERE is another example of the backstage favoritism which has made the Reconstruction Finance Corp. one of the most powerful agencies in Government.

'Outtalking The Police' SENATOR WAYNE MORSE of Oregon, who is no mean fighter on the Senate floor, had to outtalk two cops to get away a sleep a few nights ago.

'Greatest Story'
'THIS note is to say that all of us appreciate what The News is doing in exposing the Fulton Orsler's 'The Greatest Story Ever Told.' I think this is as fine a comment upon the significance of the Christian Religion as has been produced in the past several years.

'Backs Chiang Kai-Shek'
'I WANT to take kindly but firmest exception to the enthusiasm which is being accorded to Chiang Kai-shek and to the sources which he quoted in support of the usual libel and common slander of Chiang Kai-shek's good name and reputation.

WEAKNESSES IN 'COTTON BLOC' CASE

THIS newspaper has no sympathy for the "cotton bloc" Congressmen who are trying to get the Government to take all restrictions off the price of baled cotton.

A group of Senators and Congressmen from cotton-growing states called on President Truman this week to urge that all price controls will discourage production at a time when the nation's supplies are short and its needs great.

The appeal of the "cotton bloc" representatives has several holes in it:
1. The permissible selling price for cotton is plenty high to encourage production.

THE ARMY'S RAILROAD ORDER

THIS much can be said about the Army's order to striking railroad workers: It had to come sooner or later, and it might as well have sooner.

The Army told the men that they would be dismissed unless (1) they returned to work or (2) proved they were physically unable to work.

THE CAUSE IS JUST

A SENATE BILL to give urban residents a better break in the distribution of Highway Commission funds has passed two hurdles, but there are still too many obstacles ahead.

Yesterday the measure, introduced by 38 Senators, passed the Senate Appropriations Committee. Earlier it was approved by the Senate Roads Committee.

First, it is only fair for the General Assembly to remedy an ancient injustice to urban dwellers. It has been clearly stated in the report of the Municipal Road Commission.

A Limit To High Wages

It is high time American people ceased parroting the Commie line above the true and lasting Chinese fight for freedom and get one simple, and important, fact straight: Chiang Kai-shek was and is the duly-legitimized ruler of China, and he has an untold majority.

Special Edition Praised CHARLOTTE
THE Business Review and Progress edition published by The Charlotte News last Wednesday was certainly a very special issue.

People's Platform

I believe in high wages with all my heart and souls; but I do believe now just as firmly that they have reached our limit.

Backs Chiang Kai-Shek

I WANT to take kindly but firmest exception to the
enthusiasm which is being accorded to Chiang Kai-
shek and to the sources which he quoted in support of the usual libel and common slander of Chiang Kai-shek's good name and reputation.

At Last The British Pay For Trafalgar

A HUNDRED AND FORTY-FIVE years ago, British sailors and British officers, who were at the battle of Trafalgar, were at last paid for their services.

Merrill-Gow's Price Enforcement Has Growing Pains

WASHINGTON
OFFICIAL Washington has now reached an all-time high point of confusion and chaos. Part of this, of course, results from the inevitable waf of enforcement for the price control program, for instance, has been moving ahead rapidly that even the most experienced New Agency, new directors, new phone numbers, new addresses, new authorities and new regulations have been instituted.

some of them making national headlines:
Reconstruction Finance Corp. — First report of a Senate subcommittee showing that the Recons.

of all textile products. The consumer would be penalized. The Government, which is buying textiles heavily, would be penalized.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be permitted to rise. They are as convincing as any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

In our bewilderment over such strikes, we often are prone to lose the larger view.
That view was brought into focus recently by ex-Senator Frank Graham. What he told a recent government-labor-contract-conference in Anchorage, Alaska, bears repeating here:

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.

There you have four valid reasons why
the price of raw cotton should not be per-
mitted to rise. They are as convincing as
any that can be made. It is high enough, as we
said before, to spur any farmer to produce
more cotton.