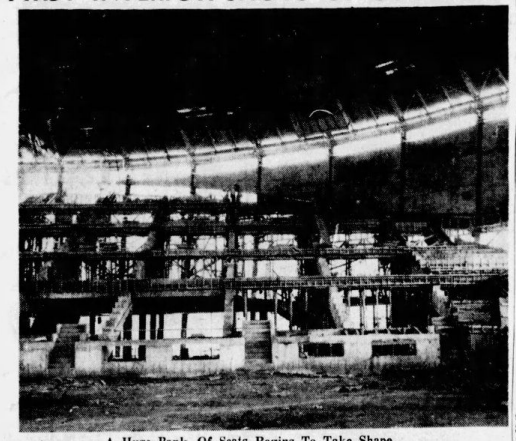
FIRST INTERIOR SHOTS OF COLISEUM



A Huge Bank Of Seats Begins To Take Shape.

First Concrete Is Poured For Another Huge Tier Of Seats.

WITH THE WEATHER remaining ideal for construction, the interior of the new coliseum is beginning to take shape. Erecting of forms and pouring of concrete for the huge seating areas is well under way. These tiers will provide space for 10,000 permanent seats, with space left over for about three thousand more. Placing of insulation on the huge steel-ribbed dome is nearing completion and workmen have begun installing the aluminum roof. Other phases of construction are also proceeding satisfactorily and work should be completed in less than a year. (Photo by Bill Sumner).

Ike Says Prosperity Without War Goal

McCarthy Sees Censure Vote Against Him

Senator Expects Loss In Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) predicted today the Senate will vote to censure him at its session beginning Nov. 8 because, he said, "very few" members will consider the evidence with an open mind.

A special Senate committee headed by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), in a report made public Sept. 27, recommended that McCarthy "should be censured" and the Nov. 8 session was called to act on the report.

McCarthy said "I am not going to defend myself before the Senate," but added he will speak at length on each censure count "to make a record so the American people will know what the Senate is doing."

The Watkins committee, composed of three Republicans and three Democrats, has recommended unanimously that McCarthy should be censured on these counts:

That he displayed contempt of a Special Elections subcommittee which investigated him in 1952; used vulgar language in denouncing Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), a subcommittee member; and abused Brig. Gne. Ralph W. Zwicker, decorated veteran of World War II, while questioning Zwicker about the Army's handling of the discharge of Maj. Irving Peress.

This Processional Of Educators Honored Queens' New President Today.

Ceremony Held At Queens

Dr. Walker Is Inaugurated

Dr. Edwin Ruthven Walker officially became the 11th president of Queens College at impressive inaugural exercises here this morning.

Dr. Walker succeeds H. H. Everett who had served as acting president of the 97-year-old liberal arts institution since the death of Dr. Charlton C. Jernigan last year.

Leading educators from all over the South and delegates from learned societies filled the processional to pay tribute to the new Queens president.

Dr. Walker called liberal education "the kind of study and learning that creates freedom of choices. Without this kind of education, I think there is no freedom."

These remarks keynoted his inaugural address in Belk Chapel.

A SELF-DELUSION

"Many men assume," he said, "that they have freedom when the assumption is simply self-delusion. This business of freedom of thought, freedom of judgment, and freedom of choice is not what it is commonly assumed to be. It is assumed that men are born free. It is assumed that, when there is no restraint, freedom results automatically. It is assumed that when there is no restraining authority, be it the authority of the state or of a person — to guide . . . The most important freedom of all is freedom of choice—the freedom to choose the course of action, the freedom to think one thing rather than another, the freedom to appreciate one object or situation more than another—the freedom of choice.

The academic procession filed into Belk Chapel at 10:30 with the board of trustees. Taking part in the program were Dr. John R. Cunningham, president of Davidson College who gave the benediction and Dr. Hunter B. Blakely, former Queens president, who gave the invocation. Dr. James A. Jones, secretary of the Board, made a statement on behalf of that governing body.

In his remarks about liberal education, Dr. Walker said:

"Liberal education is the kind of study and learning that creates freedom of choices. Without this kind of education, I think there is no freedom. Many men assume that they have freedom of the choice — then the choice is free. I do not believe that these assumptions are true to fact. In what real sense can men be said to be born free? It seems to me that human beings are born with only one freedom and that is the freedom to die. They are not even born with the freedom to secure food.

On the contrary, food, language,

Powell Gets Year In Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clyde L. Powell, ousted assistant federal housing commissioner, was sentenced today to serve a year in jail for criminal contempt of court.

The sentence was passed by U. S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who ruled that Powell had "willfully, deliberately and contumaciously" disobeyed his order that Powell answer specific questions put to him by a federal grand jury.

The grand jury is investigating charges of bribery and misconduct in the Federal Housing Administration. Powell had charge of a multimillion-dollar mortgage program which has been under fire.

The 58-year-old former official was discharged from his job at the start of the investigation of housing scandals.

Judge Letts, after passing sentence, turned down a plea by Daniel B. Maher, Powell's lawyer, that Powell be allowed liberty pending an appeal. He also refused to delay execution of the sentence until Maher could file a petition with the U. S. Court of Appeals.

The questions Powell refused to answer before the grand jury dealt with whether he had removed official papers from his FHA office.

Effort To Find Jobs Pledged By President

Stumping Country For GOP Candidates

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

EN ROUTE WITH EISENHOWER (AP) — President Eisenhower, opening an 11th hour aerial campaign on behalf of Republican candidates, pledged today that America never will go to war to solve the unemployment problem.

Addressing a police-estimated crowd of 2,500 persons at Cleveland Hopkins municipal airport, the President said prosperity under the Democrats was based on war.

He promised that his administration will do everything possible to find jobs for those out of work, but said the solution under his leadership never will be based on a war economy.

"Let me assure you this," the President said, "as long as a single American is out of work . . . this government will seek a better solution" to unemployment.

FLIES TO CLEVELAND

"We won't go to war to get it."

The President flew to Cleveland from Washington on the first leg of a four-state tour to get out the vote for next Tuesday's election.

He came into Ohio to help GOP Rep. George Bender in his contest for a U. S. Senate seat against the Democratic incumbent, Sen. Thomas A. Burke, who was appointed to succeed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, a Republican.

Also at stake in Ohio are 23 house seats.

Police Inspector Patrick J. Lynch estimated the airport crowd at 2,500 persons.

That was a smaller estimate than the number presidential aides and Ohio Republican leaders had hoped would turn out.

WEATHER COOL

The temperature was a chilly 41 degrees and rain fell earlier in the day. The sun was out when Eisenhower arrived.

In urging all citizens to go to the polls Tuesday, the President sounded the same theme he did in a Washington address last night, when he declared:

"Let's roll up our sleeves, and go harder to work" for election of another Republican-led congress.

In Cleveland, the President said the American people, under his administration, have got the kind of government they wanted.

"We were tired of hearing the word Communist," he declared.

"And every time it was mentioned, it was called a red herring."

LAUDS CANDIDATES

He told his Cleveland audience that Republicans in the state have nominated "a great group" of GOP candidates.

The President called on supporters last night to ring doorbells all over the nation in an 11th hour drive to get voters to the polls next Tuesday and elect another Republican-led Congress to "keep our government from political fiddling while the world burns."

Eisenhower spoke to a coast-to-coast television and radio audience and an approval-shouting 500 diners at a Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee rally in Washington.

If the Democrats recapture the legislative branch, Eisenhower said, the government—with the White House Republican for the next two years—will wind up "in a hopeless jam." He added:

"Let's all of us—you and I—let's roll up our sleeves and go harder to work—for a stronger America, good government and a world at peace. Let's have another Republican-led Congress."

Body Found In Cemetery

Child Victim Of Sex Fiend

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The nude body of a pretty 6-year-old girl who left her nearby Conemaugh home to play Halloween "trick-or-treat" was found today in the ghostly surroundings of a graveyard. Conemaugh Police chief George Fesko said the child "was murdered by a sex fiend."

Fesko said the death of Karen Mauk "is the work of a sex maniac" and added:

"We are rounding up all known sex degenerates for questioning."

Deputy Cambria County Coroner Richard P. Wilkinson ordered an autopsy but said results will not be known for several hours.

Fesko said the little girl's face and body were bruised and "blood was running from her mouth."

Steve Steffish, member of the Conemaugh fire dept., found the body near the entrance of the Cast Taylor township cemetery, two miles from the home of Karen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mauk.

Mrs. Mauk said she reluctantly gave the child permission to leave the house about 7 p.m. last night to take part in neighborhood Halloween activities.

The mother said the child wore a white falseface and a paper hat. The paper hat was found near the body with shreds of the child's clothes. The Halloween mask has not been found.

Mrs. Mauk reported the child missing about 9 p.m. when she did not return home. Police said the mother has not been able to identify the other children Karen joined when she left the house.

Earlier in the evening the little girl had been playing with a cousin, Paul Lindenberg, 6. But Mrs. Mauk said the child returned home after that and then went out again.

Conemaugh firemen and neighbors organized a searching party after the child was reported missing. Firemen blew the siren to summon help.

Chief Fetsko said an attempt to molest a 14-year-old high school girl was reported earlier in the evening.

Fetsko did not identify the girl but quoted her as saying she fought off the man and ran. Fetsko said the girl placed the scene of the attack two blocks from Karen's home.

Karen was a first grade pupil at the Conemaugh public school. She had four brothers, one in the Navy, and two sisters.

Brando To Wed French Girl

TOULON, France (AP)—A two-line notice in a small town newspaper today announced the engagement of stage and screen star Marlon Brando to the 20-year-old daughter of a French Riviera fisherman.

"Mr. and Mrs. Paul Berenger are happy to announce the engagement of their daughter, Josiane, to Mr. Marlon Brando," said the notice in Le Petit Varois of Toulon.

The Berengers live in Bandol, a coastal town of 3,000 about 10 miles west of Toulon, where Brando has been a guest for two days.

Josiane, a petite brunette, met Brando in New York, where she was said to have been employed by a doctor who treated the actor.

EVENING PRAYER

Gracious Father, help us never to lose our wonder at the love Thou showest us. When we are tempted to think we are nothing, and that it does not matter what we do, help us to remember the value Thy redemptive love has set upon everyone of us. Through Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A Final Interpretation By Lubell

Some Who're Switching Still Like Ike

By SAMUEL LUBELL

No report of this election campaign would be complete without some appraisal of what the American people really think of the man who has tried to make himself the central issue of the campaign—but apparently failed.

That man is, of course, President Eisenhower. If, as now seems likely, the voters turn a deaf ballot to his plea for a Republican Congress, many persons will interpret it as a personal defeat. Yet such a political rebuff in the party sense would be in some ways a tribute to the unusual above-both-parties respect in which he is held.

As I have moved around the country I have made a point of noting all the remarks about the President that have been made by the voters with whom I talked. Where two years ago he generally was referred to as "Ike," he now is "the President" or "Eisenhower" to most Americans. The qualities he displayed in office which seem to have impressed people most are his "steadiness," sincerity and —the trait cited most often— "he's a really religious man."

Outside McLeansboro, in southern Illinois, I stopped at a farm which had been ravaged by drought for three successive years. An emaciated woman was in the yard.

"How are you doing?" I asked.

"Starvin'," she replied.

"How do you feel about Eisenhower since he has been President?" I inquired, expecting her to blame at least part of her troubles on him.

"He's a fine man," she replied firmly. "It's good to have a President who uses the Lord's name again."

A remarkably large number of persons volunteered this same sentiment of how pleased they were with the religious references and passages in the President's speeches. "I like Eisenhower's humility," observed a Minneapolis teacher. "The big problems of this world cannot be solved by government. I think Eisenhower knows that. He's done the country a lot of good by reminding us that we must look to God for help."

Not all the comments about the President are complimentary. "All that vacationing," comes in for criticism along with "His golf may be getting better but the country isn't. He is upbraided for being "too weak" by those who feel strongly — pro and con — about Senator Joseph McCarthy. Some voters still dismiss him as "just a military man."

Generally, though, the tendency is to attack "the men around him" rather than Eisenhower himself. Each region seems to have its own "native son" upon whom such abuse is heaped. In New England it is Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams. In the farm belt, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, in Michigan—and this was before he exhibited his knowledge of the yelping

Informal Sidelights At A Formal Program

By JULIAN SCHEER
Charlotte News Staff Writer

It was a perfect day for an inauguration today when Queens College officially draped the academic robes of the presidency on the shoulders of Edwin R. Walker. . .The sun was bright, the temperature in the 70's and the ground soft and cool after last night's rain.

• • •

The program started on the minute, right at 10:30, but only after David Pugh, who directed the exercises, and his aides weathered a minor crisis. . .Dr. John R. Cunningham, Davidson's president who gave the benediction, didn't arrive until the hair-pulling hour of 10:20.

• • •

And there was at least one delegate who made sure he was on time. He arrived in town on Tuesday. The educator, making the most out of the old saw about the absent - minded professor, thought the ceremonies were set for that day. He went home and returned today.

• • •

And there's no college gathering complete without a dog . . . This time the performer was a black and white (nearly) airedale . . . In his opening remarks, Dr. Walker tipped his hat to "our sister institution, Davidson College". . . . Then he added: "Maybe I should say 'brother' in this case."

• • •

Pretty college girls? They had 'em by the score. Queens coeds, dressed in white skirts and sweaters, served as pages and were impressive. . . . A crowd of several hundred witnessed the exercises in Belk Chapel.

• • •

It has been a hectic week for planners, but there'll be no vacations or rest for the weary. It will be business-as-usual come
