Prison Reform: Out Of The Dark Ages

THE order forbidding the use of leg shackles in 84 of North Carolinas 93 penal institutions earned state prison officials no special halos.

The action was long overdue. For it to come in 1935 rather than years ago is hardly a mark of shiny bureaucratic virtue.

The thought that such barbaric techniques have persisted so long in state institutions—and linger still in nine prison ramps—is a sobering commentary on the march of modern penology in North Carolinas best and most entire that progress since the era of chain gans, floggings and string-ups has been far too modest. Scientific Rhowledge on which to base the necessary prison reforms in North

Between Arab And Israeli: A Fuse

ARABJERAELI relations are like a bugh aline created in the ancient land and grenade tossed into the windown the Western world. The interested nations, including Britain and the U.S. can hear the fuse sputtering but are afraid to seize the grenade and tossi it out for fear it might go off in their hands. So everybody stands around in seeming paralysis and the fire department isn't even in sight.

Russia, of course, lit the fuse by engineering the Czech-Egyptian arms deal which will give the Arab world the means to achieve its desire, the abolition of the State of Israel, unless the West of the State of Israel, unless the West either pours arms into Israel to restrike the military balance or guarantees the of the State of Israel, unless the West either pours arms into Israel to restrike the military balance or guarantees the frontiers of Israel. But laying the blame, unfortunately, does not put out the fire, and it is doubtful if Egypt and Israel have the capacity to keep the peace without outside restraint. They are natural enemies and the circumstances that divide them are natural circumstances of war. They are compelitors for dominance in the Middle East. Israel is a young.

Hark! The Sweet, Gentle, Kind Cat

WELL, the cat-and-bird bit has been wondernized, too. All-powerful science has been dragged into the old battle. The American Feline Society, after looking into the matter, specifically into the tummies of 138 cats killed in highway accidents, comes up with proof that cats do not eat birds, either, and it's the possible that the state of the control of the cats of th

TIC IN THE PULPIT

NERVOSITY is just another way of saying nervous, a pedantic way, perhaps, but we-catching it may be hoped.

Nervousness has played its part in history. The shot all Fort Sumter which set off the Civil War was a nervous one. Napoleon was a nervous type, and not alone because of Josephine. It made him the most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation. That with made him the most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation. That with made him the most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation. The wink made him the most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation. That with most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation. That with most popular preacher in those parts and his congregation mover circulated, or wanted to circulate, a petition for him to move on.

The Scots call it nervish. It is an occur-pational disease with newspapermen, burglars and husbands who have a habit of dropping five bucks occasionally at poker. School teachers get it about the second day out in a new carea and school principals contract it a day later. Parents have had it all along. It is calculated to make one fast moving, fond of cigarettes and adverse to cats tropping across the floor. It is the finest excuse ever invented for not do in the finest excuse ever invented for not do into the propertion of the publisher. "He has the git-up-and-git we need."

Fine story. Never happened. Pipe smokers are commonly accepted as calm, contemplative characters who might rouse up a trifle if the house blew up. Not so. After years of abstinence, I have resumed smoking a pipe and I am still as twitchy as a witch with her broom on fire.
