

Army Rushes More Big Equipment To N.C. Coast

Soldiers Join In Big Coastal Cleanup Task Hurricane Debris Being Removed

By NOEL YANCEY

WILMINGTON — The Army took one look today at the tremendous cleanup job at battered Wrightsville and Carolina beaches and immediately sent a rush order to Ft. Bragg for more heavy equipment.

A combat engineer battalion of the 82nd Airborne Division which arrived yesterday went to work this morning clearing streets at the two beaches so that water and sewage facilities may be repaired.

"Now that the battalion commander has seen the staggering size of the job, he is sending to Bragg for more heavy equipment," Col. R. L. Hill, Wilmington district engineer for the Army Engineers, said.

MUST MOVE SAND

"He estimates that at Carolina Beach alone the sand that must be moved from the street immediately totals 165,000 cubic yards," Hill said.

Meanwhile the toll of North Carolina storm dead mounted to 19 with the recovery yesterday of one additional body from Cape Fear. Previous reports said three bodies had been recovered yesterday.

The body was that of a man and state highway patrolman said there was a possibility it had washed up from a South Carolina beach. The highway patrol was contacting South Carolina authorities in the hope of identifying him.

The combat engineers joined thousands of civilians in the huge cleanup operations along the storm-smashed coast.

Col. Hill said the 300 soldiers—125 at Carolina Beach and 125 at Wrightsville Beach—were to finish their work in about three days. Then they will move to other points.

"We expect to use them all the way from Topsail Island to the North Carolina line," he said.

He explained Wrightsville and Carolina beaches were selected first because of the greater populations involved at those large resorts.

Civilian residents of the two towns are not permitted to remain there after 3 p.m. pending restoration of water and sewage facilities.

Meanwhile Mayor Mike Brown of Wrightsville Beach said rapid progress was being made. "The day when Wrightsville Beach will be almost back to normal is not as far away as we first feared," he said.

Officials had high praise for privateers at Southport last Saturday. Sea construction firms which put

See ACTION on page 2-A

SUSAN HAYES
Star Witness In Sheppard Case. (AP Wirephoto)

4th Juror Picked In Sheppard Trial

By WILLIAM NEWBARK
CLEVELAND — A fourth juror was seated tentatively today in the first degree murder trial of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard.

He is Thomas J. Solli, a railroad foreman, the father of three children.

Previously accepted for jury duty in the trial of the 30-year-old osteopath charged with beating his wife, Marilyn, to death, were a housewife, a steel plant timekeeper, and the manager of a hardware store.

For the second day, references to extra marital affairs of the defendant were voiced during the questioning of Solli. But again Judge Blythin refused to allow any detailed searching of the minds of prospective jurors as to their attitude toward sex in relation to testimony that might be introduced later.

NAME INTRODUCED
Yesterday, the name of Susan Hayes, former associate of Dr. Sheppard at Bay View Hospital in nearby Bay Village, was introduced.

The state claims it has a statement from Miss Hayes, 24-year-old medical technician, that she was intimate with Dr. Sheppard more than once last spring while they were in California.

During examination of Solli, defense attorney Fred Garmonne pointed out to Solli and said:

"They cause me a little fear sometimes when I get up here to examine. . . . Do they have any effect on you?"

"Well," replied Solli, "I don't pay much attention to it anyway."

"You don't pay any attention to it?" Garmonne persisted.

"That's right," Solli said.

"Well, your nerves are a good deal better than mine," the defense lawyer told him.

"I'm shaking a little bit," Solli conceded.

Solli was a light blue suit, his shirt open at the neck and a sweater under his coat.

"I'm shaking a little bit," Solli said.

"That's right," Solli said.

"Well, your nerves are a good deal better than mine," the defense lawyer told him.

"I'm shaking a little bit," Solli conceded.

Solli was a light blue suit, his shirt open at the neck and a sweater under his coat.

"I'm shaking a little bit," Solli said.

"That's right," Solli said.

"Well, your nerves are a good deal better than mine," the defense lawyer told him.

President Sees No Winner In New War Degree Of Loss Only Question

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

HARTFORD, Conn. — President Eisenhower said today the world has arrived at a point where there is no longer an alternative of victory or defeat in war, but only "degree of destruction."

Speaking informally to a police-estimated crowd of 7,500 persons at Trinity College convocation ceremonies, the President called on the youth of America to take the lead in preserving a sense of spiritual values.

He called such values the real salvation from "the threat of destruction."

Eisenhower received an honorary doctor of laws degree at ceremonies marking the college's 132nd year. He flew here from Washington this morning and was going on to New York for two major speeches—one tonight, the other tomorrow night.

His address here and the two in New York were billed non-political by the White House, but coming in the midst of the congressional campaign as they do they gave the President-at-Vice President Nixon recently said—an opportunity to focus attention on the Republican administration in the home stretch.

BIG WELCOME
Eisenhower got a roaring welcome from crowds who lined the street in the neighborhood of the college, and from those along the route from the airport.

The citation which accompanied the honorary doctor of laws degree

See IKE on page 2-A

Edwards Given League Post

WINSTON-SALEM — Dan K.

Edwards of Durham, former legislator, was named legislative counsel for the North Carolina League of Municipalities today to succeed the late George C. Franklin.

The appointment was seen as a master stroke by North Carolina towns to strengthen their power in the General Assembly.

A former mayor of Durham and former vice president of the league, Attorney Edwards also served as a member of the House of Representatives and became known as an enthusiastic leader of the urban bloc as far back as 1947.

He was the chairman of the League of Municipalities' Legislative Committee which shepherded the Powell Act through the 1951 Legislature, giving towns a share of state-collected gasoline tax for local streets.

The search temporarily came to a halt late yesterday on the slope below Fisher's Peak which straddles the North Carolina-Virginia state line in Northern Surry County.

This morning, officers resumed spot-checking homes and abandoned buildings in the area in the hope that the coldness of the night may have forced Richardson to seek shelter.

They did not entirely discount the possibility that Richardson may have taken his own life if he saw the wave of law enforcement officers swarming toward the peak yesterday and felt he was surrounded.

When Richardson, a 25-year-old, six-foot-two inch man, left his home in Ennice yesterday morning after allegedly blasting the sheriff with a shotgun, his father, Troy, said he said:

"I'm going to Sparta to kill Bill (State Highway Patrolman Freeman C. Bell, witness against him in seven state cases) and then I'm gonna kill myself."

When last seen, Richardson was armed with the shotgun with which he allegedly killed the sheriff, and the sheriff's pistol which he took from his body after the shooting.

Yesterday Col. Mecklenburg was at Independence Square. Today he was at another location, and he will continue to visit different places, including stores and business houses, every day.

The second alarm clock to be given away yesterday went to Mrs. Carolyn Smith, of 1837 N. Allen St.

United Appeal headquarters has also released the names of 23 winners in this year's poster

See SEARCH on page 2-A

SEN. THOMAS BURKE REP. GEORGE BENDER JAMES A. RHODES GOV. FRANK LAUSCHE
In Ohio, Burke and Bender run for Senate, Rhodes and Lausche run for governor. (AP Wirephoto)

Most People Vote For The 'Big Name'

By SAMUEL LUBEL

In the crucial battle for control of the Senate, perhaps the sorest Republican liability is the fact that in so many states the Democrats are running the better known candidates.

During the last two weeks President Eisenhower's campaigning for a Republican Congress has begun to have a noticeable effect. My talks with voters are yielding more comments like these: "Like needs more time. You can't perform miracles in two years." Or, "Give him a chance to show what he can do. Don't tie his hands."

Here and there I have even come across staunch Democrats who say, "I'm against Eisenhower but I'll vote Republican this fall. As long as he is President he ought to have a Congress that won't fight him."

However, this growing sentiment for giving Eisenhower a "fair chance" still seems confined to a minority of the voters. Many people feel "the Democrats are needed for balance" or—the remark that is repeated most often—"I vote for the best man regardless of party."

"The best man," of course, is not necessarily the man with the "name" but voters generally seem to link the two qualities. Except for New Jersey, which will be covered in a later article, in each of the seven states with Senate contests which I have visited, Republican prospects can be scaled according to how well known their candidates are.

In Michigan and even more so in Massachusetts, for example, I found ordinarily Democratic voters who intended to mark their ballots for Sen. Homer Ferguson and Leverett Saltonstall. "Eisenhower isn't doing me any good," complained a Packard Co. worker in Detroit, "but Ferguson has the experience." Similarly, a Boston policeman who thought

ALBEN W. BARKLEY
In Kentucky, Affection For Alben May Decide The Issue. (AP Wirephoto)

"the Democrats are better for people like me," still intended to vote for "Old Sully" as "a fine upstanding man, the kind we need in government."

By contrast in Iowa, Minnesota and Illinois where the Democratic Senators seeking re-election are more widely known than the Republicans trying to unseat them, there were relatively few "breaks" in the Democratic ranks. By and large, the lesser known Republican candidates in these states seemed reduced to relying upon their traditional party vote.

Ohio provides the unusual situation of a contest in which

See BIG NAMES on page 2-A

In Paris For Conference

Dulles Calls For European Unity

By JOSEPH E. DYMAN

PARIS — U.S. Secretary of State Dulles, arriving here by plane today from Washington, "vast network of interrelated problems incident to the restoration of German sovereignty, the joining together of West Europe for a measured defense, and the solidification of NATO."

The secretary will meet British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, French Premier Pierre Mendès-France and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In a brief statement at Orly airport, the secretary cited the "vast network of interrelated problems incident to the restoration of German sovereignty, the joining together of West Europe for a measured defense, and the solidification of NATO."

The secretary will meet British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, French Premier Pierre Mendès-France and the North Atlantic

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in the Palais de Chaillot this afternoon to end the Allied occupation of Germany and to restore its sovereignty to the Bonn Government.

Tomorrow Dulles will attend a nine-power conference to amend the Brussels treaty, and on Friday, with other members of the NATO council, will vote on Western Germany as the 15th NATO member.

CITES IMPORTANCE
The secretary described this series of meetings as "of decisive importance from the standpoint of peace, security and freedom in Europe."

He added: "At the recent London conference important decisions were taken as to how these problems should be resolved. Now the task is to translate those decisions into final executive acts."

"I am well aware of the difficulties of this task. However, the parliamentary and public reactions to the London accords provide new impetus and the intense and constructive labor of our experts mark good advances."

"Thus," the secretary concluded, "the hopes of London may become the realities of Paris. That will be our dedicated purpose."

MINOR PROBLEMS
The session to end Allied occupation of West Germany is expected to be a smooth one, but it was learned that at least two minor problems remain for settlement.

EVENING PRAYER
We would cast all our cares upon Thee, O God, knowing that Thou canst sustain us. Daily give us thankful hearts for Thy watchfulness over us. In the precious name of Jesus we pray unto Thee Amen.

OUR WEATHER

Mostly sunny today. Clear tonight. Sunny again tomorrow, but some light frost tomorrow morning.
High temperature yesterday, 63 degrees.
High temperature expected today, 64 degrees.
High temperature expected tomorrow, 72 degrees.
Low temperature this morning, 40 degrees.
Low temperature expected tonight, 36 degrees.
Sunrise 6:33 a.m.; sunset 5:32 p.m.
More Weather Data on Page 3-B

WHAT'S INSIDE

WHAT MAKES TAR HEELS RUN? Harry Ashmore, former editor of The Charlotte News, discusses the secrets of North Carolina's progress on today's editorial page. Turn to Page 10-A.

Business	4A	Obituaries	12B
Classified	9-11	Radio & TV	3B
Comics	8B	Serial	7A
Crossword	2B	Sports	47B
Editorials	10A	Theaters	6B
Features	2B	Women	12-14A

Join Your Community Team — Give Once And For All Through United Appeal

GROCERY NEWS

TIPS

By Betty Boyer

New Sweet Milk and Buttermilk Biscuits in the Zip-Open Package

"Ring-Around-A-Rosy" Rice Dinner. Try My Recipe.

For Growing Youngsters Buy the Bread That's Vitamin B Enriched

Hot Steak Sandwiches for a Cool Autumn Night

Read The Grocery News

Page 3-B