

U. N. Disarmament Body Begins Setting Up Talks

COOKE

Continued from 7-A

Philadelphia newspaper reporter. He learned to avoid the fanfare of publicity.

He served in the U. S. Navy in the Spanish War, adopted the personality and policies of Teddy Roosevelt as an ideal, and entered into a brilliant career as an industrialist and organizer.

After Mr. Cooke became deeply impressed with the principles of "Scientific Management," he gained new inspiration from the realism and liberalism of Gifford Pinchot, pioneer conservationist.

Mr. Cooke clashed with law while with the public utilities. Philadelphia as director of public works. He clashed with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers over policies and viewpoints. After four years of reform in Philadelphia, Mr. Cooke went into public service in the World War I period as an organizer dealing with production of ships and supplies.

FRIEND OF HILLMAN

Later, his career brought him in contact with labor leaders like Sidney Hillman and close friendship was formed. The liberal Cooke's progressive ideas kept him in conflict with vested interests, including power, coal and water ways. Time passed and the Great Depression brought Franklin D. Roosevelt in to the Presidency.

Mr. Cooke surveyed for FDR the Mississippi Valley for flood control, a national "Dust Bowl" problem and guided the National Planning Board. He teamed with Senator Norris and David Latta in promoting the Tennessee Valley Authority and its public power program, and continued fighting with private power interests.

Mr. Cooke became the Rural Electrification Administration's chief executive in 1935 when Harry Hopkins and "old curmudgeon" Harold Ickes came into the Washington scene. Problems of war and of labor-management relations within a few years came uppermost and Mr. Cooke worked in the business world for more cooperation between capital and labor.

This phase of Mr. Cooke's career brought him into contact with labor leaders including Phil Murray and William Greene. Mr. Cooke wrote a successful book on labor-management problems in collaboration with Mr. Murray. In 1940, Mr. Cooke was back in public service with FDR and the National Defense Advisory Committee.

WORK IN MEXICO

Mexico had expropriated in 1938 American companies' oil wells in Mexico. In 1941, this situation became a "powder keg" in Washington's affairs. Mr. Cooke adjusted that problem to the satisfaction of all interests. The "great thirst" for water with FDR, and in 1945 Truman went into the White House. The late Truman put Mr. Cooke to work as chairman of the Water Resources Policy Commission. Back in the early days of FDR's administration Mr. Cooke had exhaustively studied the problems of the "dust bowl" preliminary to Federal remedial programs. In the new assignment from President Truman, Mr. Cooke undertook a study of dust and water both in the wrong places. Almost simultaneously, he was involved in a sharp clash with the Communists.

The "great thirst" was developing and the crisis in New York City was considered as mirroring the nation's plight. Phases of this water scarcity problem extended to many of the great cities over the nation. Mr. Cooke in his surveys of water resources brought into full utilization his broad experience, engineering ability, and conservationist philosophy. Toward the end of 1950, Mr. Cooke's Water Resources Policy Commission submitted its report, which advocated broad-scale long-term planning and development.

Then Mr. Cooke left the New Deal and the new world to return to his Pennsylvania home.—J. A. D.

By TOM HOGE
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Disarmament Commission began today the task of setting up five-power arms talks.

The way was cleared for the talks earlier this week when the 46-Nation Political Committee gave the plan unanimous approval. In a rare accord, the resolution was sponsored by Russia and four Western nations. Assembly approval was seen as a virtual certainty some time next week.

The sponsors of the resolution were Britain, France, Russia, the United States and Canada—all ready to run into difficulty in arranging the talks. The United States is reported flatly opposed to French efforts to get the parley going now.

The State Department is said to have no one immediately available who is qualified to discuss the complex disarmament question. Reliable sources said, however, Morehead Patterson, New York industrialist who represented the United States at previous disarmament talks in London last spring, might be available if the parley is held over until the first of the year.

The sources said Patterson is still deeply interested in the arms issue and would like to carry on the task. With the background he absorbed in the London negotiations, the sources added, Patterson would be an outstanding choice to represent the United States in the pending talks.

Except for France, who will undoubtedly be represented by her disarmament expert, Jules Moch, there has been no indication who will speak for the other powers.

The subcommittee is expected to discuss these main proposals:

1. Russia's new plan for step-by-step disarmament accompanied by elimination of atomic and hydrogen weapons.
2. The British-French proposals on which the Soviet scheme is partly based. It calls for outlawing atomic weapons except for defense against aggression.
3. A U. S. proposal which would set up strong control measures to enforce disarmament. The Russian already have served notice they will never agree to establishing a control organ armed with powers they contend belong only to the U. N. Security Council.

Russia's charges of U. S. aggression against Communist China were due for another airing next Tuesday when the U. N. Steering Committee resumes consideration of the two Soviet complaints.

The Russians want the Steering Committee to place on the Assembly's current agenda:

1. Russia's charges that Communist China—with U. S. connivance—has made practical attacks on shipping bound for the Communist Chinese mainland.
2. Russian claims that the United States is guilty of aggression in the area around Formosa and the Chinese mainland.
3. The United States has branded the Russian charges "a plain

RUPTURED?
See O. D. RIDDLE
Surgical Fitter
THROW AWAY that old, dilapidated Truss. Come in and see what's new.
You can depend on Water & Black Surgical Supplies
Carolina Cut-Rate
Drug Store
225 W. Trade Ph. ED 2-1189

Carolina Cut-Rate Drug Store

Alan Hale Jr. (right) and Duke York are having it in this scene of "The Trail Blazers". Movie opens tomorrow at the Charlotte.

Coming To The Theaters

Carolina
Now playing: "White Christmas," "Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Rosemary Clooney, Vera Ellen."
Center
Opening tomorrow: "Passion," "Cornel Wilde, Yvonne DeCarlo, Raymond Burr, Lon Chaney."

Manor
Held over: "Brigadoon," Gene Kelly, Van Johnson, Cyd Charisse, Elaine Stewart.
Plaza
Now playing: "Woman's World," Clifton Webb, June Allyson, Van Heflin, Lauren Bacall, Fred MacMurray, Arlene Dahl, Cornel Wilde.

Imperial
Now playing: "Sabrina," William Holden, Humphrey Bogart, Audrey Hepburn.
Opening Friday: "Human Jungle," Gary Merrill, Jan Sterling.

Dilworth
Opening tomorrow: "Julius Caesar," Marlon Brando, James Mason, Greer Garson, Deborah Kerr, Louis Calhern.
Pineville Road
Opening tomorrow: "Apache," Burt Lancaster, Jean Peters, "Scandal at Scourie," Greer Garson.

Opening Wednesday: "Street Corner," all-star cast.
Opening Friday: "Passage West," "They Won't Believe Me," "Elephant Stampede."

Charlotte
Opening tomorrow: "The Las Vegas Story," Jane Russell, Victor Mature, "The Trail Blazers," Alan Hale Jr.

Opening Tuesday: "Blood Hounds of Broadway," Mitzzy Gaynor, Scott Brady, "Hot News," Stanley Clements.
Opening Thursday: "Raid Deal," Dennis O'Keefe, Claire Trevor, "Thief of Damascus," Paul Henreid, Lon Chaney.

Saturday: "The Lawless Breed," Rock Hudson, Julia Adams, "Fall In," Tracy and Sawyer.

Perry-Mincey Company Furniture
123-125 S. College St.

Square Dance
Tonight 8:30 P. M.
LIVE BROADCAST
WIST 8:30 to 9:30
QUEEN CITY SQUARE DANCE
222 1/2 E. Trade St.

CAVALARIS OPEN HOURS
SKATING RINK
3:00-5:00 Mat. 7:30-10:30 Night
Sat. 10 A.M. 12:00 P.M.
Private Parties
Morehead Bowling
Open Alleys Every Night
915-919 E. Morehead St.
ED 4-3761

KING'S BUSINESS COLLEGE
"First Since 1901"

You're always sure of
RUST-FREE HOT WATER
with a
FOWLER
Electric Water Heater
Garrison & Hopkins Co.
Established 1920
A Complete Plumbing & Heating Service
1509 Camden Rd.
Ph. ED 3-6604

Visulite
Now playing: "The Wild One," Marlon Brando.
Opening tomorrow: "Martin Luther."

NEGRO THEATERS
LINCOLN
Opening tomorrow: "Return To Paradise," Gary Cooper, "Phantom Of Rue Morgue," Karl Malden.
Opening Wednesday: "D. O. A.," Edmund O'Brien; "Three Girls From Rome," Lucia Bosé.
Opening Friday: "The Plains," Randolph Scott, "Killer Diller," Nat. Cole.

Opening Sunday: "New Faces," starring Eartha Kitt and Robert Clary.
Opening Thursday: "Hot Twelve Men," Greer Garson and Robert Ryan; "Casanova's Big Night," Bob Hope and Joan Fontaine.

Saturday: "Savage Frontier," Allan "Rocky" Lane.

Camellia Show Judges Listed

FLORENCE, S. C.—Dr. M. R. Mobley, chairman of the J. R. Mobley Committee, has announced the list of judges for the Second Annual Fall Camellia and Sasanqua Show of the Men's Garden Club of the South, to be held at the South Carolina State Fairgrounds, Florence, Nov. 13 and 14 at the Florence Armory. Admission will be free and camellia plants will be awarded each half hour on a basis of blind drawings from the door registrations.

SHE THOUGHT BLADE WAS FOR SOUP BONE

MOULTREE, Ga., (AP)—A teenage blonde was sentenced to serve from two to four years in the penitentiary yesterday for smuggling a back-saw blade to prisoners in the Colquitt County jail.
Pretty Mrs. Ruth Lower explained to officers she did it because: "The boys in there told me they wanted the blade to saw soup bones. I didn't know they were going to try to get out."
Sheriff Eddie Gordon said the 16-year-old girl was the wife of Dallas G. Lower Jr., of Akron, Ohio, and came here to visit relatives. He didn't identify the prisoners she attempted to help.
Mrs. Lower was sentenced to help enter a plea of guilty.

Carolina Apparel Group Meets Here

Members of the Carolina Men's Apparel Club will attend a dinner meeting in Radio Center at 7 p. m. today preliminary to the opening here tomorrow of their showing of Christmas season and Spring lines of men's apparel. Howard Lamb of Burlington is the club's president.
Approximately 1,500 buyers from retail stores over the Southeast are expected to attend this three-day exposition. Lines produced by most of the nationally known manufacturers of men's clothing and accessories will be presented by company representatives and salesmen covering this region.

Paw Creek Lists Honor Students

A total of 57 students qualified for the "A" and "B" honor rolls at Paw Creek Junior High School during the first six weeks of school. They are:
"A" HONOR ROLL:
Dorothy Williams, Faye Bryant, Delle Darby, Rita Saunders, Barbara DeLong, Lee, Barbara Williams, Anna, Tina, Tim, Jimmy Galley, James Lawing, Eugene Moore, Peggy Bates, Katherine Williams, Patricia Williams, Josephine Williams, Hazel Mast, Corbetta Primus, David Williams, Kelly, Linda Kincaid, James Michael, Gayle Alexander, Linda Campbell, Russell Carpenter, Evelyn Long, Susan Todd, Olin Bealy, Bees McCall, Jane Williams, Thelma Williams, Loretta Wilkinson, Judy Weimer, Donna Watkins, Phyllis Williams, Margaret Williams, Wayne Cline, Barbara Johnson, Sybil Quinn, Barbara Williams, Jerry Akers, Adams, Roger Greene, Donald Williams, Southerland, Jerry Akers, Johnny Cannon, Jimmy Cannon, Jerry Hester, Robert Lavin, Bruce Carter, Mary Ellen Easton, Anna Hester, Nancy Williams, Ruth Sloan, Kitty Sloan and Mollie Todd.

FUEL OIL and OIL BURNER SERVICE
Williams Oil-O-Matic Units for homes of all sizes for warm, hot, water or steam
E. P. NISBET CO.
Established 1927
1818 Baxter St. Phone ED 2-7353

20th Century-Fox presents
CLIFTON WEBB
JUNE ALLYSON
VAN HEFLIN
LAUREN BACALL
FRED MacMURRAY
ARLENE DAHL
CORNEL WILDE

It's a great big wonderful "Woman's World" with 7 GREAT STARS!

It's the kind of entertainment as irresistible and delightful as "Three Cains In The Fountain." It's the provocative, fun-filled story of what lovely ladies will do (and won't do) to get their husbands promoted!

Woman's World in CINEMASCOPE

N-O-W SHOWING!
CENTRAL PLAZA
SPECIAL! Hear THE FOUR ACES
Shows Today
1-3
5-7
9:00
SUNDAY SHOWS AT 2-4-9
Mat. 60c
Night & Sun. 75c
Kids 15c
PASSES VOID ON THIS ATTRACTION!

IT HAPPENED IN THE PIEDMONT...

To the sound of the horn,
A Dynamic Beginning

First warehouse in Winston-Salem, opened in remodeled form

"The sound of the horn for the opening of Major T. J. Brown's warehouse for the first sale of leaf tobacco in Winston marked the beginning of a new era." In the same year, 1872, the first tobacco factory was opened."

On the other side of the Yadkin, one wooden bridge away from herald horn and factory whistle, Salem cherished its old-world ways, kept its quaint school, remembered when Washington stopped there.

Then a new century saw the two towns merge and spring into industrial leadership. Soon visitors were being guided through one of the largest tobacco manufacturing plants in the world.

Rich in history... a leader in manufacturing... Winston-Salem now heads for new honors. With such projects as the restoration of eighteenth-century Salem and the building of a beautiful new Wake Forest College, it is becoming one of the important cultural centers of its area.

"For such a County on the March"

For industry, commerce, or residence, Duke Power Company has met this busy town's demand for power. What a record of growth may be read in increased power use in just ten years—

1945 285,000,000 kwh
1954 285,000,000 kwh
an increase of over 310 per cent!

50
SERVING THE PIEDMONT CAROLINA'S