Another Kid's Daughter Killing Family Row

Union County Man Held In Shooting

By HARRY SHUFORD
Charlotte News Staff Writer
MONROE—A Weddington man shot and killed his high school age daughter during a family argument this morning, according to Union County Sheriff Ben Wolfe. A deputy, R. S. Griffin, said the father, Irvin Yow, is now in the jail at Monroe. He said Solicitor W. H. Rooker will draw up a murder warrant against Yow sometime today.

The victim of the shooting was Helen Doris Yow, 14 or 15 years old according to the father. Officers said he was too "shaken" to be able to give them a clear description of events.

According to hospital attendants at Union Memorial Hospital, Helen Doris was shot once in the temple with a 22 caliber rifle. She was rushed to the emergency room shortly after 7 a. m. in "very critical" condition.

She died about three hours later at about 10:30 a. m.

MEET ON ROAD
Sheriff Wolfe said after the shooting Yow left the scene, and he sent officers to find him. Deputy Griffin along with another deputy, Cliff Dutton, later met Yow as the father was on his way to Monroe to turn himself over to the sheriff.

Deputy Dutton said Yow couldn't tell them much as he appeared shocked by events. Both he and Deputy Griffin said Yow did not appear to have been drinking.

Deputy Griffin said late this morning he told Yow that Helen Doris had died. He said that the father "broke down and couldn't own his reason."

Teacher Tells Of Rescue Which Won Carnegie Medal

By LUCIEN AGNIEL
Charlotte News Staff Writer
A 23-year-old Long Creek school teacher today told the story of an ocean rescue which won her a Carnegie medal from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

Nellie Parker, 23, of Long Creek, said she was on duty at a party that there was something in the news about her getting an award from the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

"The newspapers were trying to find me in Concord. My father, the Rev. J. W. Parker lives near there, but I've been staying here where I've been a sixth grade teacher for the last two years."

What happened last May 23 at Myrtle Beach?

"Well, it wasn't very important," she said. "There was this beach party and several teachers were along to look after some of the ninth graders from Long Creek School."

"I didn't know anything about it until last Friday," said Parker. "I remember a man coming up to me, a member of the party, and asking if any of us could swim."

"We gave the usual answers that I think I said I could swim if I had to."

"About that time, somebody said that Jane Ascroft had been pulled out to sea by the undertow and that she couldn't swim."

"One modest sentence at a time, the story was extracted from Miss Parker. She said she swam out there pretty fast. She found Jane barely able to keep herself afloat."

"Let's turn around and go the other way," said Miss Parker.

'I Thought A Plane Had Crashed' Car Hits Two Houses, Auto

A late model convertible careened out of control near the intersection of Sherwood Ave. and Beverly Dr. at 8:18 a. m. today and smashed into an automobile and two houses on Beverly Dr.

Police identified the driver as Mrs. Katherine G. Jones of 1922 Pinewood Circle. Also in the car was her maid, Johnnie Mae Jones. Witnesses said Mrs. Jones was driving more than 50 miles an hour on Beverly Dr.

The big car first swerved to the left and ran over the curb, then rocketed sharply to the right, across the lawn of James O. Walker, Jr., 218 Beverly Dr., and against the front porch of the B. L. Baker home, 2200 Beverly Dr.

The car was wedged between a tree and the porch, finally coming to a halt after it smashed into a car owned by Miss Betty Baker, which was parked in the driveway.

Miss Baker's car was slammed against the house of Charles S. Matthews, next door.

Mrs. Jones' car bounced off the parked vehicle and also struck the Matthews house, damaging the foundation and breaking off a wall section.

Witnesses said she then put her car in reverse and rammed into the Baker porch, where it did additional damage and became firmly lodged in position between the tree and the porch.

"I thought a plane had crashed across the street," said Faison Kuesler, 2211 Beverly Dr., who had just started out the door when Mrs. Jones lost control of her car. Betty Baker, who was asleep in the bedroom one floor above the crash, said she was awakened rather unpleasantly.

"This was my day off," she remarked ruefully this morning, and this is not my idea of how one ought to be awakened."

Police officers to R. L. Porter and A. W. Wallace who arrived very quickly on the scene, said the car had been driven at an excessive rate of speed.

The Walker children had not departed for school at the time of the accident and there were apparently no children on the street, despite the normal school hour.

Mrs. Jones was released on $200 bond, charged with speeding and reckless driving, police said. Her case is slated for hearing in City Recorder's Court tomorrow morning.

Auto, Mail Box, Signal Light Damaged In Crash

An automobile, forced to the left of the truck. The truck was not damaged. The signal light was damaged on the sidewalk at Church and Morehead St. early today, striking a mail box and also struck a traffic signal box on a light pole.

The accident—occurring about 7:15 a. m.—disrupted morning traffic at the busy intersection and caused about $400 damages to the automobile.

Patrolman A. W. Wallace and R. L. Porter said the automobile, a 1950 Buick, was southbound on Church St. and was headed across Morehead St. A 1951 Chevrolet one-half-ton truck, also southbound on Church St., attempted to turn left into Morehead St. from the center traffic lane.

Taft-Hartley Debate Opens

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's request for changes in the long-disputed Taft-Hartley law was up today for a Senate GOP caucus in which Republican leadership seemed confident they could beat down a Democratic move to pigeonhole the whole issue.

An attempt by Northern Democrats to send the matter back to the Labor Committee—was in effect killed for this session—was being fought for early in the debate, which may last two weeks.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ), Labor Committee Chairman, finished work over the weekend on a break and some of the Western representatives with the understanding that this would not impede recognition of the Vietnam regime as a state.

The Russians and the West already had agreed that nine parties would attend the conference—the Big Four, the Chinese Reds, the Vietnamese and the three Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

SOME HEAD HOME
Smoothing out of the issue of Vietnam status came as the Korean deadlock showed no sign of a break and some of the Western foreign ministers began heading for home.

U. S. Under Secretary of State Walter Bedell Smith assumed leadership of the American delegation as Secretary of State Dulles headed for Washington by plane. En route, Dulles scheduled a stop at Milan to meet Italian Premier Mario Scelba for a talk on the stalemate European treaty and Italy's tangle with Yugoslavia and Trieste.

Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey also left for home today, to take part in his nation's coming parliamentary elections. Several other foreign ministers are expected to leave in the next week or two. The Soviet Union's V. M. Molotov was understood to have said he would be here two more weeks.

Stevens Denies 'Covering Up' Communists

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens flared today "I'm not covering up anybody at any time" when Sen. McCarthy suggested someone in the Army was "covering up" Communists.

The clash came with Stevens in the witness chair on the eighth day of Senate hearings into the McCarthy-Senior Army. McCarthy was seeking to pin the blame on Army officials for not reporting the presence of a spy ring in the Army.

Ray H. Jenkins, special counsel to the Senate Investigations subcommittee, objected to McCarthy's line of questioning. Jenkins said the present hearing must "steer clear" of the question of the loyalty of any individual who came under scrutiny during McCarthy's inquiry into alleged subversive activities in the Army.

McCarthy argued it was a "crucial" matter and the "whole heart" of his controversy with Army officials.

He said Army officials cooperated in the investigation of individual Communist cases but that through "every conceivable obstacle" when the committee moved into what McCarthy called the "far more important" field of who was responsible for putting up a "protective cover" over Communists.

McCarthy said Army officials threatened "minor reports" against his investigation committee staff when the committee pressed for the names of those responsible for "protecting" Communists.

It was then that Stevens, straightening up in the witness chair, clipped out his denial that he was "covering up" anyone.

In the upshot, Jenkins held that questions about the Army's handling of the Peress case were proper and that the committee should not go into the merits of the case, that is, the question of Peress' loyalty.

LIFE IS ACCOMPISHED
For the most part, the forenoon session was a sparring, wrangling exchange which produced little to three new light on the basic issues in dispute between McCarthy and Army officials.

These revolve about Army contention that McCarthy and his aides sought by improper means to secure preferential treatment for David Schine, Schine, a wealthy New Yorker was an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's Investigations subcommittee before he was drafted last fall.

McCarthy and his aides, denying the Army charge, contend the Army tried to use Schine as a "hostage" to influence the subcommittee to stop its investigation of alleged subversive activities in the Army.

SEEK SPEEDUP
The main developments of the session.

The committee had some to speed up the hearings, but this was dropped when McCarthy said he would take him "at least" three days more to complete his examination of Stevens and that he might return to the Senate.

Two Truck Also Needed Help

MALIBU, Calif. (AP)—A wrecker was summoned yesterday after a collision on Ventura Boulevard, but it didn't show up. Sheriff's deputies, anxious to clear the road, finally sent two men to look for it.

Deputies Fred Hadland and Del Crawford said they found it, wedged under a car, and they had to push it out of the way.

They then summoned more tow trucks to take away the wrecked cars—and the first tow truck.

Baruch Says Ike's Atom Pool Plan Falls Short

NEW YORK (AP)—Bernard Baruch, author of one of the first plans for atomic control by international inspection, said today President Eisenhower's proposal for a world atomic pool won't solve the basic problem of security.

He said the idea might expand peaceful atomic uses, but "the dangers of atomic attack would not be lessened." The atomic arms race would not slacken.

It was the first discussion of the Eisenhower plan by Baruch, who played a key United Nations role in the West's early, unsuccessful effort to establish an international-policed system of atomic arms control.

Baruch spoke at the first of a series of City College lectures. Russia and the United States, he said, must reach a general disarmament agreement on all weapons—not just atomic bombs—"if there is to be peace."

"This, he said, is 'the dominant years of our time.'"

The financier and one-time presidential adviser said Eisenhower's proposal "is a halfway endeavor if it succeeds in widening peaceful atomic uses."

"Still, such a pool, in itself, cannot solve the basic problem of atomic control," he continued.

"Whatever is allotted this international pool, different nations would still hold back the larger part of available fissionable material for developing atomic and other nuclear weapons."

Thus, he added, the arms race and dangers of atomic attack couldn't be solved.

Baruch said that when he first set about devising a U.N. proposal for atomic control, "it became clear that to realize the full peaceful use of atomic power, some religious phase of the day's activities, will be in charge."

The religious program will be of 45 minutes duration from 10:15 to 11 p. m. and will be devoted to the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration on May 20, 1975. It will serve as the local celebration for Armed Forces Week.

All-Day Program Set For Eisenhower Visit

An all-day program lasting from 9:15 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. will be held in Freedom Park May 16 when President Eisenhower visits Charlotte.

This program will be highlighted by the Charlotte Boys' Choir, the Charlotte Symphony and the Charlotte Community Chorus, which will be divided into five sections.

A. Grant Whitney, chairman of the Army Advisory Committee which invited the President to the city, announced the program today. He also said that H. H. Everett, acting president of Queens College, has accepted the chairmanship of the committee directing the day's activities at Freedom Park.

The day's activities will begin at 9:15 a. m. with a religious program. Dr. Walter Freed, chairman of the religious phase of the day's activities, will be in charge.

The religious program will be of 45 minutes duration from 10:15 to 11 p. m. and will be devoted to the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration on May 20, 1975. It will serve as the local celebration for Armed Forces Week.

James Kept Begging To Drive The Auto

CINCINNATI (AP)—Ten-year-old James Lykins Jr. kept begging his father to let him drive the family car.

Finally his father said he could drive it back and forth in the city on this morning.

Jimmy lost control. The car struck a baby's play pen near the garage and ran over and killed 15-month-old Douglas Byrnsdale.
