Tshombe Slips Out of Katanga

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe slipped out of his Elisabethville capital Friday, a U.N. spokesman announced. Top diplomatic sources said he fled to neighboring Northern Rhodesia, creating a new crisis in the Congo.

Tshombe was reported to have split with his powerful interior minister, Godefroid Munongo, in a political crisis that could bring renewed fighting in the province. Munongo, sometimes referred to as the real power behind Tshombe, is violently anti-United Nations. He reportedly walked out in a huff Thursday when Tshombe met him and tried to get him to return to Elisabethville from Mokombo. There were reports Munongo had gone to Kolwezi to rally the fanatical Katangese gendarmes who want to blow up the city and the mines and power dams of the Belgian-owned Union Minière installations in that Katangese stronghold.

In Leopoldville, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula earlier warned that Tshombe will be held "personally responsible" for further destruction of installations in his province. He said the central government would take "the severest measures" against Tshombe if such destruction continued.

"A new and perhaps irreparable crisis has erupted at the time everything seemed to be going just right," a U.N. source said of Tshombe's flight.

The sources denied reports that the secessionist leader might have slipped out of Elisabethville to lead a U.N. force advancing cautiously over mine-strengthened roads to the Katanga stronghold of Kolwezi.

They said Tshombe fled to Rhodesia in the belief the United Nations was not "playing the game."

"Tshombe seems to have thought that there would be no place for him in a reunified Congo. He seems to have received no assurances he would remain a key political figure," the sources said.

Africa States Back U.N.'s Congo Drive

(Copyright 1963 by the New York Times Co.)
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Thirty-one independent nations of Africa gave formal assurance Friday of full support for U.N. efforts to unify the Congo.

After a meeting here, they sent a delegation to announce to Secretary General U. Thant their approval of measures taken against secessionist Katanga.

BACK ACTION

Mohammed H. El-Zayyat of the United Arab Republic, as the spokesman, said they had "expressed the full support of the independent African states for the actions carried on."

Only Libya of the African group was not represented at the meeting, because there is no delegate available to attend.

The delegation to the secretary general included representatives of Cameroon, Dahomey, Ghana, The Sudan, Tanganyika and the United Arab Republic.

UNIFICATION EFFORT

El-Zayyat said the meeting was suggested by Ethiopia and Guinea in an effort to help unify the Congo.

Thant devoted his morning to conference with Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, undersecretary for special political affairs, who returned Thursday from a one-week trouble-shooting visit to the Congo.

A U. N. spokesman said no statement would be made for the premier on Bunche's report. Bunche said that as an international civil servant he must reserve his remarks for his chief.

Ole Miss Suspends Student For Heckling, Stiffens Rules

By CLAUDE SITTON
(Copyright 1963 by the New York Times Co.)
OXFORD, Miss., University of Mississippi officials suspended a student Friday night and imposed a stern new disciplinary policy on the campus.

The youth, whose name was not revealed, was arrested by university police Thursday night during the rowdiest demonstration since October against Negro James Meredith. Dr. J. D. Williams, university chancellor, recommended the suspension.

In a related development, Gov. Ross Barnett called on university and state officials to take legal steps to block construction on the campus of barracks and other facilities for federal troops stationed there since the integration crisis began.

The university's action against the student was taken "in order to preserve the academic climate of the university and to allow the overwhelming majority of the student body to pursue their studies without interruption," said Dean of Men L. L. Love. He warned "No disturbances will be allowed to interfere with preparations for exams," which begin next week.

U.S., Russia To Renew Atom Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to hold informal talks in New York's next week to explore possibilities for a nuclear test ban. U.S. sources reported Friday.

The head of the U.S. disarmament agency, William C. Foster, is to represent the United States. Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon K. Tsurupkin is expected to be the Russian representative.

The discussions in advance of the Feb. 12 reconvening of the disarmament conference in Geneva raised some hopes in Washington that real progress might be made in the long-stalemated issue of atomic testing.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and President John F. Kennedy have suggested, in broad terms, that settlement of the Cuban crisis can pave the way for progress toward disarmament and nuclear test-ban agreements.

U.S. Never Promised Planes, Says Cuba Exile

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the leaders of the Bay of Pigs invasion said Friday his forces had never been promised air support by the U.S. government.

Jose A. Perez San Roman, commander of the 25,000 Brigade of the Cuban liberation army forces, made the statement during a visit with five of his comrades to the Justice department.

"We had our own planes, but they were knocked out," Perez San Roman said in an interview in Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's reception office.

The question of support by U.S. forces has been one of the most controversial points in public discussions of the ill-fated 1961 attempt by Cuban rebels to overthrow Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The administration of President John F. Kennedy has maintained official silence on the point.

One veteran of the invasion, Manuel Penabaz, wrote in a news magazine article that Perez San Roman had called unsuccessfully during the invasion for help by jet airplanes. He said the request was made in a communication with an American ship, but the rebels "looked in vain for the air support that could have knocked Castro's planes from the sky."

Asked about this, Perez San Roman shook his head.

Earlier, university professors urged Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy not to remove the 200 military policemen assigned to guard the Negro student.

Their position ran counter to that of Williams. In an informal representative last week, the chancellor asked that the troops be withdrawn and that only a small detachment of marshals be left to protect Meredith.

100 in Cuba to Fly Home Tomorrow

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—After a two-day delay, 100 U.S. citizens will leave for the United States Sunday on the return flight of an airliner that takes ransom goods to Havana, a Swiss diplomat reported Friday.

The diplomat had no word on whether a score of Americans held in Cuban jails would follow. Hundreds of relatives of freed Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners are anxious to leave.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Catholic archbishop of Boston, said Friday that he was ready and willing to go to Cuba to intercede for American and all other prisoners held there. Cushing revealed Thursday night that he had raised $1 million to help ransom the Bay of Pigs prisoners.

The U.S. citizens will leave aboard a Pan American World Airways DC8 that had been scheduled to fly to Havana Friday with 15,000 pounds of medicines as part of the ransom for the invasion prisoners.

The Swiss diplomat said the flight is delayed to give the U.S. citizens — men, women and children — a time to gather their belongings and prepare for the trip.

Train Rolls Over Youth -He's Barely Scratched

CONWAY, Ark. (AP)—A college student lay safely against a rail Wednesday while a freight train roared over him in a tunnel.

Eight inches separated Larry Carter from death. The 20-year-old youth suffered only scratches.

The 94-car freight pulled to a stop after four diesel units on the freight cars had passed over him.

DUG DEEPER
Carter said one car touched him on the back. "I just tried to dig deeper into the gravel," he said.

George D. Curtis of Conway, agent for the Missouri Pacific Lines, revealed the story Friday. He said Carter and Ronnie Hearn, 19, also of Atkins, entered the 2,000-foot tunnel while practicing for the Arkansas State Teachers College cross-country team.

They were halfway through when the ominous light of the diesel appeared in the entrance behind them. They began sprinting. Hearn, who was ahead, yelled, "Can you make it?"

"Yeah," Carter replied, then tripped on a cross-tie and sprawled onto a rail. He rolled off the rail and lay almost against it. Curtis said if he had been lying midway between the tracks, he would have been struck by low-slung brake rigging.

"Since all parts in the United States are not closed," Gleason said, "the committee feels that the Red Cross should utilize open ports."

U.S. Food Giving Jobs To Algeria

(Copyright 1963 by the New York Times Co.)
ALGHIERS—Negotiations are under way to convert the massive U.S. food relief effort here into a "food-for-work" program later this year.

As seen by both Algerian and American officials, the object is to get Algeria's jobless peasants off the demoralizing dole and into useful work projects.

Under this plan, already operating in Tunisia and Morocco, U.S. surplus wheat, dried milk and soybean oil would become "wages" instead of handouts. Moslem peasants, now idle, would receive the food from Algerian authorities as part or complete payment for their labor, thus freeing slender Algerian cash resources for other purposes.

Moreover, it was understood that the U.S. Agency for International Development had approved the continuation of the present relief program at least through early May. Enough surplus food will be shipped in to feed 4 million needy Algerians daily.

PICKRICK SAYS:

It is a shame that the U.N. backed by the U.S. and financed by the American taxpayers, is wiping out the Pro-American, Anti-Communist leader of Katanga. How long, Oh how long, will you support the Communist by trodding upon our friends?

SPEAKING OF
The Congo: it wouldn't surprise me to android read where those boys had had "Bunche for Lunch."
LESTER MADDOX

IN RECENT WEEKS
without my asking, two men engaged in the liquor business volunteered the statement that it cost $20,000.00 to get a liquor license in Atlanta. The information was given in confidence and I'm not a betrayer, but when you speak and hear so much about "courtesy," you don't think about who is courteous. But who wouldn't be for $20,000.00.

A LETTER to the Editor wants to know why they employ so many negroes if I am really for segregation. The answer: The ones we employ at the Pickrick are good people, they are loyal, faithful, they do a good job and have helped in making our business successful. Some of them have been with us many years and if the NAACP or white traitors don't come along and mess them up, they will be here from now on. When we get an employee, white or black, that fails to do a good job or fails to be nice to our customers, they go to work for some other restaurant. We are going to keep it that way. The NAACP, the Justice Department, the Socialists, the Communists and the "D-Gueders" notwithstanding.

$64,000.00 QUESTION
If it costs $5,000,000.00 to send one negro to Ole Miss for four months without his passing in class, how many billions would it cost to graduate a whole class of them from the same school? And I like what I received in a letter from a negro recently. I quote, "if every negro was as proud of his race as I am, and every white man was equally as proud of his race, there would be no amalgamation of the races." But I don't like a column by one of the "Mistakes" at Mercer University (published in the "Mercer Cluster"). The writer of said article "And Who Is My Neighbor?" tries to say that the parable about that good Samaritan is instructions from the Bible that we should integrate. The parable teaches that we should love and help our neighbor and there is no suggestion of integrator or amalgamation, that always and everywhere results from integrator. Shame on you, "Mr. Mistake." I agree with the professor who writes, "If there isn't a brake put on these liberals, I am afraid that Christianity is going to fade from the face of the earth."

THESE CHANGING TIMES
In recent years the word patriot has been changed to mean bigot, rabble-rouser, right winger, and now to extremist. And they have changed negro to negro, to colored, to non-white. A fellow just doesn't know what he might be called next. And I know what a few of you are thinking right now, but don't say it out loud—it's ugly.

AND SEVERAL
times last week, news stories were headlined: "Government Says Non-Whites Want Better Housing." Well—who doesn't? I know many non-colored who want better housing.
