

No Comment
The high spots of the Democratic convention as far as the columnist John Crosby is concerned was the little tiff between Governor Timmerman and a TV commentator. Turn to page 2-B for his reasons.

ESTABLISHED DEC. 8, 1888

POLITICAL LINES ARE DRAWN

After two hectic weeks in Chicago the Republicans and the Democrats picked these four men as their standard bearers. In the top photo Sen. John Sparkman, the Democratic choice. In the bottom photo the Republican candidates and their wives—Mrs. Nixon and Sen. Richard Nixon, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower. (United Press Telephotos.)

Egyptian Strong Man Praised

By EDWARD POLLAK
CAIRO, Egypt (U.P.)—The head of Egypt's powerful Wafdist party, Gamal Abdel Nasser, was praised today for his role in the country's new strong man, Nasser, who is hailed as the savior of Egypt and his promise of a nationwide cleanup of "barbery and corruption."

Judge Blasts Institutions For Releasing Manics

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Judge Saul E. Street today accused mental hospitals of fomenting "dangerous manics on the public with the most dire consequences."

OUR WEATHER

Partly cloudy and continued hot today, tonight and Tuesday. High temperature yesterday 97 degrees.

High temperature expected today 102 degrees. Low temperature this morning 75 degrees.

Continued the General Session judge.

Woman Killed In S. C. Crash

YORK, S. C. (U.P.)—A private plane crashed in flames near today, killing Mrs. Pat McAdoo Tucker.

Iran's Premier Hints Accord With Britain

Agreement Would End Crippling Blockade

TEHRAN, Iran (U.P.)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh last night hinted at a possible agreement with Britain to end the crippling blockade of this near bankrupt nation's chief money-maker.

As the premier spoke to Parliament at the height of new popularity, the newspaper Bakhtar Enrooz, which often reflects his views, hinted to the Shah that he should never stand in the way of the Nationalists if he wants to avoid being ousted like Egypt's ex-king Farouk.

Mossadegh's plan for exploiting Iran's oil riches was part of a program for drastic reforms to lift the country from its present economic plight. His program called also for higher taxes, land reforms, and work projects for the unemployed—measures which are bound to be opposed by many wealthy supporters of the government.

Debate on the Premier's program is scheduled to begin tomorrow.

Mossadegh was reported to have notified Britain over the week end that Iran is willing to begin talks on compensation for the oil which has been seized last year by Britain. Although they were successful in ousting the British, Iran has failed to get around a British ban on foreign ships handling the oil.

The new Iranian foreign minister Hassan Navab, now in the Netherlands, told a New York Times correspondent there that he is not willing to test the case in the oil dispute on the grounds that it would set a precedent for other countries.

Later, after a conference with Nasser at Egyptian Army headquarters, Nasser called Nasser the savior of the country.

Truck Plunges Into Car; 6 Die

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (U.P.)—Roaring out of a heavily loaded truck and heading into the auto laden with picknickers and killed six persons yesterday at Uniontown, Pa.

The crash occurred at the foot of the four-mile long Mt. Summit. Victims included five passengers and the driver.

Dead are Charles Brown, 59, his wife, Eliza, 57, their daughter, Mrs. Bertha Albertini, 30, her husband, Arthur, 31, of Midway, Pa., and Estella Donovan, 76, Zeigles, Ill.

The truck driver was tentatively identified as Clyde Willis of Baltimore.

MARK TWAIN BLAMED FOR ADLAI CONFUSION

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic Presidential nominee, blamed Mark Twain "for the confusion that exists as to how to pronounce my first name."

In a recent letter to Cyril Clemens, head of the International Mark Twain Society, the Illinois Governor said:

While my grandfather, Adam E. Stevenson, was Vice President of the United States under Grover Cleveland, Mark Twain was at a luncheon where grandfather was a guest. The newspapers of the time quoted Mark Twain as follows on the pronunciation of my first name:

"Philologists sweat and lexicographers bray."
"But the best they can do is to call him Adlai."
"But at longshoremen's picnics, where accents are high, 'Fair Harvard' is not present, so they call him Adlie."
"Anyway," Stevenson wrote, "the correct pronunciation is 'Adlai,' although to put it mildly, I have been called many things."

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Sen. Brien McMahon, 48, a Connecticut Democrat with a passion for peace and a key role in the nation's atomic energy program, died today of cancer.

Death came at his 10:10 a. m., with members of his family at his side in Georgetown Hospital, where the senator went in June for an operation.

Dr. Philip A. Caulfield, McMahon's personal physician, said the senator was stricken with cancer of the back and pelvis.

Illness prevented his campaigning as a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Friends from Connecticut gave him 16 votes anywhere at the Democratic National Convention last week.

McMahon was a brand new senator in 1945 when the first atomic bomb devastated Hiroshima. He was deeply impressed, he decided this new force must be harnessed to save civilization, and dedicated his life to that goal.

Despite his relative inexperience, he became chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee, the voice of Congress on all atomic affairs, the highest lay authority on the subject.

He first rose to fame as chief of the Justice Department's criminal division in 1932, he personally moved into bloody Harlem County, Ky., during a war between coal miners and union labor.

McMahon was shot at from ambush but was unhurt. Two of his legs were wounded and the bones of two others were dynamited, but the New Englander returned to his duties without spectacular trials for terrorism.

Rep. Carl T. Durham, North Carolina, said McMahon was a member of the Senate House Atomic Committee and automatically takes over the helm until a successor is elected.

Democratic Nominee Planning Campaign

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Governor Adlai E. Stevenson received a noisy welcome today from the citizens of his home town.

The crowd jammed the railroad station for a glimpse of the 52-year-old Bloomington man who reluctantly accepted the Democratic Presidential nomination last Saturday.

There were cheers and acrobatic stunts as he appeared in the doorway of a Springfield-bound train to acknowledge the tribute. The train was delayed more than a half hour.

It was a day of acclaim by the people's old friends and neighbors, both here and in Springfield, the state capital. A second celebration was planned in Springfield for Stevenson.

He will pick up, but only temporarily, the reins of the job he has held for four years, governor of Illinois.

Then he will resign to devote himself to the role "I did not want"—candidate for the President of the United States.

The Democratic nominee spent the week end conferring with party leaders on campaign plans. Among them was Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, whom the Democratic National Convention named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

AGREE ON PLAN
Frank E. McKinney, Democratic national chairman, told reporters the party high command had agreed on a "hard-hitting campaign" to be launched in August.

McKinney said the party's big goal was to win the White House. He said the party's big goal was to win the White House.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Stevenson and Sparkman. The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman, whom the party named as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Final

40 Pages—Price Five Cents

Ike And Nixon Discuss Plans For Campaign

Republicans Will Bid For Southern Votes

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
DENVER (U.P.)—Back at his campaign headquarters after a 10-day campaign, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stowed away his fishing gear and turned full attention to day to pressing his bid for the presidency.

The Republican nominee returned here last night from the Rocky Mountain state ranch near Fraser, Colo., where he went for a rest a few days after the Republican National Convention.

First on the general's agenda today was a conference with his newly appointed political chief of staff, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. Eisenhower plans to confer with his staff on the campaign.

TALKS WITH NIXON
Yesterday, the general's final day at Fraser, was devoted only in part to relaxation. A good share was given over to discussion of campaign plans with his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California.

Nixon drove to the ranch from Denver early in the morning and before the serious talking got started—received his first lesson in how to cast for trout. His tutor? The GOP Presidential nominee, an expert fisherman.

Before the conference, Eisenhower and Nixon joined in predicting a Republican victory in November over the ticket the Democrats selected in Chicago last week—Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the presidential candidate and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama for vice president.

PREDICT VICTORY
Nixon said he was confident "we are going to have the victory for Gen. Eisenhower that the country needs."

Seated on a bench alongside the California senator, Eisenhower interrupted and told his 39-year-old running mate:

"You've got the party for the party and not just for me, my boy—and, more important, victory for the country."

After the conference in Eisenhower's rustic cabin, Nixon issued this statement:

"The general and I discussed campaign organization and strategy, as well as strategy and tactics for the campaign. We expect to conduct a fighting campaign on the issues and the facts, and to bring our message to the people."

WILL VISIT SOUTH
When the campaign gets underway, we shall visit as many of the states as possible, including states in the South."

Heve the nomination of Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic ticket apparently had no effect on plans of the Republicans candidates.

See IKE AND on page 7-A

WHAT'S INSIDE

| | |
|---------------------|---------|
| Classified Want Ads | 17B-19B |
| Comics | 10B |
| Crossword Puzzle | 17B |
| Editorial | 12B |
| Feature Page | 2B |
| Radio | 2B |
| Serial Story | 2A |
| Service Record | 9A |
| Sports | 13B-15B |
| Theaters | 16B |
| Travel | 17B |
| Wishing Well | 16A |
| Women's Pages | 10B-12B |